Purpose

This document certifies that the products listed below have been evaluated in accordance with the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) Hazard Communication Standard (29 CFR 1910.1200) and the Globally Harmonized System (GHS).

Based on this evaluation, these products are NOT classified as hazardous chemicals and therefore do not require a Safety Data Sheet (SDS) under current regulations.

Regulatory Basis (Updated 2026)

Under 29 CFR 1910.1200(b)(6)(v):

Consumer products are exempt from SDS requirements when used in a manner consistent with normal consumer use and where exposure is not greater than typical consumer exposure.

Additionally:

- Products not meeting GHS hazard classification criteria are not required to have an SDS
 - Products without physical, health, or environmental hazards are considered non-hazardous under OSHA
