Property Highlights

The Northern Electric Building, was constructed in 1928 for Montreal based Northern electric company, which later became Nortel. At the time of its construction it introduced a modern aesthetic, which was a departure from the more expressive Romanesque Revival and Italianate styles of older surrounding warehouses. The building designed by J.O. Despatie of Montreal in association with Pratt and Ross of Winnipeg, also is of a transitional construction type that combines a fireproof steel framework with conventional wood post-and-beam interior.
