Bayside BRIEFS:

MAYES MIDDLETON TO RUN FOR TEXAS SENATE

Representative Mayes Middleton has thrown his hat into the 2022 Texas senatorial race to fill the seat that retiring Senator Larry Taylor is vacating. Mayes has consistently ranked as one of the top 10 most conservative members of the Texas House in his two sessions in the Legislature, and is also Chairman of the Texas House Freedom Caucus.

"I just filed to be your next state senator for [SD 11]," said Middleton. "I'm asking for your prayers, your support, and your vote." Some of his actions since his election to the legislature include:

Joint-Authored and Voted to Triple Border Security Funding & Efforts to Stop Illegal Immigration.

Co-Authored and Passed the Texas Heartbeat Bill.

Co-Authored and Passed Constitutional Carry – Texas' Strongest-Ever 2nd Amendment Bill.

Voted to Provide Property Tax Relief and to Prohibit State Income Tax.

Voted to Prohibit CRT from Texas Schools.

Co-Authored and Passed Bill to Stop Big Tech from Censoring Conservative Voices on Social Media.

Co-Authored and Passed Save Women's Sports Bill.

Texas Lieutenant Governor Dan Patrick issued the following statement:

"I've known Mayes Middleton for more than a decade. He has always proven himself to be a conservative stalwart and liberty-minded individual. I am proud to endorse Mayes Middleton in the race for Senate District 11. He will be a strong conservative leader in the Texas Senate. Over the past several years, we have worked together to defend Texas against the radical left's attacks and to advance conservative legislation in Texas. Mayes Middleton has a proven conservative record in the Texas House, and I am confident he will be an outstanding addition to the Texas Senate."

Middleton's opponents in the primary election to be held on March 1st are Robin Armstrong, Bianca Gracia, and Bob Mitchell.

GOODBYE 2021, HELLO 2022

The Seabreeze News Division of Historical Fact Checking looked into the history of The New Year's Resolution. The fact is people have been doing this New Year's Resolution craziness for thousands of years. About 4000 years ago, the ancient Babylonians were the first to make New Year's Resolutions. They were also the first to have recorded celebrations of the new year. They celebrated in March when they planted their crop. They had a 12-day religious celebration that was known as Akitu. They made New Year's Resolutions such as they would promise the gods that they would return items borrowed and pay any debts. If they honored the resolution, they believed the gods would give them good luck for the year to come and if they didn't, well, the gods would not give good luck for the year.

Well, that makes one wonder what the New Year's Resolutions were like in the 1920's. Did the people during Prohibition say, "My New Year's Resolution this year is to stay out of the woods and not make illegal alcoholic beverages"? Prohibition did lead to organized crime so maybe they should have just left that one alone.

What about the 1950's? Did 21-year-old Rosie say, "My New Year's resolution this year will be no more poodle skirts for next year"?

The 1960's New Year's Resolutions were probably David saying, "Man, my New Year's Resolution is never to do psychedelics at Woodstock ever again."

The 1980's were probably the years that Joe said, "My New Year's Resolution is never to meet that crazy ass Samantha at the sawmill. She has big hair and bad breath."

Let's jump to 2010. Obama probably said, "My New Year's Resolution is I will never name a snowstorm Snowmageddon again. It was probably over the top and did not look good for my global warming agenda."

That brings us to this year's New Year's Resolutions:

Tommy will get drunk and call all his family and friends on Christmas day to tell them all that he is going to quit smoking (cigarettes) due to his breathing issues. The Seabreeze News knows by the time you're reading this he will be drunk again and smoking like a broke stove.

Miss Nancy wants to lose some fat. Why? You look perfect the way you are. I think you should find a handsome fella to take you out to dinner.

Chad wants to quit drinking and lose 10 pounds. Now, that is some funny stuff right there. I remember him drinking at age 16 and we are now in our 50's. So being in our 50's what's another 10 pounds?

Jacki, good luck with getting on the Jan wagon! She has been on that wagon for years!! She does make a great designated driver.

