Bayside BRIEFS:

MATT WIGGINS INDICTED FOR MISUSE OF OFFICAL CAPACITY

Matt Wiggins has been booked into the Galveston County Jail on the felony charge of abusing his role as President of the Galveston County Water Control and Improvement District No. 12 (WCID No. 12). Wiggins was arrested August 12th on the charge of Abuse of Official Capacity – a state jail felony – after an indictment was handed down by a Galveston County grand jury earlier this week. The charge stems from the use of WCID No. 12 customer money to send out political attack letters in the monthly water bills of more than 2,000 customers. The investigation that resulted in the arrest of Wiggins began with a criminal complaint filed by Dolcefino Consulting in March of 2020. “We applaud the Galveston County District Attorney Jack Roady, the DA’s Public Integrity Unit, and the Texas Rangers for bringing this misuse of public funds to the grand jury,” says Wayne Dolcefino, President of Dolcefino Consulting. “Wiggins should resign immediately as President of WCID No. 12, and the Kemah City Council members who just voted to put him on the powerful Kemah Community Development Corporation board knowing that he was under investigation, should resign too.”

This is not the first time that Wiggins has been investigated criminally. During his time as the Mayor of Kemah, Wiggins was accused of taking advantage of hurricane victims to add to his real estate empire. In the current case, Wiggins’ bond is set at $5,000. There has been no comment yet from Kemah City Hall. Wiggins was mayor of Kemah from 2006 until 2011 and ran an unsuccessful campaign for mayor earlier this year.

NEW LAWS FOR TEXANS

As September 1st arrived, more than 600 new laws took effect in Texas. Everything from lemonade stands to firearms, education to medicinal marijuana. Some of the major changes came about due to the Winter Storm of February and the coronavirus pandemic. Chances are at least one of them will have an impact on your life. Highlighted here a just a few of the new laws passed this year. Arguably the most heart wrenching component of the pandemic was the inability of family members to be physically present in the hospital as so many people left this world without the comfort of their loved one. The cruelty of knowing the one you love is passing and you are not even allowed in the building has caused trauma that is never ending and scars that will never heal. Texas took a step to help correct that going forward. HB 2211 relates to in-person visitation with hospital patients during certain periods of disaster. A hospital may restrict the number of visitors a patient may have, but that number cannot be fewer than one. They are allowed to require a complete health screening and the wearing of personal protection equipment at all times. Entry can be denied to those who refuse. It is doubtful, if not unbelievable, that anyone would refuse any condition presented for the opportunity to be bedside.

Praying for our fallen heroes in Afghanistan

Also new this year is a law referred to as “constitutional carry.” This one removes the requirement of obtaining a state-issued license (and the training and background check that is part of that process) in order to carry a handgun in public. Background checks are still required by federal law when purchasing a firearm from a licensed dealer. Texans may now carry pistols openly or concealed, as long as they are not prohibited from possessing it. Another popular change expands beer and wine sales on Sundays. Previously, beer and wine could not be purchased before noon on Sundays. The new law permits sales beginning at 10 a.m. until midnight. Following are some, but not all, recent additions. Places of worship cannot be ordered to close for any reason by any government agency or public official, including during a disaster. The Star-Spangled Banner Protection Act will require professional sports teams that have contracts with the state to play the anthem prior to the start of every game. Blocking Emergency Vehicles, it will now be a felony offense if protesters knowingly block an emergency vehicle that has audible sirens and visible signals like flashing lights. Vaccine passports are now prohibited in Texas. Businesses that require customers to provide proof of vaccination will be in violation of the law. If a business violates this ban, they will be barred from state contracts and grants. Medicinal Marijuana, people like veterans, who suffer from post-traumatic stress disorder, cancer patients and other medical conditions that have been approved for certain research programs, will have access to medical marijuana and doctors will be able to prescribe low-THC cannabis for qualifying patients. The new law also raises the dosage limit of THC from .5% to 1%.

