Email: paulh@pimct.com

Paul is a founder and principal of Private Insurance Management Inc. (PIM) a company that creates, designs, and manages captive insurance companies across the country. His background as a practicing attorney leaves him well positioned to work with state regulators, captive insurance service providers, and PIM's clients and their professional advisors. His strong background working as an attorney for many high net worth business owners allows him to understand their risk profile, overall business planning, and risk management needs.

Paul's legal background includes a focus upon estate planning and he regularly advises clients regarding sophisticated estate planning, tax planning, wealth transfer, and charitable giving strategies. He is also a frequent lecturer and educator whose presentations have been seen at professional organizations and colleges across the region. As an educator, Paul teaches continuing legal education for both the state and county bar associations, and is an adjunct professor at Molloy College and a former adjunct professor at Dowling College. He is also a member of the New York State Bar Association, the Nassau County Bar Association, and is a member of the Estate Planning Council of Nassau County. Paul has been featured in Long Island Business News, Investor's Business Daily, and Newsday's Ask the Expert column. He has also authored articles which have appeared in the Nassau Lawyer, the Suffolk Lawyer, the New York Daily News, and Long Island Business News on topics such as business succession planning, estate planning, and various trust and estate administration issues. Paul has also been featured as a guest on various radio and television programs, including WBAB, WFAN, WRHU, and News 12 Long Island.

Paul is a member of the Board of Directors of Camp Bronx Fund, Inc., a 501(c)(3) charitable organization, where he also serves as Treasurer and General Counsel. In addition, Paul's charitable works include the Midnight Run relief effort to bring food and clothing to New York City's homeless and the Long Island Fight for Charity, for which he boxed in 2009 to raise money on behalf of several local charities. He received his bachelor's degree in psychology from Dowling College and his Juris Doctor from St. John's University School of Law.
