

BESPOKE STATIONERY

THE PROCESS

Step One

Use the enquiry form on the 'make an enquiry' page to get in touch. The more information you can include about your wedding day and any ideas you have, the better!

Step Two

I will be in touch with you shortly after to confirm availability and from there, reserve your wedding date and the design time required for your stationery in my diary. We will then arrange a convenient date and time to have a consultation to talk about your ideas, creating a vision for your stationery. This can be held via FaceTime, Zoom or over the phone. Together, we will start to plan the perfect stationery for your wedding celebrations.

Step Three

After the consultation, I will start bringing the ideas from our consultation to life. You will receive a proposal document with a number of design options and concept sketches for your stationery along with a quote based on what we have discussed.

Step Four

Once you have approved your proposal document, 50% of the invoice total is due. When this has been received, I will begin the process of painting and drawing the pieces of artwork that will make up your stationery suite. You will receive a number of proofs and any adjustments are then made to ensure that your bespoke wedding stationery is utterly perfect.

Step Five

When the final proofs have been approved, it is time for your stationery to be sent to be professionally printed. The remaining balance of your invoice is due to be paid before printing can take place.

Step Six

Your wedding stationery will be carefully packaged and beautifully wrapped before making its way to you, ready to delight your guests.

RUBY & BLOOM

Paper Co.

