CURRICULUM VITAE

BIO

Anel I. Flores' areas of study, and production of literary fiction and visual art center around Chicana/Latina literature, sexuality, gender, race/border/diaspora, spirituality, body, blood memory and their connection to identity.

EDUCATION

- 1998 BFA English / Art, University of the Incarnate Word, San Antonio, TX
- 2004 MFA Creative Writing, Thesis: Empanada, a Lesbiana Story en Probaditas, Korima Press & Evelyn Street Press. Goddard College, Plainsfield, VT

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

- 2023 Professional Creative Writing & Artist Coach, Anel Flores Studio. Innovative and motivational coach empowering individuals in the creative industry. Specializing in unleashing artistic potential, I offer personalized guidance to navigate challenges, hone skills, and achieve professional goals. Inspiring creative minds to thrive, I bring a wealth of industry knowledge and a passion for cultivating artistic excellence.
- Keynote and Motivational Speaker, NOTA Inclusion. Working with companies and organizations internationally to continually acknowledge and commemorate important events. By using a first-person perspective, we empower organizations to actively engage with these topics on an ongoing basis.
- 2022 Distinguished Writer in Residence, Our Lady of the Lake University. San Antonio, TX. As writer in residence, I maintain office hours, participate fully in university life, teach a graduate level course, Literature: Race and Class, and offer one or more public lectures to the larger campus and city community.
- 2020-
Present Founder and Executive Director, La Otra: Taller Nepantla Individual Working Residency. La Otra Taller Nepantla builds on the life of Gloria E. Anzaldua's legacy of radical imagination uncovering decolonial alternatives to scholarship, research, the creative process, health and reciprocal relationships among lgbtqia+ Bipoc creatives. Anel I. Flores seeks to reimagine the dissemination of resources for queer writers, artists and healers by hosting the first of a lifelong, biennial, one-month, creative residency for BIPOC creatives to retreat, heal, research, present, teach and share their work without the guilt, microaggressions, stress, financial strain and distraction often found in institutions of learning, in the workplace and even in our own homes. 5-7 Participating practitioners will artistically collaborate on building a shared long-term vision that seeks to eradicate racism, sexism, classism, homophobia, transphobia and the "gatekeeper" model found in too many creative residency programs around the globe. Ultimately, La Taller will serve as a solitary time for each creative to nurture a current individual project while also gaining the constructive feedback and professional and spiritual support of their Taller-Cohort, for a lifetime and beyond. Arroyo City, TX