Finally, under the heading of “common sense,” children in Texas no longer will be required to obtain a permit to open a lemonade stand. Under the Lemonade Stand Law, children (under 18) are not required to have permits to run lemonade stands on private property. This includes any stand selling non-alcoholic beverages. Police and other enforcement officers, including Health Department regulators, cannot shut down children’s lemonade stands that are on private property or in public parks. Cities and homeowners’ associations are banned from passing ordinances or rules that regulate children’s lemonade stands on private property.

Letters To The Editor

that live all over the USA and our water prices are very cheap compared to a lot of my lady friends. I was online today and saw a lot of posts about one of the 3 rude men that filmed with his phone rushing the man that is running our volunteer fire department. Shame on him! If that would have been my husband or my sons, that boy would have taken an old-fashioned Texas butt whooping. With that being said, I think if there is corruption it needs to be proven in a court of law not senseless rants on social media.

Signed,
Tired of it in San Leon

Dear Tired,
I couldn't agree more.

Dear Editor,
I may be a little paranoid, but it seems like my neighbors are conspiring against me. I think they call each other and decide they will all mow on a certain day to make me look bad. I just mowed my place eight days ago and everyone around me mowed today.

Signed,
Suspicious in Seabrook

Dear Suspicious,
You are not being paranoid. They are conspiring against you. My advice to you is have your wife pull that push mower out of the garage every morning before she goes to work and give the place a little touchup.

Dear Editor,
I would like to pass along a little piece of advice that some men need to know. When buying a work van DO NOT choose THE WHITE VAN!! A woman will not date you, look at you, or park next to you. If I pull in a Kroger and there is prime parking up front and there is a WHITE VAN next to the prime spot, nope, not happening. I will park at the back of the parking lot before taking the prime spot next to the WHITE VAN. WHITE VANS are plain creepy! How many scary movies have you seen where the perpetrator drives a WHITE VAN? It's been said that WHITE VANS are the modern boogeyman. For instance, I saw this news item from 2019. "Unconfirmed rumors about men driving white vans to kidnap young women and sell body parts in the US have been wreaking havoc online. The escalating hysteria on Facebook resulted in Baltimore Mayor Jack Young issuing a warning urging people to avoid the vehicle." He later admitted that he didn't get this warning from the local police, but from Facebook.

Signed,
Careful in Kemah

Dear Careful,
That's some interesting observations. Are you by any chance related to Suspicious in Seabrook?

Dear Editor,
I know a lot of people have a rough time falling asleep and staying asleep. Please have your readers try the Calm app. It plays sounds like rain, thunderstorms, and crashing wave sounds. It helped me so much. Let me know how it works for you.

Signed,
Sleeping in La Marque

Dear Sleeping,
If I lived in La Marque that would be a great app. But for me and a lot of our readers we live directly on the coast. When you live on the coast while sleeping those sounds are not soothing. Your mind starts racing with thoughts such as is it high tide? Do I need to raise the boat in the lift? Is the car going to go under? Is it a tropical event? Well, you will lay there and toss and turn for hours waiting till sunrise to find out all the anxiety-causing noises are coming from your phone and you paid good money for it!

Dear Editor,
I am a retired woman due to my health not by choice. I have a neighbor that has retired due to age and he's always bragging about how much money he has. He has no car and has started becoming dependent on me to take him to the post office and grocery shopping. I have no problem helping anyone out, but the last time he got in my truck he stunk so bad! Because he is my neighbor, I notice that he has the same clothes on for 2 or 3 weeks. I feel bad for not helping him out but I don't know what to do. Please help!

Signed,
Putting up with stinky in Bacliff

Dear Stinky,
Hey, a woman should never put a stinky ass man in her truck! But if you must, you might consider hosing him down first or making him ride in the back.

Dear Editor,
I am a 66-year-old widowed woman. I live alone and I have a lot of time on my hands. I frequently go onto the Facebook and Next Door apps. I find a lot of helpful tips and services like the nice young man, John, that helped with my dead trees after the freeze. I can't help but notice all the negative stuff about the fire department and the sweet young men and women that risk their lives to save lives in a burning house. I see 3 men that are so rude to people that I hope they don't talk to their moms with that same mouth. They are very rude to ladies and I wonder why men feel it's ok to talk to ladies like that. I have been in San Leon for 57 years and have never suspected the fire or water department of stealing my money. I talk to long-time friends

San Leon Don's

FISHING TIPS

Don is on a first name basis with most of the local fish...

