Moscow Mule 11

Vodka, Fresh Lime Juice, Ginger Beer, Bitters. Concocted in 1941 by John Martin, who needed to sell a lot of Smirnoff vodka, and Jack Morgan, who needed to deplete the stash of ginger beer taking up space at his pub. They decided to combine the two ingredients with a little lime, and the rest is history.

Refreshing, Spicy, Cold

Espresso Martini 12

Vodka, Espresso Liqueur, Fresh Pulled Espresso, Sugar. Invented by British bartender Dick Bradsell in the 1980s at Fred's Club in London. Legend has it that a "top model" asked for a drink that would "wake me up and mess me up" at the same time.

Sangria 10

Red and White Wine, Brandy, Orange Liqueur, Raspberry Liqueur, Bitters, Soda Water.

The exact origins of the drink are unknown, as people around the globe have been doctoring their wine for centuries. Versions of Sangria likely date back to at least the Middle Ages, when wine was safer to drink than water. It remained prevalent throughout Europe, especially in Spain and Portugal, eventually evolving into the version we know today.

Bloody Mary 10

Vodka, House Made Spicy Bloody Mix.

The Bloody Mary is one of the world's best known cocktails, prized for its ability to jumpstart even the groggiest of mornings. Its origins are not exactly clear, but the likely backstory points to the mid-1930s and Fernand "Pete" Petiot, a bartender at King Cole Bar at the St. Regis hotel in New York City.