Jody, good luck with not belching in public. It's almost certain that you will blow that resolution at the New Year's Eve party at The American Legion at 12:05 am.

Tammy, don't make a resolution to not loan money to people that will never pay you back. Instead, make the rule that you will never loan money that you can't afford to give away!

Samantha, I am so glad that in the next year that you're not going to take credit for all your coworkers' hard work!

A very good resolution for many people would be the following: Let's all stop wearing pajamas to the Walmarts. It only takes a minute to put on a pair of pants.

The Seabreeze News wishes a very happy and prosperous New Year to all our readers.

fireworks stand and told the attendant that he wants the loudest stuff that he sells. My best advice to you is move to the country!!!

Dear Readers:

I want all our readers to be aware of this stuff called FENTANYL! This is very dangerous stuff because you may not know it's in your drug of choice. Some of us know people that get high, they don't bring it around us, but we know they get high. Fentanyl is a whole new game changer!! One of my friends passed away on December 8th. He died from a drug overdose, or so we all thought, until the toxicology report came back. He shot up some heroin that was laced with fentanyl! He did not OD. He was poisoned! There is now a serious criminal investigation ongoing into the matter.

Some of you wonder what is fentanyl? Why are people dying from this? How is it getting in drugs that have been around for years?" Fentanyl is similar to oxycontin or morphine, but fentanyl is 10,000 times stronger than morphine. It is used in the most extreme cases of pain management. A quarter of a teaspoon is enough to kill a person that has a low tolerance of pain killers.

In the last 10 years or so, the drug enforcement and law enforcement agencies have cracked down on doctors prescribing painkillers like oxycontin and hydrocodone. An individual can become addicted to painkillers within about 2 weeks. With the painkillers not being easily available, many people are turning to heroin. It is cheap and easy to find. Heroin dealers have figured out that they can cut their product with fentanyl and to their drug stronger and they make more money off of less product. They're also cutting cocaine and meth with this stuff as well as putting it in counterfeit pills. Anyone that gets high is actually risking their life every time they eat street pills, snort a line, or shoot up.

This drug has also made it into street opiates. If you have a toothache, go to the dentist. Do not take some of your old antibiotics and ask Sally down the road if she knows where you can get some painkillers. Those painkillers could be laced with fentanyl and that one pill can kill you.

If you or someone you know is selling laced pills or heroin, you need to think about the consequences. The one that is selling this stuff will face murder charges if and when someone dies from their product. If you know someone that is selling this crap and don't do anything about it, shame on you. If you have an addiction to pills or heroin, it's time to get help. If you don't have insurance, there are free programs out there. Please keep in mind that one shot or that one pill could be a death sentence.

Dear Editor:
The San Leon Yard Birds were so thrilled to have the Banditos assist with our disabled vets and elderly ladies Christmas on December 9th. Boyd was our wonderful Santa. These guys were sooo awesome! They filled freezers, refrigerators, pantries, and brought gifts. They were able to get 3 gift baskets with large hams donated by the VFW in Dickinson. They were so caring to our disabled vets and our elderly ladies. When they were leaving, they told me that anything one our vets need fixed, let them know. Once again you guys made my day the best in several years. I am honored to call you friends.

Thank you!

Sherry from San Leon

Dear Sherry:
I am so glad that some fine men stepped it up and helped The San Leon Yard Birds for a good cause. Boyd made a mighty fine Santa!

Dear Editor:
These fireworks are BS! I am so angry that they are blowing fireworks off at 2 in the morning!! It seems like this is happening more and more often. The wife is awake and 2 out of 3 kids are up, so here we sit listening to people three houses down whooping and hollering and blowing off fireworks. I guess they don't have any respect for their neighbors! I have now sat for hours listening to this nonsense and I am so close to going out there and confronting them. The said neighbor that has us up at 2 am stopped by this morning at 7am voicing his concern about my 10-year-old riding his new mini bike that he got for Christmas. He said his wife works nights and the minibike is disturbing her sleep. I guess this is payback because I didn't make my son get off of the mini bike. Ride on, little dude!

