

Courtney Teasley

“DISCOVER THE POWER OF SAYING NO”

A criminal defense attorney with a passion to empower, educate, and prevent mass incarceration of the BIPOC community.

This law student turned Criminal Justice Professor & Defense Attorney is committed to creating proactive solutions that disrupt the Criminal Justice System of Oppression (CJ-SOO) through her social enterprise business, keynotes, workshops, and book.

POLITICS & POETRY

An event where art and activism meet through poetry.

DISRUPT THE CJ-SOO:

The Easy Way to Learn Your Rights

A book on how to assert your rights, legally protect yourself, and proactively assist your lawyer in your defense.

TALKING POINTS FOR PROGRESS

- Learn your Constitutional rights
- Discover proactive solutions & strategies for strategic defense preparation
- Understand the inner workings of the CJ-SOO and how it affects marginalized minorities

STAY JOYFUL

Clearly, the schools haven't been and aren't going to teach people of color (POC) what we need to know to protect ourselves or loved ones, when it comes to the criminal justice system (hence the current school-to-prison pipeline and mass incarceration rates in the U.S. that disproportionately affect all POC), so we must each begin to do our part to help and protect one another.

This book is a simplified breakdown of some of the essential things you need to learn, remember and use to protect yourself from the era of mass incarceration of POC. Your rights are your power. Learn your rights in an interactive, easy-to-understand way without all the legal talk most professors and lawyers usually use. Let me teach you the importance of using your POWER to say NO!

Courtney Teasley is the CEO of eeffen, a Black, millennial, women-owned social enterprise that focuses on and uses mass incarceration by creating educational and practice products and services for the disproportionately affected marginalized minority (BIPOC) community. Her personal mission is to disrupt, educate and demand systemic change by amplifying the voices of the Black, BIPOC and marginalized youth system for the greater community.

Courtney Teasley has been featured on national television. In 2018, she was named a Criminal Justice subject professor at a local HBCU, a nationally recognized public school. She has also been named a Black Business Public School Partner of the Year and a 2019 for her work as the school's competition award-winning coach. She has also been named a Black Business Public School Partner of the Year and a 2019 for her work as the school's competition award-winning coach. She has also been named a Black Business Public School Partner of the Year and a 2019 for her work as the school's competition award-winning coach.

HOW TO TAKE A STAND WITH COURTNEY

- ✓ Effective Communication & Leadership
- ✓ Diversity & Inclusion Campaigns
- ✓ Corporate Social Responsibility
- ✓ Criminal Justice
- ✓ Public Speaking
- ✓ Innovative Educational Events/Workshops

CONTACT DETAILS

-  www.cteasley.com
-  615-239-5357
-  info@emeffen.com