NEW NOVELLA BY JOSHUA VALDEZ

St. Petersburg, FL.—May 9, 2023—Joshua Valdez, announced on their website www.Joshuavaldezofficial.com the release of his second novella, "You Didn't Hear This From Me," a sequel to his debut novella "Falling in Love in the Burg," which is fun and lighthearted, it also touches on some deeper issues like the impact of social media on our lives, the importance of authenticity, and the consequences of our actions on others."

ABOUT THE BOOK

When eccentric millionaire John reunites with his long-lost lover, he thinks he's finally found happiness. But after surviving a deadly party, he begins to hear wedding bells in his future. Meanwhile, famous TV comedian Hellen G is trying to repair her career after a scandal threatens to ruin her reputation.

As John plans his upcoming nuptials, newly engaged couple Smith and Jess are juggling running their hotel business and planning their own wedding at the same time. They're determined to make it work, but the stress of it all is starting to take its toll. Meanwhile, Cody, a professional Helen G impersonator, takes a job that turns out to be much deadlier than he anticipated. And when Jane Doe wakes up from a coma, she discovers that someone has stolen her entire life.

As these characters' paths intersect and their lives become increasingly intertwined, they must navigate love, loss, and danger in order to find their own happy endings.

AIRPORT READS

While the story is definitely fun and lighthearted, it also touches on some deeper issues like the impact of social media on our lives, the importance of authenticity, and the consequences of our actions on others."

What inspired you to write this book?

"As a writer, I'm always fascinated by how people's lives intersect and intertwine in unexpected ways. With 'You Didn't Hear This From Me,' I wanted to explore that theme in a fun and humorous way, while also touching on some deeper issues like identity and the impact of our actions on others."

Why did you decide to write a sequel as a novella as well?

"I love the novella format because it allows me to tell a complete story in a shorter amount of time. With 'You Didn't Hear This From Me,' I wanted to continue the story of the characters from my first book, but also introduce new characters and plotlines. The novella format gave me the flexibility to do that while keeping the story focused and entertaining."

What message do you hope readers will take away from "You Didn't Hear This From Me?"

"Ultimately, I hope readers will come away from the book feeling entertained and uplifted, but also with a greater awareness of the impact their words and actions can have on others. Whether it's through social media or in our personal relationships, we all have the power to either lift people up or bring them down. I hope this book inspires readers to use that power for good."

INTERVIEW QUESTIONS

What sets "You Didn't Hear This From Me" apart from other humorous books or soap operas?

"One thing I'm really proud of with this book is how it reflects universal themes that anyone can relate to, regardless of their background or interests. While the story is definitely fun and lighthearted, it also touches on some deeper issues like the impact of social media on our lives, the importance of authenticity, and the consequences of our actions on others."

Can you share any insights into your writing process?

"For me, writing is all about finding the right balance between structure and spontaneity. I always start with a general outline of the story and the major plot points, but I also like to give myself room to improvise and explore new ideas as I go. I also try to write every day, even if it's just for a few minutes, to keep my creativity flowing."

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Joshua Valdez is a writer, adventurer, and avid pasta maker based in St. Petersburg, Florida. With his quarantine bucket list complete, he turned his attention to writing, and his comical novella "Falling in Love in the Burg" was born. His latest novella, "You Didn't Hear This From Me," is a thrilling tale of secrets and scandal that will keep readers guessing until the very end.

When he's not crafting stories, Joshua can be found exploring the sparkling gem of Florida's Gulf Coast, painting, or scrolling endlessly for his next favorite show. He lives in St. Petersburg with his husband and cat and is always on the lookout for his next adventure.