Signed,
Mad as he@# in Bacliff

Dear Mad,
I see this every holiday that fireworks are sold, in fact, three more holidays have been added to the 4th of July and the New Year celebration. You can also purchase fireworks February 25th through March 2nd for the Texas Independence Day holiday, April 16th through the 21st for San Jacinto Day, and May 25th through the 30th for Memorial Day. If you live within 100 miles of the Texas and Mexico border, they sell fireworks on May 1st through May 5th for Cinco De Mayo. Now, to address the problem at hand. You both are crappy neighbors! You allowed your 10-year-old to ride a mini bike at 7am in a residential community. The neighbor told you that his wife was trying to sleep and that she had worked all night. If you had shut little Timmy down on the mini bike, you probably wouldn't be awake at 2am. They would have probably shut it down at 10 pm. You have officially pissed off your neighbor! He probably went to the

San Leon Don's FISHING TIPS
Don is on a first name basis with most of the local fish...

Here it is a new year and winter hasn't even started. The only reports I'm getting and fishing myself are mostly under size trout and drum, sheephead and a few flounder.

I think now is a good time to get your equipment in order, clean your rods and reels, organize your tackle box, and service your boat. Remove the prop to make sure there is no fishing line around the shaft as it could cut your seal and let water in or oil out, either way it's not good.

I hope we have a good spring fishing season. The North Jetty bait camp is closed for the season and will reopen in March. You can still fish off the jetty, no charge.

DEAR STEVE'S WIFE TRAINING SCHOOL TIPS FROM A GRADUATE

Words of Wisdom from the Dear Steve Archives

These tips to help you start out your New Year being a better wife are based on my schooling and experience with Dear Steve. No offense is meant to anyone. According to Steve, these are some commonsense things about their wives that men complain about while drinking cold beer with their buddies.

Negativity

A man wants his wife to be pure, lovable, and innocent not evil and cunning. Nobody likes evil and cunning. So please don't be acting like a Negative Nancy. Be a lover, a caregiver, and a provider. Serve him that cold beer with a smile.

Fix yourself up

A lot of women don't give a damn about how they look at home, but as soon as they have to go out, they get all gussied up and perfume themselves. He is your husband; he is the love of your life. Gussy up for him. Throw away the rags you wear at home and dress pleasantly. Stop smelling like whatever you've been cooking, smell amazing. Look like a princess and he will treat you like one, believe me. Make him feel he married a beautiful woman. You must maintain yourself!! No excuses, no reasons are acceptable.

Ungratefulness

I know that sometimes in a bad mood, we tend to complain. But making this a habit and being ungrateful about every single thing is not good. Men want to feel appreciated. If he tries to do things for you, thank him instead of pointing out what he's doing wrong. If you don't like something, or you want something, let him know in a sweet manner with a cold beer in your hand. Believe me, he will WANT to do it for you. Be grateful for whatever it is you have instead of whining about things you don't.

Complaining about the in-laws

Understand that long before you, he had his family. His parents and siblings mean a lot to him. They are a big part of his life and so are you. Do not try to compare yourself with his mother, ever. Understand that a mother and a wife hold very different positions in a man's life. The tension between a man's wife and his family really disturbs and stresses him out. There is a delicate balance, so try to maintain a good relationship with his family from the beginning. If there is something you don't like, deal directly with the family member instead of going and whining to your husband. Learn how to cook the best fried chicken that he ever had. Find out from his mama how in the hell she gets those biscuits to rise that way.

Nagging

If you need something done, grab his attention and say it ONCE. Say it clearly, say it needs to be done now and say it with a cold beer in your hand. You will just be losing your value if you say the same thing 100 times, nobody likes to be nagged. You are his wife not his mother, so don't start nagging. Tell him you are not going to say it again. Depending on the urgency, he will do whatever you've asked him to do when he gets ready.

