

Contents

Introduction to the Handbooks for the Professional Financial Advisor Series	10
Introduction to TRANSITIONING CLIENTS and the RETIREMENT EXIT DECISION	19
PART ONE: Seeking Group Referrals from Another Advisor	21
Positioning Yourself to be Chosen as a Successor	21
Clientele Referral Opportunities	23
My Experience Assuming Part of a Retiring Advisor’s Clientele	25
Preparing to Integrate Another Advisor’s Clients into Your Own Practice.....	28
PART TWO: Transitioning Your Clientele to Your Successor	31
History of Practice Transitioning in the Financial Advisory Industry	33
The Stakeholders of Your Retirement Transition	34
Transition Stakeholders’ Needs	35
Clients’ Needs.....	35
The Successor Advisors’ Needs.....	35
Remaining Team Members’ Needs	36
Advisors’ Firm Needs	36
Retiring Advisor’s Needs.....	37
Satisfying the Needs of All Five Stakeholders	37
Steps of Transition	37
1) Clarify or review your commitment to your clients.	39
2) Prepare a document clearly articulating your existing business model.	39
3) Consider the best future approach to services.	40
4) Consider how willing and able you are to share your processes.....	41
5) Determine the best future fee structure.....	41

6) Determine if a separate successor advisor is needed for clients in different geographic locations.	41
7) Choose your successor(s).	41
8) Plan a timeline for the remaining transition steps.	42
9) Compare service/product differences between the successor and the referring advisor.	42
10) Determine the future of the retiree’s team members.	42
11) Plan the roles of the successor’s future team members including members from retiree team.	43
12) Start the process of creating contract(s) between the retiree, successor(s) and firm.	43
13) Review or create a website and desired marketing materials.	43
14) Plan the office space.	43
15) Prepare scripts for conversations with your clients.	43
16) Notify your clients of your intention to retire.	44
17) Plan and provide a period of overlapping service to your clients. ...	44
18) Notify your clients of your final retirement date.	45
Choosing Your Successor	45
Personality	46
Industry qualifications	46
Age	47
Experience	47
Pre-existing relationship	48
Keep your support staff	48
Compatibility with the successor’s business model	48
Existing client base of the potential successor	48
Client communication.....	48
Approach to investing.....	49
Use of financial plans.....	49
Approach to fees	49
Segmented clientele	50
Location in relation to clients	50
Financial stability	51
My successors	51

Client Transition Contracts	52
a) Determining Fair Compensation for Referring Clientele.....	54
Factors affecting the referral compensation for a specific clientele: ...	54
External factors affecting the referral compensation for all clienteles:	55
b) Referral Compensation Price: Fixed or Variable	56
Fixed Price Contracts	56
Variable Price Contracts	57
Tax Considerations	57
c) Treatment of Referrals	58
d) Firm Guarantee of Payments to the Retiree and Their Heirs	58
The Firm’s Contract with Retiring Advisor	59
The Firm’s Contract with Successor Advisor.....	59
e) Retiree and Successor Payment Structures: Frequency, Duration and Amount	60
Payments to the Retiree	60
Payments from Successors	60
f) Transitioning Support Required from Retiree.....	62
g) Restrictions on Retiree (Non-Compete)	62
h) Successor Restrictions.....	63
i) List All Referred Households and Accounts	63
Process of Informing Clients	63
Initial Notification Phone Call Lists	64
Initial Notification Phone Call Script	65
Sample Retirement Phone Call Script	68
Formal Retirement Letter	71
Final Thoughts on Transitioning to Your Successor	73
The Transition is Your Parting Gift to the Stakeholders of Your Practice	73
Enjoy the Transition Period.....	74
PART THREE: The Retirement Exit Decision	75
Why I Retired.....	75
What I Enjoy Most About Retirement.....	77
Hints That It May Be Time to Start Preparing for Retirement	78

Personal Reasons	78
Business Reasons	78
The Dangers of Waiting Too Long to Retire	79
Personal Dangers	80
Business Dangers	80
Steps Towards Retirement	81
Prepare Yourself and Your Family Psychologically	82
Ways to Modify Your Working Hours	82
Prepare to Let Go of the Power and Status of Work Identity	83
Prepare Your Own Finances	84
Prepare Your Successor	84
Prepare Your Clients	85
Final Thoughts on Considering When to Retire	85
Afterword: COVID-19	89
Appendix: Articulate Your Business Model	93
First Step: Determine Your Overall Mission and Commitment to Clients	93
A Checklist Process to Develop and/or Articulate an Advisor’s Unique Business Model	94
Component 1: Identify Compatible/Sustainable Groups of Clients and Potential Clients	96
Component 2: The Service Component of a Financial Advisor’s Business Model	107
Component 3: Processes and Presentations	139
Component 4: Determine Needed Resources and Suppliers/Sources	140
Component 5: Pricing and Client Costs Model	147
Resulting Summary of Business Model	151
Segmented Clientele Communication Service Model Sample	187
Acknowledgements	191
About the Author	193