

THE RIVER JAUAPERI, RORAIMA, BRAZIL EXPLORATORY TRIPS, JANUARY TO SEPTEMBER

OUR TRIP

We are aiming to make a number of sorties into this river system, with our local guides and camp host to explore these rarely fished yet prolific watersheds.

Species to include:

- PEACOCK BASS,
- PAYARA,
- MATRINXÃ,
- AROWANA,
- BICUDA,
- PACU,
- PIRANHA,
- CATFISH species with REDTAILS, JAU, SURUBIM, PIRAIBA/FILHOTES, and much, much more ...

The Jauaperi is a river in the State of Amazonas in North-Western Brazil and is a tributary of the Rio Negro.

The lower and some of the middle reaches of the river form a part of the border between the Amazonas and Roraima States. Most of the river basin is within the 2,585,910 hectares of Waimiri Atroari indigenous territory.