Bickering

Please, don't do this. Be like a tree that gives cool shade to a traveler on a hot day. If you constantly bicker with him, he will WANT to avoid you. He will NOT want to come home from the bar. Be the cool shade for your husband when he comes to you after a long day. Make him smile, make him laugh. He should love your company. Don't bicker him with problems and complaints. Relieve him of his stress. If he is worried, help him however you can to relieve his worry. The bedroom is always a good place to start.

The three D's

Disrespect, disloyalty, disobedience. All of these are a big no-no. Have genuine respect for your husband. Having respect in a relationship is very important. Don't do something you know he wouldn't like. Respect his wishes. Treat him like he is your king and he will treat you the same. Be obedient to him. Do as he says, he is your husband and he knows best. Hmm, disloyalty...many married women rather openly flirt with men, which is beyond disgusting. I mean, dogs are more loyal. That's about all Dear Steve had to say on that.

Crazy

We are humans, we tend to get sad and mad and moody. Especially women, it's part of life. But being unhappy and moody all-the-time is a major turn-off for everyone around you. Never act crazy around his buddies. Be happy! Smile. Laugh. Be fun to be around. Tell jokes, make him laugh, be spontaneous, be surprising, and adventurous and always have cold beer on hand! Life is too short to be whining and sulking over things. He will run away to the bar if you are very moody and hard to be with.

I hope these Dear Steve Tips were helpful! Please don't forget to get your very own DSWTS shirts at the San Leon Liquor Store.

Funny Bones

A deaf old lady walks into her local fishmongers one afternoon and asks for a nice fresh piece of cod. The fishmonger says, "Sorry, ma'am, but we've got no cod left today."

The old lady replies, "Yes, sonny, a nice big piece of fresh cod."

The fishmonger tries again, "But we have NO cod left, ma'am."

She replies with, "No sonny, I don't want haddock, just the cod."

This exchange continues with the fishmonger getting more and more exasperated. Finally, he grabs a piece of paper and in big bold letters writes CFOD and shows it to the lady.

With a puzzled look, she says, "But there's no f in cod."

Fishmonger, nodding vigorously, "That's what I've been trying to tell you!"

4 guys were all at a deer camp. They had two cabins, two men per cabin. After the first night, no one wanted to room with Huggy because he snored so badly. They decided it wasn't fair to make one of them stay with him the whole time, so they voted to take turns.

The next night, Joe roomed with Huggy and came dragging to breakfast the next morning with his hair a mess and his eyes all bloodshot. They said, "Man, what happened to you?" He said, "Huggy snored so loudly, I just sat up and watched him all night."

The next night it was Guy's turn. In the morning, same thing, hair all standing up, eyes all bloodshot. They said, "Man, what happened to you? You look awful!" He said, "That Huggy shakes the roof with his snoring. I watched him all night."

Then it was Shane's turn. Shane was a tanned older cowboy, a man's man.

The next morning he came to breakfast bright-eyed and bushy-tailed.

"Good morning," he said. They couldn't believe it. They said, "Man, what happened? How did you survive the snoring?"

He said, "Well, we got ready for bed. I patted Huggy on the butt, tucked him into bed, and kissed him good night. Huggy sat up and watched me all night." With age comes wisdom.

A grizzled old man was eating at a truck stop when three motorcycle gang members entered the restaurant. The first one walked over to the old man, put out his cigarette in his pie, and proceeded to take a seat at the counter. The second one walked up to the old man, spit in his glass of milk, and went over and had a seat at the counter. The third one walked over to the old man, flipped over his plate, and proceeded to have a seat at the counter. Without a single word spoken, the old man peacefully left the restaurant. Not long thereafter, one of the bikers says to the waitress, "Hmmm, not much of a man was he?" The waitress replied, "Not much of a truck driver either. He just backed his semi over three motorcycles in the parking lot."

