Week 8

Let's meet your characters

Pick

- 1 archetype of your choice
- 1 character card
- 1 room card
- 1 weapon or object card

Invent your character

Build their backstory

Explain their motivation. Their truth, fear and flaw?

How did they end up in this room with the weapon in their hand.

* Remember to think about where they are in their evolution. Beginning, middle or end of their transformation.

World Building and Stage Setting

Mise-en-Scène

“Staging an action”

The director's control over what appears in the frame

- Setting
- Sound
- Lighting
- Costumes
- Props
- Figure Expression
- Movement

Mise-en-scène:

Helps to direct the audience to look purposefully

Provides the visual, acoustic, spatial and temporal factors to guide our expectations

Delivers the cues to infer the three-dimensionality of the scene

- Foreground
- Midground
- Background

Seven C's for Consideration

Complete

It should feel that the world existed before with a sense of history will continue to exist after the story is over.

Connected

It is believable that that character is in this world and how they engage with the world supports the story.

Compelling

The core concepts of the world and revealed details hold audience's interest throughout

Conceit

How far does the audience have to deviate from the real world to believe in the story world?

Consistent

What ever the rules the world, they do not contradict or deviate from the laws of nature as they are understood.

Concise

Just enough detail is revealed to make it plausible. In most cases the world is not the hero.

Concentration

How hard does your audience have to work to keep track of where they are and why it is important?

Stories exist inside their worlds

In many cases world is there to complement the story and not the other way around

- The top-down or outside-in

Create a general overview of your world determining its high-level characteristics, such as history, geography, climate, ...

- The bottom-up or inside-out

Develop a small part of the world that is most relevant to the story. After building it in great detail, the remaining elements of the world are crafted.

Components of a World

1. Build a Map

- Geography and nature. ...
- Locations. ...

• 2. Establish the Physical Laws

- Government, politics, and law. ...
- Technology

• 3. Build a timeline

• 4. Think About The Sociology

- Culture and people. ...
- History. ...
- Economy. ...

Our Free Worldbuilding Template

HOW TO BUILD A WORLD

Where are we?

- Earth?
- Another planet?

What does the area look like?

- Give us a physical description of the region(s)

Are there dominant cultures we're going to meet?

- Help us understand the norms

Who inhabits this world?

- Do they speak the same language?
- Are they the same species?

Who rules this world?

- Is there a person or part of society that dominates?

What is technology like here?

- How advanced is this culture?

Is there a dominant religion?

- What are their belief systems?

How does the world affect the story?

- Both physically and emotionally?

Does the physical world change or arc?

