July 8th, Galveston County experienced the biggest category 1 Hurricane that most of us have ever seen, especially since it was supposed to make landfall in Mexico.

To the new folks in the area, when the weather reports say a storm is going into Mexico that is your warning to get your evacuation plans in order.

I can think of a few occasions in the last 4 years that the meteorologist has said that a hurricane is going to south Texas and it crawled up the coast to us. Keep in mind, if a hurricane goes to the south of Galveston County, we will be on the "dirty" side of the storm. If there is a hurricane that makes landfall in Corpus Christi or even Brownsville, Galveston County will most likely get a storm surge along with heavy

We will also lose power, but look on the bright side CenterPoint just said that they will have a new user friendly Outage tracker! Hum, I have no power, no internet and my phone died. I sure wish I could see the new outage tracker! I call bull shit on that one! I want to know when my power will be back on!

Shame on you CenterPoint. There were many rumors that the linemen were staged but they were negotiating pay. There was also rumor that the linemen were staged late. Whatever the case is, CenterPoint must do a better job. We can all hope that the governor of the great state of Texas will do something about this, people died due to heat related issues.

The day the hurricane hit they claimed they were "ready." That couldn't be further from the truth. In a bombshell statement, the CEO of CenterPoint, Jason Wells, said he never bothered to call acting Governor Patrick or Texas Department of Emergency Management Director before the storm hit.

A SURREAL, DEADLY EVENT, AND NOW A COVER UP?

The Seabreeze News tries to refrain from political news, but this was a horrific act and will be recounted.

On July 13th there was an assassination attempt on Former President, Donald Trump during a campaign rally in Pennsylvania, which left a spectator dead, and two critically injured and the gunman dead.

How did this happen in a country with CIA, FBI, Secret Service and State and Local Police? We are grateful to the secret service who pounced on Trump.

Who dropped the ball?

If they would have secured ALL rooftops in the area, this would have not been an issue - as kids most of us have been on a slanted roof.

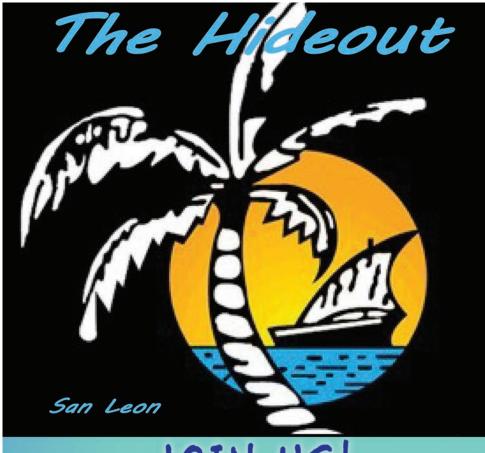

All agencies involved still have not figured out how this 20 year-old could shoot a former President of The United States. This kid should have been stopped long before he shot Trump, according to the timeline of

The Seabreeze News dislikes when a bad actor dies, they should go to prison where their new girlfriends name is Bubba.

For the record I would be just as upset if this would have been Biden.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I am writing you this letter about our trash service here in San Leon, after hurricane Beryl they missed picking up my trash one day and they came a day late on one other occasion. My trash is included in my water bill! I don't have a choice on who picks up my trash! I am very upset that they have not even touched all the debris from Beryl. This is my first hurricane in San Leon and I am not satisfied in the way the trash and debris have been handled. I think the water department dropped the ball on this one.

Thank you for your time, Jack

Dear Jack,

First of all welcome to Sunny San Leon. We are a small community that pulls together after a storm or a hurricane. After Beryl if all you had was some debris and a full trash can count your blessings. There was many folks that lost power for over a week, some lost their roofs, cars were under water and their appliances fried when the power did come back on.

The trash company also had employees that had no power or no vehicle to get to work. We are all human. The debris that has not been picked up, well Sir, that is the county's job, you can call Galveston county on that one. Good luck with that.

The San Leon Mud did not drop the ball on anything. They were at the water department maintaining generators during all of that bad weather so we could all have water.