Two elderly women were out driving in a large car, neither one could hardly see over the dashboard. As they were cruising along, they came to an intersection. The stoplight was red but they went on through. The woman in the passenger seat thought to herself, "I must be losing it. I could have sworn we just went through a red light!" After a few more minutes they came to another intersection, the light was red, and again they went right through. This time, the passenger was almost sure that the light had been red, but was also concerned that she might be seeing things. She was getting nervous and decided to pay very close attention. At the next intersection, sure enough, the light was definitely red and they went right through it. She turned to the other woman and said, "Mildred! Did you know we just ran through three red lights in a row? You could have killed us!" Mildred turned to her and said, "Oh My God!! Am I driving!!"

Fay Chester was a busy housewife with a demanding husband, six children, and a large house.

The only relief she got from her chores was the twice-a-week bridge game she shared with a dozen other women. The only flaw in the bridge club relationship was that Fay loved to tell off-color stories and the girls didn't want to hear them. To teach Fay a lesson, the other women decided that the next time she told an off-color story, they'd just get up, walk out, meet at another home but without Fay.

Sure enough, at the next meeting, Fay started, "You know, girls, there's a rumor going around that a busload of prostitutes will be leaving in the morning for that big gold find up in Alaska, and they say...." Just then, the women all stood up and started for the door. Fay was disconcerted but only for a moment, then she understood what was going on and said, "Hey! Girls! Hold on, hold on! There's plenty of time 'cause the bus doesn't leave till morning!"

Groundwater vs. Surface Water

Surface water is water that’s found on the surface of the planet, such as in rivers, lakes, or oceans. Groundwater is water held underground in the soil or in the pores and crevices in rock. So, what’s the big deal? Well, there has been a shift in recent years to more efficiently utilize the state’s surface water due to significant subsidence, especially in the greater Houston area (see map).

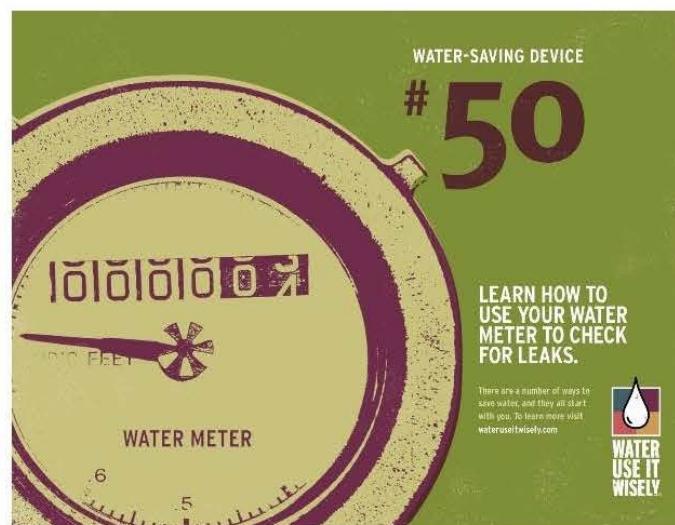

Subsidence is the gradual sinking of an area, in this case caused by the amount of water drawn out of the ground exceeding the amount of water being redeposited into the ground. By switching to surface water, we allow the hydrologic cycle to replenish the aquifers underground, mitigate subsidence, and prevent more serious flooding due to the decreased elevation of the area. Everyone wins with surface water! For a great video describing groundwater, check out this video: <http://bit.ly/SLWater>

In recent years, he had lived and worked in Florida. After his retirement in 2021, John moved back to Bacliff, Texas to the family home. He was enjoying retirement where he could pursue his love of travel, reading, photography, riding his motorcycle, and spending time with his friends and family. He was a loving and fun uncle who will be dearly missed. Preceded in death by his parents Robert H. Redfield, Sr. and Betty Redfield, brother Robert H. Redfield, Jr. He is survived by his niece Jennifer Bencivengo and husband Darren and their children Ashley Bencivengo, Andrew Bencivengo, Austin Bencivengo and nephew Robert H. Redfield III and wife Mandi, their children Brayden Redfield, Dylan Redfield and Avery Redfield. Services to be announced at a later date.

