New Children's Book Series Ready to Brighten the Future

ATLANTA, Georgia (September 12, 2019) — Holy Child Publications introduces the Habari Books Series, which focuses on improved social skills, better performance in school and passion for lifelong learning. This innovative series prepares early learners for rich, rewarding educational experiences, as well as offers valuable information to parents, caretakers and teachers as they endeavor to help children be successful.

The first book in the series is Getting the Brain Ready for Early Learning (Holy Child Publications; ISBN: 978-0-578-55615-4). This resource promotes exciting experiences that spark a desire to learn more. It focuses on communication, collaboration, critical thinking and problem-solving. The second book, Habari's Book of Letters: A Practical Guide for Learning the Alphabet (Holy Child Publications; ISBN: 978-0-578-55616-1), helps children learn the foundational skills of letter recognition, the alphabetic principle and phonemic awareness. Forthcoming books in the Habari Books Series will cover other early learning topics.

With children of ages four to six years in mind, Getting the Brain Ready for Early Learning, and, Habari's Book of Letters: A Practical Guide for Learning the Alphabet was written by elementary school educators Lorraine Anderson and J. Cecil Anderson. The books feature user-friendly layouts, colorful illustrations and an overflow of practical information.

These fun, exciting, unique books are being offered at special pre-order pricing by Holy Child Publications at www.holychildpublications.com. Additionally, the books will be available online at Barnes & Noble and Amazon or ordered through local bookstores.
