Open Meeting Notes:

Mayor's Briefing to Council

1. Purpose of Executive Session

"I want to brief Council on a legal dispute involving Sumter County and the Middle Flint Regional E-911 Authority, explain the letter the County has sent, outline why the County's position is vulnerable under Georgia law—particularly Service Delivery Strategy requirements—and inform you of a meeting we will request with Sumter County leadership."

2. Summary of the County's Letter (Plain English)

"Sumter County has formally demanded that the E-911 Authority stop providing what the County calls 'non-emergency dispatch services' to Plains, Americus, and Leslie within 90 days unless the cities agree to pay additional money.

The County claims these services are outside normal 911 operations and argues continuing them may violate the Georgia Constitution's gratuities clause. They are attempting to force either a shutdown of services or a new payment agreement."

3. Why This Matters to Plains

“If the County were successful, it would disrupt routine police operations and public safety. More importantly, it would set a precedent allowing the County to unilaterally withdraw services that are already addressed in our Service Delivery Strategy.”

KEY LEGAL FRAMEWORK – SERVICE DELIVERY STRATEGY (SDS)

What SDS Is (In Simple Terms)

“Georgia law requires counties and cities to adopt a Service Delivery Strategy—called an SDS—that clearly assigns which local government provides which services, and how they are funded. Once adopted and approved by the State, an SDS is binding on all parties.”

4. Why Sumter County Is Vulnerable Under SDS

A. Counties Cannot Unilaterally Stop an SDS-Covered Service

- If dispatch or public safety communications are included—directly or indirectly—in the County’s SDS, the County cannot just decide to stop them.
- Changes must be:
  - Negotiated, and

- - Formally amended to the SDS, and
  - Approved by all affected governments and the State.

“Threatening to terminate service to force payment is exactly what SDS law is designed to prevent.”

---

B. No Double Taxation

- Cities already contribute to 911 funding through:
- - 911 fees paid by residents and businesses, and
  - Countywide taxes paid by city residents.
- Charging cities again for the same service is double taxation, which SDS law prohibits.

“You can’t collect the tax, collect the fee, and then bill again for the same service.”

C. ‘Non-Emergency Dispatch’ is a False Distinction

- Georgia law and practice recognize 911 and non-emergency dispatch as integrated public safety communications.
- Dispatchers must be available regardless of whether a call comes in on 911 or a non-emergency line.