BRIAN McCORMICK, SR.

On Saturday, December 18, 2021, Brian McCormick Sr., loving husband, father of four children, and grandfather of 13, passed away at the age of 81.

Brian was born on April 15, 1940, in Belfast, Northern Ireland to Robert and Mary (Campbell) McCormick. He grew up in a strong Catholic household on St. Katherine's Road in Belfast where he was the second youngest in his family of 11 kids. He worked hard even as a kid to help his family doing many odd jobs including delivering coal with his donkey and walking greyhounds from the dog track. He loved dogs and often brought home strays, or well, dogs that he considered strays. His mother was often surprised in the morning when finding a stray sleeping under her kitchen table. (Sometimes they didn't like anybody but Brian.) He was a scrapper with a bit of a temper and fought hard to defend his religion and family. He left school at the age of "14" to join the work force only to find out that he was actually 13 (he knew that-he just wasn't telling the school) and was called back to school for another year-which he hated. Once again in the work force, he had an accident in the factory where he worked resulting in the loss of sight in his right eye which has never slowed him down. He left the factory and began work as a pork butcher at Belfast Food Products when he was 17.

He visited the United States for the first time in 1959 to visit his sister, Bridie, and fell in love with it. He immigrated permanently in 1962 to pursue the American Dream. He came through Ellis Island on the Queen Mary, and he began work as a butcher. In 1964, he met Betty Sassman. They were married on Friday, November 13, 1964. They had a small service at their local Catholic church. Since it was Friday the 13th they were told they could not have music. Their friends and family hummed "Here Comes the Bride" as Betty walked down the aisle. They settled in New Jersey, and he became a union electrician working in both New York and New Jersey. Eventually, they moved to California and the warmer weather. Together they raised four children: Brian Jr., Erin, Michael, and Seamus. In California he began working in the aircraft industry supporting the building of many famous aircraft including his favorite the B2. He worked at both Lockheed Martin and Northrop Grumman with top secret clearances.

Brian was the life of any and every party. He was loved by all and cherished for his sense of humor and religious devotion. He treasured his Irish heritage and instilled a love for all things Irish in his family. Many Friday or Saturday nights were spent at his sister Bridie's house in Covina singing Irish songs and reminiscing about the old country. He loved to sing! However, he was not blessed with the best voice-which didn't slow him down a bit. He sang loud and proud (the verses he could remember) waving his arms in the air and loving every moment. Finishing a fair number of choruses with "Bring me another beer!" His weekends always ended with the entire family piled into a pew at mass-where he continued to sing.

He was always up for an adventure- leaving his country: moving across his new country, traveling the world, enjoying over 20 cruises. Many of his trips were with his children and grandchildren. He traveled to Alaska, Las Vegas, Germany, Ireland, England, France, Italy, Vatican City, Amsterdam, Mexico, the Caribbean (to name a few) all the while entertaining his grandchildren and making everyone laugh. He loved every place he went, whether it was the countryside, city, fancy hotels, or remote camp sites. He always held that childlike wonderment for new things that he saw. As Brian got older and travel was a little harder, he was still very happy because he loved his house. He often referred to it as his "castle."

Brian is survived by his wife of 57 years, Betty McCormick, his son Brian Jr. of California, with his wife Wendy, their children Brian III, Connor, Kami, Kara, Kali, and Seamus, his daughter Erin of Texas, with her husband James Young and their children Brendan, Miranda, and Ashley, his son Michael of California, with his wife Sarah, and their children Emily and Gavin, his son Seamus of Texas, with his wife Melonie, and their children Nolan and Pistol. He is also survived by his brother Hugh McCormick of London, England, his sisters Jean Armstrong and Mary McMahon both of Belfast, Northern Ireland, nearly 50 nieces and nephews, and many extended family members.

He was preceded in death by his parents, his brothers Robert, Arty, Sean, Frances, Tony, and his sister Bridie.

Brian will be greatly missed, and his memory will be treasured by all that knew and loved him.