San Leon is still a fisherman's paradise. Fish are being caught all around San Leon, especially out in the deep water around the channel area on the shell flats. Most fishermen use live shrimp under popping corks for best results in catching speckled trout. Guides are catching their limits most of the time. We all know it's very hot so be sure to drink a lot of water to keep hydrated.

A late report from Port Bolivar's North Jetty reports that bull reds of good size are being caught, also some nice flounder and some speckled trout in the 10-inch range. If you don't have a boat, try this jetty out. It's a good family way to get out and fish. Be sure to have your fishing licenses. The bait camp has bait on occasion and snacks and cold drinks.

DEAR STEVE'S WIFE TRAINING SCHOOL TIPS FROM A GRADUATE

Couples Who Play Together Stay Together

This little love story starring fellow Seabreeze News columnist Don Wimberly and his wife, JoAnn, goes back 47 years in a little community known as San Leon. Though they tried to leave a couple of times, they always found themselves right back in our "Small Drinking Community with a Big Fishing Problem."

It all started in the mid '70's when a friend of Joann's set her up on a blind date. Not with Don, but fate stepped in at a beer joint far away and two years later they were married at Camp Folly (beer joint) right here in San Leon. Now, I know my stories are supposed to be about "wife training" and if you follow closely, I believe you will see that although JoAnn claims not to be trained, secretly ole Don was doing some training.

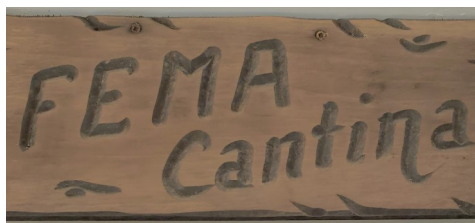

JoAnn's parents lived in San Leon. For the two years they dated, Don had moved in with her parents while JoAnn remained in Houston. Yes, JoAnn stayed in Houston, worked and raised her children while ole Don was living the life fishing and drinking at many of the 25 plus beer joints in Sunny San Leon. Of course, he had to have beer money and Don being a jack of many trades had a pest exterminating business in San Leon.

When JoAnn was finally able to retire from her 30-year career at the phone company in the early '80's she joined Don full-time in San Leon. It wasn't long after that Don and JoAnn leased the old Idaway's (beer joint) whose name had been changed to the Sunset Lounge. This really worked out great for the couple. Don had a place of his own to hang out and drink beer with his buddies while JoAnn ran the place at night after she worked at the San Leon Post Office during the day. Now, once again, ole Don was doing his part. He had a fleet of shrimp boats that docked at the Sunset pier and made plenty of beer money buying and selling shrimp. This went on for about four years then they started another chapter.

Don had gone into the house leveling business in Houston. This left plenty of time during the week for JoAnn and her girlfriends to get in some morning exercise at Barnacle Bills (beer joint) and kill a little time day drinking. The weekends were spent doing crazy things like tractor pulls at the Town Pump (beer joint) and listening to great music at Castaways (beer joint). As the years went by, more fun places opened in San Leon. There was the annual San Leon Mayoral Election at Wayno's (beer joint) and, of course, Buccaneers (beer joint) where Don could play music with the boys. Don and JoAnn also enjoyed BBQ cook-offs throughout the years. According to JoAnn, she was always happy to stay overnight with the pit so ole Don could go get a good night's rest. However, according to ole Don, tequila may have been the reason she stayed.

September 2008 brought yet another, and perhaps their favorite place to drink cold beer, visit with friends, and play some music. The Fema Cantina (beer joint) was located below Don and JoAnn's home. There was no cold beer to be found in San Leon during these times so the Fema Cantina quickly became a favorite hangout for many locals. I mean, how could you beat free beer, gambling, and live entertainment! Now, I don't want to lead you folks into believing that the only secret to ole Don and JoAnn's marriage was "couples who play together stay together." Over the last almost five decades they have participated in many community activities together. Don was once San Leon's fire chief while JoAnn was the SLVFD ladies auxiliary president. Don held a position at the American Legion and, again, JoAnn was the ladies auxiliary president. They both sat on the San Leon Cemetery Committee. They were members of the Lions Club and the original San Leon Chamber of Commerce.

