

Precast Concrete Plant Startup, Modernization, Equipment Design and Development

Are you looking to build a new precast plant? Is your precast concrete plant struggling to keep up with demand? Is your current plant aging and in need of revitalization? Do you have the capital to invest in new equipment and expansion, but lack the time and expertise to manage the specification, selection and success of a modernization project? Our team can help you assess your needs, develop a strategy & Scope, and manage your plant expansion and equipment upgrades from start to finish.

Our typical process

Part 1 Analysis and Strategy Development

We will work with you to develop an equipment strategy that takes into account your cash flow, safety concerns, and growth potential. We will identify opportunities to leverage your new equipment investment, such as expanding into new markets, developing new products, or building a stronger sales team. We will also recommend small changes that can have a big impact on your bottom line.

Part 2 Plant Equipment Assessment, Selection, and Project Management

We will conduct a comprehensive review of your existing equipment to determine the overall condition, repair estimates, and impact on daily production. We will prioritize repairs and rebuilds based on their impact on downtime and production and provide recommendations for improving your current means and methods. Then identify new strategic capital investment to increase capacity output.

We will guide you through the equipment selection process, from identifying the scope and competent providers to analyzing proposals and negotiating contracts. Our team will manage your project from startup to completion, including preparing your existing team for the change, setting up a successful maintenance and production program, and following up to ensure ongoing success.

Our services are designed to ensure that you are prepared for success and that your investment pays off in the long run. Let us help you take your precast concrete manufacturing business to the next level.
