

Electronics Specific Policy

ECM: Any and all changes to an electronic control module by VCD Solutions is the sole responsibility of the client and consumer to ensure all applicable state and governing bodies laws are followed. This is subject to state, government, and regulatory bodies in the United States or otherwise across the world. VCD Solutions Corp accepts no Liability to alterations made after service completed and accepts no Liability during or before either. It is imperative that all EPA regulations are met and understood by client. Any requests to alter vehicle script and code that does not follow regulation as outlined by these authorities will be denied. By request of service client authorizes they understand this policy in full and are not in violation of any policy upon request.

Electronics: Any and all changes to any electronic device must follow regulation within the area it will be operated and is the sole responsibility of the client to provide this documentation upon request of VCD Solutions Corp. Any legalities that arise are solely the responsibility of the client whom requested service.

ADAS: All Advanced Driver Assist System calibrations as performed by VCD Solutions Corp are set to manufacturer specification and OEM guides. It is imperative that end user and client fully is aware of how to use the system and is not the responsibility of VCD Solutions Corp for misuses and misunderstandings of system capabilities. All vehicles are checked for the proper functionality of the system as calibrated, coded, adjusted, and or serviced. This does not imply that all systems are working as designed unless otherwise noted. Any accidents relating to ADAS systems, including the event of death, remains the sole responsibility of the end user as these systems are assisting safety not providing it in full. Drivers must remain fully aware and attentive of their surroundings and assume this liability upon immediate release of vehicle to them, whether directly from VCD Solutions or one of its clientele.

Additional Information: Available on request. Please reach out with any specific questions. They can be sent to VCDS.connect@gmail.com and must be requested via email for written documentation that can protect all parties.

VCD Solutions takes the safety of our clients and the end user extremely seriously. We carry a promise of calibration and have been industry experts for years. Please keep in mind we advise the correct practices in regards to safety. This does not mean that in the event we are utilized as a sublet company that the original request meets these same standards. Ensure you trust the parties you choose to do business with. We look forward to serving you for many years to come!