

What is legacy, AND WHY IS IT IMPORTANT?

LEGACY IS

something transmitted by or received from an ancestor from the past. It does not have to be money or gifts that one generation leaves for the proceeding generation; it can be what you did to help them remember you.

LEGACY IS

A legacy is about the actions that people take to be remembered by in future generations. People of all walks of life can think about the legacy they are going to leave behind after they are gone.

LEGACY IS

It is never too late to leave an impact upon the lives of others, even if it is just a small circle of friends and family. Think in terms of a eulogy; what can be said about you that would inspire the members of the audience there to pay their respects to you?

LEGACY IS IMPORTANT.

If you are an adult, whether you are in your twenties, or forties, or sixties, it is never too early or too late to think about legacy. The first step must be to figure out what your passions are – what you enjoy most in life.

LEGACY IS IMPORTANT.

The habits, the values, and the principles you live by could affect the generations to come. Even if you do not have children of your own, the stories, actions, and words may still impact others – even if you touched their lives for a moment in time.

BUILD A LEGACY BY

Planning and setting goals in an organized and efficient manner to do the things you want to achieve in your life. If there are systems for getting things done, we will live fully and achieve everything we set out to do in our lives.
