INTRODUCTION

The world as it is today is blessed with creatives who exist in an industry known as the "Music Industry". This industry on a continuous basis release notable content, called "Music" that affects society at a large scale.

However, we must understand that putting out music is actually one of the thriving businesses in the century and could be done by:

A Musician/Composer

A Singer

A Songwriter.

I would assume that your decision to reading this book is because you belong to one of the categories mentioned above. My name is Chrischords and I am a Musicpreneur Coach.

In this book, I share vital information on what you (Musician, Singer, Songwriter) must do before releasing your music to your audience in order to maximize the financial benefits of your Music..

My advice: READ TILL THE END!

SPLIT SHEET

There are two scenarios music can go through before it gets to it's finished state. The first has to do with the creative, working the process from start to finish. In this case, the creative is responsible for composing the music known as the "COMPOSER WRITER" and also writing the lyrics to the music known as the "SONG WRITER"

The second scenario involves two or more creatives, that fall in either of the category mentioned above (i.e COMPOSER WRITER OR SONG WRITER). In order words, the music we listen to today, has a composer writer and a song writer to it. Some of which may have more than one to the music.

What establishes the relationship between a composer writer and a song writer is called "Split Sheet". A split sheet is a signed document that outlines the shares of an individual musical work, the composer writer and the song writer control. This is split sheet document has to be drafted and signed before the release and commercialization of the music.

A split sheet contains the following details for both the composer writer and the song writer:

Name
Address
Phone Number
Publishing Company
P.R.O Affiliation
Ownership % of Music and Lyrics
Writer Signature
