Report on computer gaming

TusLAN 2023 at TusCon 50

Report by Avery Davis

TusLAN 2023 (TusCon 50 computer gaming) had reduced attendance from 2022 mainly because of the reduced facility size which prompted the cancellation of general LAN gaming. Instead, the Boardroom with a long table with 12 seats was set up for Artemis Spaceship Bridge Simulator with two bridges for 12 stations. This was well utilized, with most hours of the day having at least one bridge session. In addition, the Eton room was utilized for Virtual Reality with an Oculus Rift S headset that was mainly used for VR space tours, but also for the Beat Saber and Robo Recall games.

I would like to thank the following staff for making this possible:

Tony Ewing for providing the computers for Artemis Spaceship Bridge Simulator
Alpheus Kosky, Debbi Golden-Davis, Wally Sanville, Robin Ann Webb, Rob Beckwith, Scott Madsen, Bill Mueller, and Ingrid Saber.

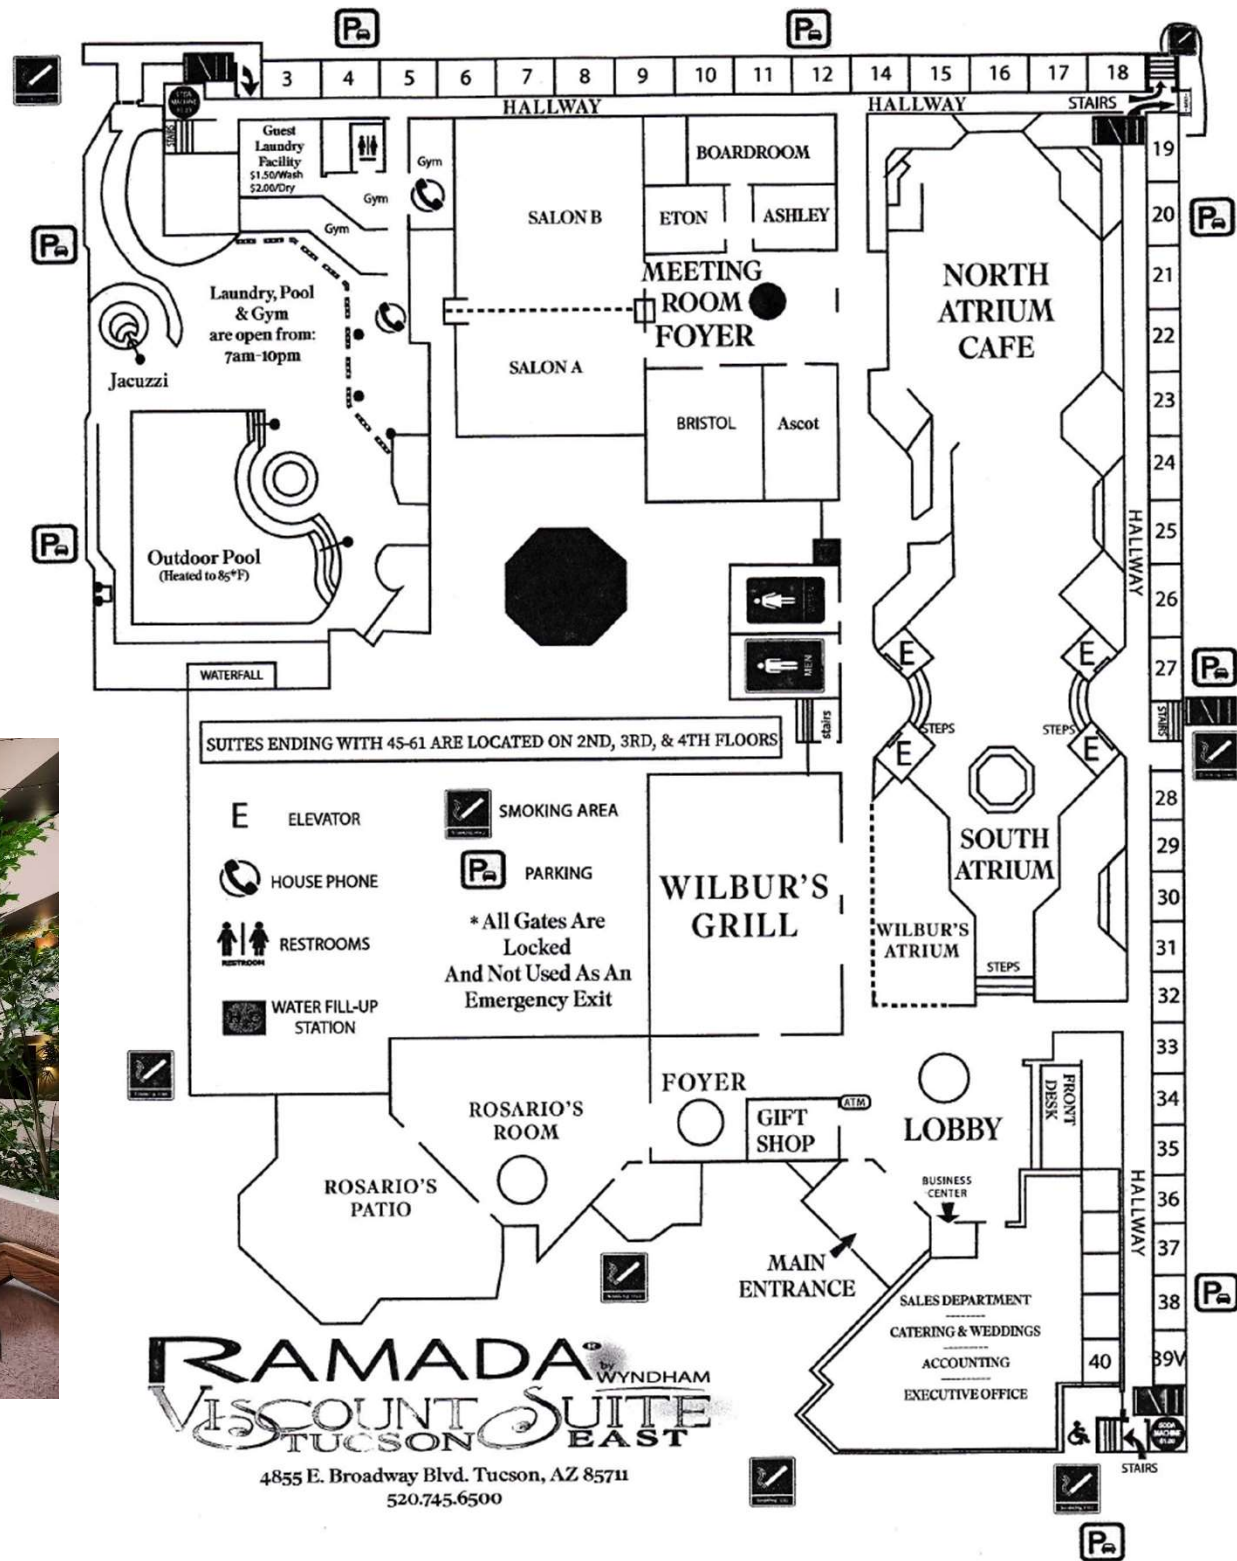

I would like to give special thanks to James Kosky for all his help with hotel liaison.
