

Suicide is preventable and support is available.

The end of a personal relationship. The loss of a job. Everybody faces difficult times in life, and people cope with stressful situations in different ways. When emotional issues reach a crisis point, the Veterans Crisis Line is available 24/7. Every Veteran is different, and many may not show any signs that they're thinking about suicide. But some actions and behaviors can be a sign they need help.

Recognize the signs of suicide risk

Take immediate action and call 911 if you experience any of these crisis signs:

- Thinking about hurting or killing yourself
- Looking for ways to kill yourself
- Talking about death, dying, or suicide
- Self-destructive behavior, such as drug abuse, risky use of weapons, etc.

Contact the Veterans Crisis Line if you experience any of these warning signs:

- Hopelessness, feeling like there's no way out
- Anxiety, agitation, sleeplessness, mood swings
- Feeling like there's no reason to live
- Feeling like you're a burden to friends or loved ones
- Rage or anger
- Engaging in risky activities without thinking
- Increasing alcohol or drug abuse
- Withdrawing from family and friends

Securely storing guns and medication can help keep Veterans and their families safe

Because many suicidal crises are brief, safe storage practices can save a life by increasing the amount of time and distance between someone having a suicidal crisis and access to a firearm or medication.

VA's Keep It Secure program (KeepItSecure.net) promotes awareness about secure firearms and medication storage, the warning signs of suicide, and how to find the support you or a Veteran loved one needs.

REMEMBER: Veterans can request a free gun lock from their local suicide prevention coordinator (SPC). Find your SPC at VeteransCrisisLine.net/Find-Resources/Local-Resources.