When I asked them if they could change anything both agreed it would be only to have met sooner. Though you can still find Don and Joann out and about in the community, life has slowed down just a bit for the couple who are now 85 and 87 years young. You can still find ole Don sitting out on his porch having a cold beer, smoking his cigar, and watching the neighbors while JoAnn is busy cooking a well-balanced supper. A supper that you can find posted on ole Don's facebook page most days claiming the credit. Ironically, when I asked them to share a secret to young couples for a successful marriage, they agreed that you should give each other "space" to do what you love. After hearing all these stories, I am led to believe this couple enjoyed doing most things together.

This story is dedicated to the memory of Sonny and Johnnie Wimberly who were always a part of the shenanigans.

Join me next month as I continue this series, Real Housewives of San Leon and don't forget to stop by the San Leon Liquor Store to get your very own Dear Steve's Wife Training School shirt.

Funny Bones

Little Johnny is sitting in church and getting extremely bored and restless as the preacher's long and dull sermon as it drags on and on. Not able to take it anymore, he leans over to his dad and whispers in his ear, "Hey, if we give him the money now, will he let us go?"

During the concert little Johnny sits in the front row waiting for the concert to begin. A friend asks "Johnny, how did you manage to get a ticket to the concert?" Johnny replies "I got a ticket from my sister." The friend asks, "and where is your sister?" Johnny says, "Back at home, looking for her ticket."

Cletus and Billy Bob are walking down the road when they see a dog licking his privates. Cletus sighs and says to his friend Billy Bob "Jeez, I wish I was able to do that." Billy Bob looks confused, stares at the dog then turns to Cletus and says, "Well Cletus, you can go ahead and try, but I bet he will probably bite you."

A guy goes in for a job interview and sits down with the boss. The boss asks him, "What do you think is your worst quality?" The man says "I'm probably too honest." The boss says, "That's not a bad thing, I think being honest is a good quality." The man replies, "I don't care about what you think!"

It's a sunny morning in the Big Forest and the Bear family is just waking up. Baby Bear goes downstairs and sits in his small chair at the table. He looks into his small bowl. It is empty! "Who's been eating my porridge?" he squeaks. Father Bear arrives at the table and sits in his big chair. He looks into his big bowl. It is also empty! "Who's been eating my porridge?" he roars. Mother Bear sticks her head out the kitchen door and yells, "For Pete's sake, how many times do we have to go through this? It was Mother Bear who go up first. It was Mother Bear who woke everybody else in the house up. It was Mother Bear who unloaded the dishwasher from last night and put everything away. It was Mother Bear who went out into the cold early morning air to fetch the newspaper. It was Mother Bear who set the table. It was Mother Bear who put the cat out, cleaned the litter box and filled the cat's water and food dish. And now that you've decided to come downstairs and grace me with your presence, listen good because I'm only going to say this one more time: I haven't made the damn porridge yet!"

Two guys are standing in line to enter heaven. One turned around and asked the other how he died. "I froze to death. How about you?" "I had a heart attack." "How did that happen?" "Well, I suspected my wife was cheating on me. So after work I went straight home. I ran upstairs to find my wife sleeping by herself. Then I ran back downstairs and looked in all the hiding spots. When I was running back up the stairs, I had a heart attack." "That's ironic." "Why?" "If you would've looked in the fridge, we'd both be alive."

A husband, who has six children, begins to call his wife "mother of six" rather than by her first name. The wife, amused at first, chuckles. A few years down the road, the wife has grown tired of this. "Mother of six," he would say, "what's for dinner tonight? Get me a beer!" She gets very frustrated. Finally, while attending a party with her husband, he jokingly yells out, "Mother of six, I think it's time to go!" The wife immediately shouts back, "I'll be right with you, father of four!"

