Company Profile

Invicta RubberTech is the rubber engineering brand of Rex Consolidated, an Indian manufacturing company established in 1978. We supply rubber and rubber-to-metal bonded components primarily for European, American and Japanese cars and trucks, alongside other commercial vehicle and industrial applications. Our aftermarket range covers mounting, vibration control, sealing and component protection.

Backed by Rex Consolidated's engineering experience and ISO 9001 and ISO 14001 certifications, we focus on consistent quality, practical product development and long-term customer relationships.

Manufacturing Capabilities

Our capabilities include moulded rubber components, rubber-to-metal bonded parts, bushes, silent blocks, anti-vibration mountings, bellows and extruded profiles. We develop components from customer drawings, specifications or reference samples, selecting materials to suit the intended application.

From tooling and prototype development to production, inspection and packaging, we support standard aftermarket requirements and customised projects. Our approach considers dimensional accuracy, rubber hardness, bonding requirements and operating conditions to help achieve dependable performance.

Global Presence

As part of Rex Consolidated, which exports to more than 70 countries, Invicta RubberTech serves international aftermarket distributors, importers and replacement-parts businesses supplying European, American and Japanese vehicle applications.

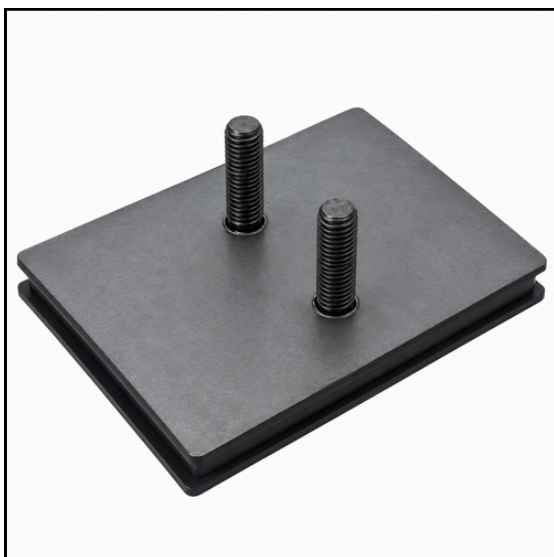

Our export experience enables us to support varied product specifications, packaging requirements and shipment arrangements. We work with customers to expand their product ranges through responsive development support and reliable supply.
