

City of Columbus – Division of Power
Power Distribution Engineering
Engineer-In-Training I

The City of Columbus Department of Public Utilities is seeking qualified candidates for the position of Engineer-In-Training I in the Division of Power. This position is responsible for performing entry-level practical engineering work with power distribution systems, customer development designs, substations, and protection and controls. Other duties include: learning to coordinate, prepare, and review plans for modifications to distribution, transmission, substation, and SCADA equipment; learn to system plan including determining equipment capacities and protection coordination; learning to perform field investigations; learning to program and test protective relays; troubleshooting equipment misoperations; assisting with testing and fault locating on underground cables; and calculating available fault currents for customers. This role is multifaceted and consists of approximately 20% field work and 80% office work. Applicants for this role should be highly-motivated self-starters that are looking to quickly learn all aspects of electric utility system engineering. Individuals appointed to this classification serve for a limited period of time not to exceed four (4) years and during this time are expected to obtain valid State of Ohio certification as a registered Professional Engineer. Salary $52,915 - $79,352.

The desired candidates will have knowledge or background with AutoCAD, geographic information systems (GIS), and power system modeling software as well as work experience with the design, project management, operation, and maintenance of utility systems. Electrical engineering majors strongly preferred but not required.

To qualify you must have:

- Possession of a Bachelor of Science in Engineering
- Possess a valid Engineer Intern certificate (FE) by the end of the probationary period
- Possess a valid driver's license
