Patriarch Estefan Duwayhi

Church bells are ringing joyfully in Lebanon.

This year Venerable Patriarch Estefan Duwayhi will be beatified on 2 August, the day of his birth in 1630, at the patriarchate headquarters in Bkerke.

He had pious and good parents: Deacon Mikhael Duwayhi and Mariam Duwayhi; one brother, Moussa; an uncle, Bishop Elias Duwayhi. He lost his father when he was three years old.

At age five, he entered the Parochial School of St. Peter in North Ehden, acquiring basics of arithmetic, Arabic and Syriac languages, and a solid Christian formation.

He distinguished himself by his exceptional and advanced intelligence.

Aware of his intellectual capacity and of his religious and moral qualities, Patriarch Gerges Omayra Duwayhi and Bishop Elias Duwayhi, both from Ehden, sent him to Rome where he arrived in June, 1641; he was only eleven years old.

He joined the Maronite College of Rome where he astonished everyone by his superior intelligence, profound piety, and outstanding personality. His professor, Father Sparsa, testified: "I taught in many lands and in many universities, but I have not found the likes of Estefan, in the brightness of his mind and the purity of his life."

Because of his intense studying, he became almost completely blind, but, through the intercession of Mary, Mother of God, he miraculously regained his sight, never having to wear glasses.

He learned all that the Eternal City had to offer to a brilliant student. He earned a Doctorate in Philosophy and Theology. Besides his canonical formation, he was fluent in Arabic, Syriac, Latin, Italian, Greek and Hebrew. Later he obtained some knowledge of French and Turkish.

In 1655, he brilliantly finished his intellectual formation and his reputation spread throughout Europe.

However, he refused all tempting offers in universities and Royal Courts. He chose to return to Lebanon, after remaining in Rome for another six months, visiting all the libraries and gathering precious documents about the Maronites. He returned to Lebanon on April 3, 1655, following fourteen years in Rome.

He was ordained a priest on March 25, 1656 by Patriarch Youhanna at the Monastery of Sts. Sarkis and Bacchus in Ehden.

He opened a free school for children at the Monastery of St. Yacoub Al Ahbach in Ehden. In 1657, he was sent to Aleppo (Syria) by Patriarch Gerges Bshebhely, to work for the unity of Christians and to help his friend, Bishop Andrew Agheejan, who became the first Syrian Catholic Patriarch.

In 1658, he was named missionary of the Congregation of the Propagation of the Faith and returned to his school in Ehden. That same year, he was sent by Patriarch Bshebhely to Jheeta, Kasrouan, Lebanon to teach and preach, and then to South Lebanon, to Saida, Bekah, Marjehyoun. Finally, he was appointed pastor of Ardee and the neighboring villages in North Lebanon.

In 1662, at the request of Patriarch Bshebhely and the people, he returned to Aleppo (Syria), where he was called "The Second Chrysostom." He remained there for six years.

In May, 1668, Duwayhi returned to Lebanon and went with his mother and brother for a pilgrimage to the Holy Land.

Upon his return from the Holy Land, he was surprised to learn he had been elected Bishop of Cyprus.

On July 8, 1668, he was ordained Bishop by Patriarch Gerges Bshebhely.

He refused the Roman honors and tried to refuse the Episcopate and Patriarchate. He used to receive the poor and peasants the same as he would receive great leaders.

Before leaving for Cyprus, Patriarch Bshebhely sent him to visit and comfort the parishes of Jebbee, Zawiya and Akkar in North Lebanon.

That same year, he entered the Diocese of Cyprus, establishing his residence in Nicosia, but visiting all the Maronite cities of the Island, preaching, gathering documents and organizing the Diocese which had been vacant for thirty-four years.

May 20, 1670, Bishop Estefan Duwayhi was elected Patriarch. Two days later, he was ordained Patriarch at Qannubine, the Holy Valley.

Throughout his thirty-four years of Patriarchate, Duwayhi did not taste rest. Nine times, he was forced to flee from his See of Qannubine. He was always on the move, hiding in caves and places almost unhealthy, carrying notes and documents, writing late into the night under very bad conditions, and caring about everyone and everything in the Maronite Church.

He built twenty-seven churches and many monasteries, ordained fourteen bishops and many priests. He protected the Maronite Church from Latinization, gave her the proper and distinguished identity.

Patriarch Estefan Duwayhi died, as he wished, at his See of Qannubine in the aroma of sanctity, on May 3, 1704.

Patriarch Estefan Duwayhi was revered as a saint. Many miracles are attributed to him, both during his life and after his death.

He was a man of prayer. He liked to seclude himself in caves or in hidden places for prayer and meditation. In Qannubine, he had made an opening in his room so he could look freely at the Blessed Sacrament and the Icon of Mary in the church.

He never ate meat during his life, except when ordered by his medical advisor or his spiritual director and only for health reasons.

His love for his Church and country was always the guideline of his life. Thanks to him, the Maronite Church was furnished with all the liturgical books needed for prayers, consecrations and benedictions. He has been rightly named, “The Father of the Maronite Church.”

He was a giant, a genius, so gifted a person that the world would not see the likes of him for centuries. His biographer, Semaan Awad said, “He was like an eagle flying above all the birds and was among his peers like the sun among the stars.” They talked about his miracles, but without doubt, the greatest miracle he ever performed was certainly his various and immense writings. Only a person inspired, encouraged and pushed from above can produce the giant-like and encyclopedic treasure he left for posterity to admire.

Patriarch Estefan El Duwayhi died with the scent of holiness, and despite the passage of time, he remained in the hearts of many who believed in his holiness, so they asked for his intercession and prayed for the declaration of his holiness.

The miraculous healing of Rosette Karam, which was attributed to Duwayhi’s intercession, has led to his beatification.

Rosette Zakhia Karam, a married woman who suffered from seronegative polyarthritis that left her partly disabled. She was instantly cured, after a family prayer in front of the statue of Patriarch Duwayhi, which stands on the square in front of the church of Ehden, and after taking a piece of land surrounding the pedestal of the statue in her coffee. Rosette Karam immediately felt better enough to walk a great distance to visit her sister, two kilometers from the church.

His eminence and Beatitude, Cardinal Mar Bechara Boutros Rai will be celebrating “The Beatification of the Venerable Mar Estefan El-Duwayhi” with the representative of His Holiness, Pope Francis, “His Eminence Cardinal Marcello Semeraro” in a divine liturgy at Bkerke on Friday August 2nd, 2024 at 8.30 PM.

As well as a Thanksgiving liturgy on Saturday, August 3rd, 2024 at Ehden at 6.30 PM.

Anyone attending must register using the QR code for one or both events.