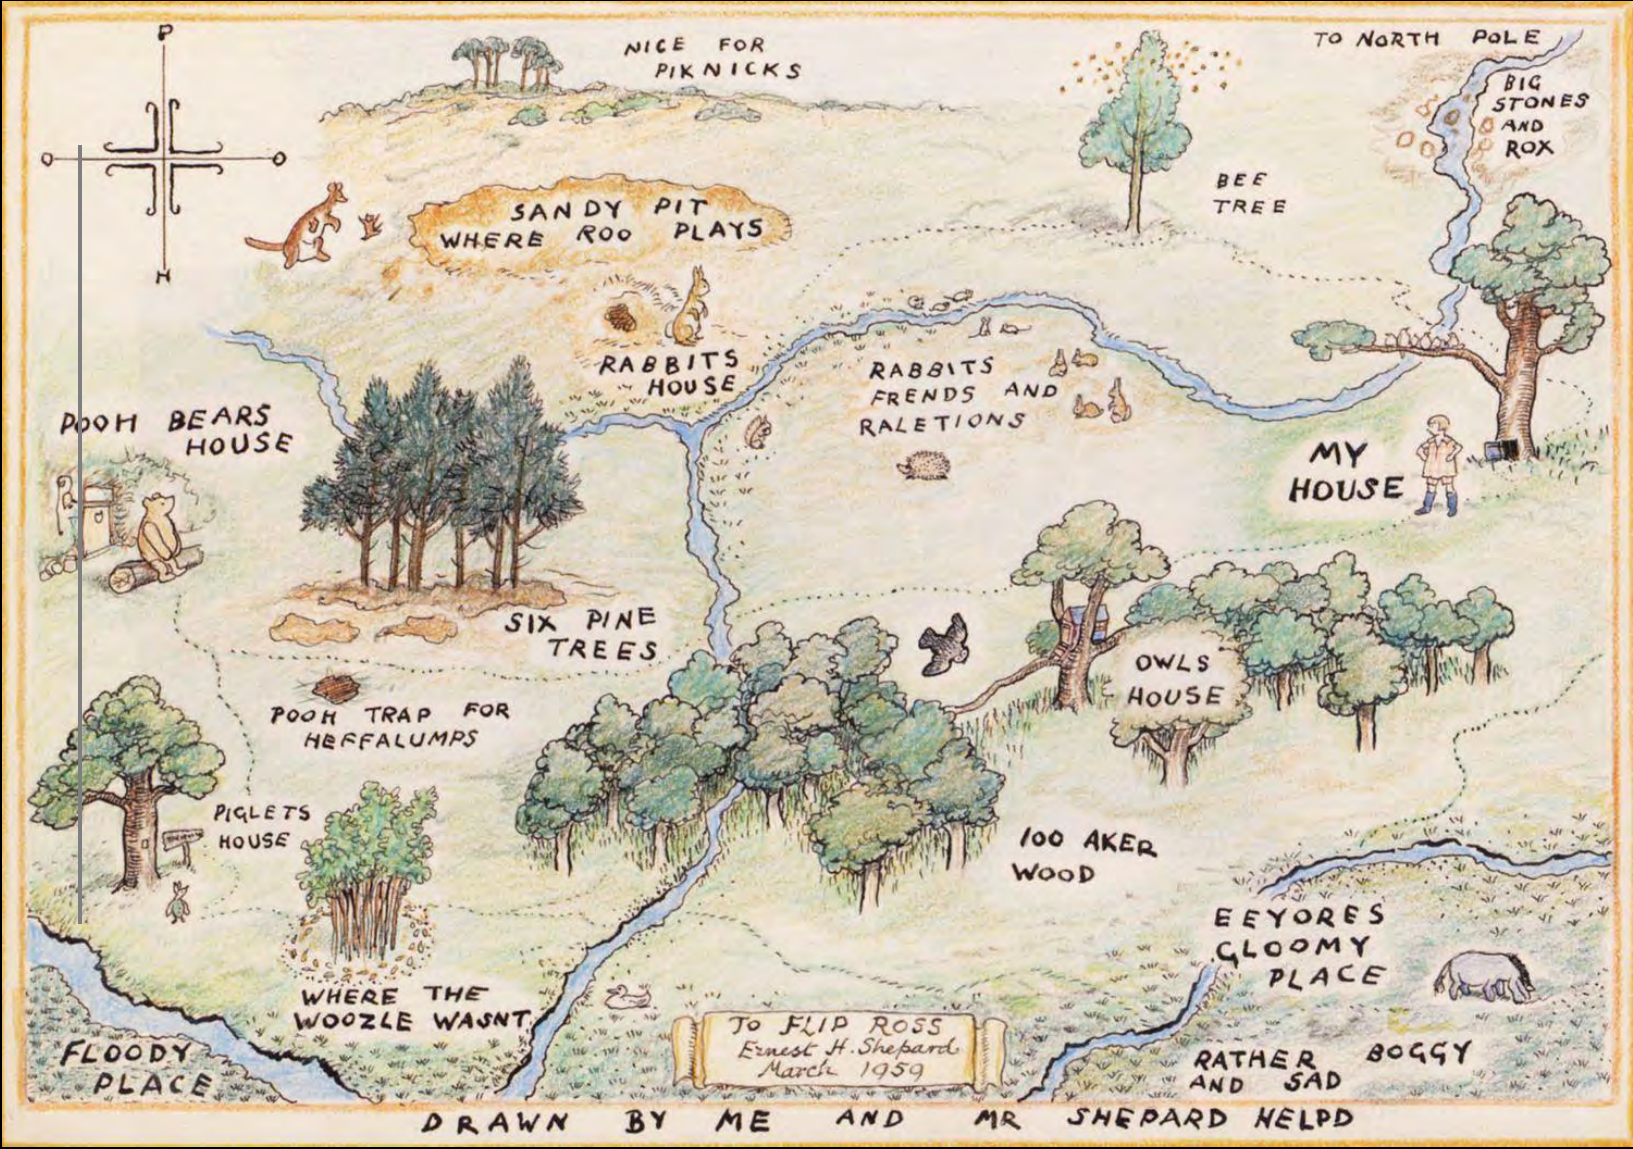

- Has the culture or ruling power changed?