The San Leon MUD is currently taking bids for trash service, what you need to do is go buy yourself a fleet of very expensive garbage trucks and put your bid in the hat. Signed: Concerned for our own safety.

August is National Water Quality Month!

Just try to imagine what life would be like without easy access to clean water. There would be no fountains to quench your thirst when you're out on a hot day. No more pools, and no more lakes and rivers clean enough for recreational activities. No more drinking water straight from the tap, or even filtering it through your Brita. Our lives would be totally different. and not for the better. National Water Quality Month reminds us to take a moment to consider how important these water sources are not just to humans, but also to the other inhabitants of these ecosystems. By thinking about the little things that you do on a daily basis that could have a negative effect on water quality, you'll be one step closer to making a difference. Visit www.nationalwaterqualitymonth.org for tips on how you can help preserve and protect our natural resources.

Galveston County Health District urges caution due to rising cases of Vibrio Bacteria related Illnesses

Post Date: 08/01/2024 8:37 AM

GALVESTON COUNTY, Texas —

Galveston County Health District (GCHD) is issuing an important public health alert regarding Vibrio bacteria, a group of bacteria commonly found in marine environments. Galveston County Health District has been working closely with UTMB due to an increase of Vibrio cases this year. Recent reports of Vibrio infections have raised concerns about the potential health risks associated with exposure to these bacteria, especially during the summer when water activities peak.

Overview of Vibrio Bacteria

Vibrio are naturally found in warm coastal seawater around the world. The bacteria are present throughout the year but are more prevalent in summer when the water is warmer. Vibrio cholerae, Vibrio parahaemolyticus, and Vibrio vulnificus are the most common species responsible for infections. "While Vibrio bacteria can be present in Galveston waters, there's no need to panic. Use common sense: avoid raw seafood, practice good hygiene, and stay informed to keep safe." Dr. Phillip Keiser, the Local Health Authority and CEO of the Galveston County Health District, said. Statistics show it's rare for a person to develop a severe infection from Vibrio bacteria. When such infections occur, it's common for the affected person to have preexisting immune-suppressing health conditions and open sores or wounds.

Recent Outbreaks

Recent surveillance has identified an increase in Vibrio-related cases from Galveston Beach. The majority of reported cases involve severe wound infections from Vibrio vulnificus, with a few gastrointestinal illnesses from Vibrio parahaemolyticus and cholera-related illnesses from Vibrio cholera. Health officials are working diligently to investigate the sources of these infections and implement measures to prevent further cases.

Symptoms and Risks

Symptoms of Vibrio infections can vary depending on the species:

Vibrio cholerae: Causes cholera, which is characterized by severe diarrhea, vomiting, and dehydration.

Vibrio parahaemolyticus: This leads to gastroenteritis with symptoms such as diarrhea, abdominal cramps, nausea, and vomiting.

Vibrio vulnificus: Can cause wound infections, which may lead to severe complications or even be life-threatening, especially in individuals with weakened immune systems or liver disease.

Preventive Measures

To protect yourself and others from Vibrio infections, the Health Organization recommends the following precautions:

Avoid Raw or Undercooked Seafood: Ensure seafood is cooked thoroughly before consumption. Avoid eating raw shellfish, especially from areas with reported Vibrio outbreaks.

Practice Good Hygiene: Wash hands thoroughly with soap and water, particularly after handling raw seafood.

Protect Wounds: Keep any cuts or open wounds covered and avoid exposure to seawater if you have an open wound.

Stay Informed: Pay attention to local health advisories regarding water quality and seafood safety.

What to Do If You Suspect an Infection

If you experience symptoms consistent with a Vibrio infection, such as severe gastrointestinal distress or wound infections following exposure to seawater, seek medical attention promptly. Early diagnosis and treatment are crucial to managing symptoms and preventing complications.

The Health District is committed to safeguarding public health and collaborating with local health departments and marine authorities to address this issue. We urge the public to follow the recommended preventive measures and to remain vigilant during the summer months.

Anyone with questions about their health status should consult their healthcare provider. Those with additional questions about Vibrio can find information online at www.cdc.gov/vibrio.
