First In-Depth Poll on Changing U.S. Voter Views of Ukraine War Under President Trump

Polling was conducted in late May of likely American voters by David Wolfson, Republican Pollster, and Faculty Lecturer at Columbia University's Political Analytics Graduate Program. The Peace Through Strength Institute (PTSI) <http://ptsinstitute.us> sponsored the polling.

43% of voters say Trump should put more pressure on Russia to end the Ukraine war;

7% believe that pressure should be directed at Ukraine instead.

Voters that say the war in Ukraine should be a U.S. priority and other resource exports.

American military assistance to Ukraine is justified.

Trump to boost Ukraine aid to stop Russia

“This poll shows Americans overwhelmingly believe that a win in Ukraine is a win for President Trump and a win for America,” said Bill Cole, Founder of the Peace Through Strength Institute. “It puts Russia on defense, advances our drone dominance, and strengthens U.S. leadership without sending American troops.”

“This isn’t foreign aid,” Cole stated. “It's a strategic investment.”

“Voters understand we either stop Putin now—or face a far more dangerous and expensive war later,” Cole added.

The Peace Through Strength Institute (PTSI) is a U.S.-based policy think-tank committed to aligning America's global engagement with its national interests. Military aid and foreign policy must deliver tangible results for the American people—strengthening allies, degrading threats through decisive action in an age of rising global instability.