Skykomish Valley Arts & Culture Stops

This little guide features inspirational places to go along a 35 mile stretch through some of the most diverse and inspirational scenery in Washington State – the Skykomish Valley. Named for the river that runs through it, the name has been shortened by the locals to 'Sky Valley'. The glacier cut landscape offers jagged peaks, stunning waterfalls and many swift and flat water areas.

The main route through the valley is US Highway 2/Stevens Pass. This guide offers 6 destinations along this route that are open year around, require no fee, and have interesting heritage and stories behind their visible inspiration.

Think of this pocket guide as an aid to motivating and connecting you with what the valley has to offer. It's up to you to take it from there!

① Osprey Park Stroll

To experience this verdant retreat, turn off Route 2 into Sultan at 3rd street, left onto Main then right into 1st street. Continue for about half of a mile to the park entrance and then continue on 1st to the far end of the head-in parking. Enter the trail at the Oxbow Area. It's a short walk on gravel to Oxbow Pond, a diverse and tranquil sanctuary in all seasons. You'll find a reflective still water pond with cattails, waterfowl and insects, and large trees surrounding. The Oxbow Pond area is easy to access and convenient to set an easel up nearby; bring a chair for sketching.

Nearby Tip - From here it's an easy stroll to survey what the trail has to offer beyond the pond including the Oxbow Winters Creek wetlands. Other park trails include a 2-mile loop with many places to stop and explore with your palette or camera.

② Glacier Architecture

Glaciers are the real landscape architects of the Sky Valley. Your imagination will be captured when the sun is out as well as when a storm moves through. On Route 2 just past Sultan you will approach a roundabout at 339th Ave SE. From here you start to see the broad, U shaped valley carved by an ancient glacier as it flowed downhill during the past Ice Age. The dramatic backdrop includes waterfalls [Wallace Falls seen to your left] and jagged peaks along with an economic resource of the valley - sand and gravel deposits. As a stopping point for gazing at the foothills turn on 366th Ave SE, drive 1 block and pull into the parking lot of the Startup Event Center [currently under renovation], here you will have clear views of the glacial erosion architecture and you can start to have a conversation such as, "I like that granite scarf...how the clouds hang in the hills...and the contrast of fall colors". Set up and capture the scene in your chosen medium.

Nearby Tip: Wallace River Salmon Hatchery is nearby on Route 2. For a close-up look at salmon, turn at 383rd Ave SE where you will find interpretive signing and a fish viewing area. Please note that salmon stages vary with the seasons.

③ Capturing Outdoor Activities

A turn at milepost 30 off Route 2 into Reiter Road will take you on the route used prior to the interstate—the Cascade Highway. This road winds for about 11 miles before reaching the Town of Index. The Reiter Foothills area is an outdoor recreation destination for bouldering, motorized off road activities, fishing and technical rock climbing—if your creative inspiration is capturing such activities you are at the center of it. Most of the activity will be on the weekend and you will be required to hike a short distance off the main road or observe through a telescope. Let your curiosity be your guide.

Nearby Tip: Since the 1890s trains have run through this area and there are many places to safely observe and sketch. To capture the railroad tracks and a dramatic mountain backdrop, look for a viewpoint near the end of Reiter Road about 1 mile prior to Index where Reiter Road intersects with the Great Northern tracks and the peaks of the Cascades are the backdrop.

④ Index: Galena to Hike or Bike

Index is a scenic and historic town on the North Fork of the Skykomish River with a dramatic 360 degree backdrop of granite peaks and walls.

Here you can take a short hike or bike ride from town center and quickly reach the wilderness. A wayfinding kiosk with local places to explore and historical references is located at the Index Historical Museum on Avenue A between 5th & 6th Streets. Take a walk around this quaint town, or experience a pleasant rolling bike ride along Index-Galena road that leads to views of moss covered trees, small streams, the river and wildlife.