A young man and woman got married. At the time of their marriage, the husband noticed his wife carried a decently sized metal box and shoved it up at the top of their closet. Curious as he was, the wife told him to never to look in it no matter what the circumstances. Over the years, he saw that metal box in the closet, but never peered into it for the sake of his wife. One day, though, the wife had a stroke and was rushed to the hospital. As the husband sat grieving at home, he thought of the box, snatched it up, and sped to the hospital where his wife remained with her death coming soon. The husband bolted to her hospital room and pleaded and begged her to allow him to open the box by her side. "Well" she said, "I suppose now would be the right time." The husband unlatched the hook and peered inside. On one side sat two crocheted dolls, and on the other, to his surprise, sat one million dollars! "Honey, before we got married, my mother gave me this box and told me that whenever I got mad at you, I should go to the bedroom and crotch a doll," said the wife. The husband was thrilled and thankful. He absolutely couldn't believe his wife had only been mad at him two times! "That is amazing!" said the husband to his wife. "Honey, I'm grateful beyond belief you've only been mad at me twice, but how on this earth did you manage to get one million dollars?" "Oh, honey" said the wife, "That's the money I got from selling the dolls."

San Leon MUD Update

How MUD Districts Work

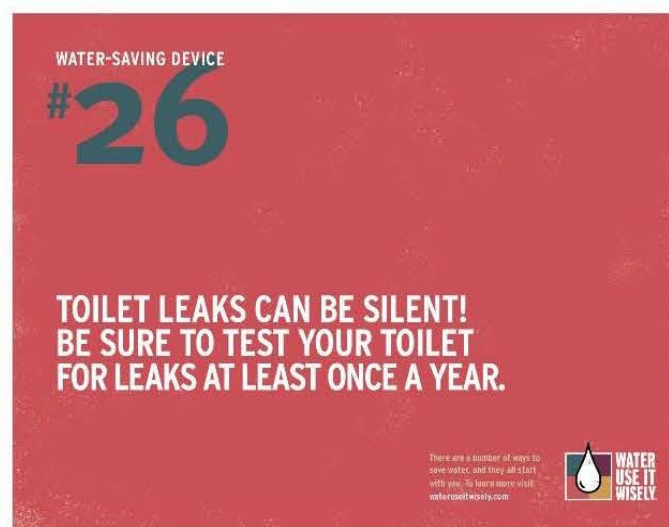

MUD districts are a unique aspect of development in Texas. They are political subdivisions of the State of Texas and have a variety of powers depending on how they're formed, though they mainly exist to provide water and wastewater services to areas outside of city limits. Many districts contract with operations companies to handle some or all aspects of providing water and wastewater services, while some districts (like San Leon and Bacliff) opt to have employees who handle the bulk of the operations, only engaging with contractors for unique tasks that require specialized equipment or safety measures. In some instances, significant cost savings can be afforded by engaging with an operations company, which is why the San Leon Board of Directors began exploring the concept last year and recently advertised for bids from operations companies. The Board will be reviewing the bids this month and weighing what is best for the District's present and future needs.

- B. Keaton with a nice red.
- C. Jaycee with a catch & release flounder.

We need you to tell us who the people are in the picture, who and where they caught the fish, how much it weighed, when it was caught, what kind of fish it was, what kind of beer and bait the angler was using, and any other pertinent information you want to see printed in the paper. Ever since our crystal ball got lost in Hurricane Ike, we have no way of knowing these vital facts unless you tell us!

Back in 1974 there were a lot of gamblers in San Leon. Most would bet on anything, but mostly football. There were once a week poker games, the locations would change weekly to be safer from the law. We had bookies that gave you a number at the start of the season to identify yourself when you called. If no number, they wouldn't let you bet. My number was 38. The poker game was usually in San Leon, but the next one was scheduled to be in Bacliff on Bayshore Drive. The house was up on pilings. That night there were four men with guns waiting under the steps under a tarp. As the players arrived, they were taken upstairs and tied up and relieved of their money. The robbers left on foot to cross Bayshore Drive to make their getaway in a waiting boat. A latecomer to the game came and untied the players. It was never reported to the authorities and until this day I have no idea how much money was taken that evening.