Nearby Tip: There is a local hike [2.5 miles round trip] that offers textural mossy trees and rocks and the apex opens to magnificent views of the tallest peaks and waterfalls in the area. Simply cross over the town bridge to the Heybrook Ridge Trail and follow the path [locals inspired this trail].

⑤ Historic Skykomish

The quintessential historic railway town awaits your sketchpad, camera or notebook. Turn off at Route 2 milepost 52. A tour around the town will reveal historic buildings, a river walk, a railway depot with active tracks, and at the end of Thelma Street a nature walk. Drop by the Skykomish Museum in the Maloney Building on Railroad Avenue for a visit. If they are closed take a peek in the window to see the walking tour route. The town's wide sidewalks and plentiful benches inspire urban sketching in a very non-urban setting!

Nearby Tip: Having toured the town and filled up on local architecture and lore, there is a pub, deli and restaurant in town offering a comfortable place to sit down and gather your field notes.

⑥ Colors at the Summit

The summit of Stevens Pass is listed as elevation 4060' at milepost 64.3 on Route 2. At any time of year, the views at the summit are inspiring. If you are visiting in spring when snow is melting watch for 'volunteer' waterfalls along the roadside's sheer rock faces. These falls are delightful. If your goal is to paint snow, this is your destination in winter – but chose a weekday to visit as ski traffic can be very congested on weekends. Come fall, colors are especially dramatic at the summit where you have a unique view of looking both up and down into the ravines. The vegetation is especially painterly surrounded by patches of fall hues and sheer rock.

Nearby Tip: The Iron Goat Interpretive site and National Historic Civil Engineering Landmark at MP 58.3 offers a day's worth of trails to explore.

10 Years of Art, Craft, & Design

Edie Everette Colors BAM!

In 2005, with a newly minted name, Bellevue Arts Museum adopted a cross-disciplinary mission that embraced art, craft, and design equally. This move placed craft on level footing with art and design, positioning BAM at the forefront of the paradigm shift that was progressively undermining old hierarchical structures of value in the domain of artistic production. 2015 marks the tenth anniversary of this visionary leap: a decade of exhibitions and publications supporting emerging Northwest artists and craftspeople; a decade of bringing the iconic work of established international artists and designers to our community; a decade of questioning, negotiating, and exposing the eroding boundaries between art, craft, and design.

To celebrate this milestone anniversary, the Museum has invited illustrator Edie Everette to present a new cartoon each month capturing, in jest, the unique character of Bellevue Arts Museum and its community of friends and supporters. Edie's sparkling, jocose, clever humor will be an inseparable companion to BAM's year-long anniversary celebration.

In addition to her commemorative cartoon series, Edie will be creating several objects in conjunction with the anniversary that will be revealed throughout the year. Be sure to check back!

Edie Everette was a painter and illustrator for years before returning to her childhood love of cartooning. Her cartoons are regularly published in Hyperallergic, Pyragraph and Vermont's weekly newspaper 7Days. Her work has also been published in 34th Parallel, Art Access and Section8 magazine. In 2014 she was commissioned by King County and 4Culture to create HazMatters, a comic book that explores household hazardous waste and personal responsibility.

Bringing the World Alive to the Senses

- Sights: What kinds of objects, natural features, and colors stand out in this location? What tiny details might some people overlook?
- Sounds: What noises, voices, etc. can characters hear in this location? Are these sounds natural (leaves rustling, waterfall roaring) or manmade (the drone of a vehicle motor)?
- Textures/Sensations: What does the character touch in this setting? How does it feel? How about the ground/floor under his feet or the air indoors or outdoors?
- Smells: What fragrances and odors can the character smell? Are they natural or manmade? Pleasing or off-putting? Fresh or stale? Are any smells food-related?
- Tastes: Does the character eat or drink anything in this setting? If so, how does it taste? Do any strong scents leave an artificial taste in the character's mouth?

A woman with blonde hair, wearing a blue short-sleeved shirt, is standing in front of a background of green leaves. The image is slightly out of focus, with the text overlaid in a white, handwritten-style font.
