January 14 is a moving process for the Israelites transitioning to the Lands of Promise. To appreciate the 14th, consideration is given to January 12, when the weather systems signal Judah to start transitioning packing.

Over the past eight days, severed weather systems hit America with the forecast of more devastation. Being in the prophetic season, The Judahite regards the general weather systems as part of the weapons in the armory of heaven. When The Judahite saw the tornado's devastation in Selma, he immediately saw the omen in association with the appointed days of January.

But why on the 12th, prophetically, did two tracks of events move simultaneously? First, Selma is the birthplace of the Civil and Voters Rights Movements. Particular attention is given to The Judahite when he was a small boy, and the Devil in spirit attempted to kill him on the Edmund Pettus Bridge, which has been discussed in a different presentation. However, the incident forecasted all-out war would take place on location to birth American Democracy sometime in the future. Before 1965, America had no materialized identity of being a participatory democracy; after 1965, the Voter Rights Act gradually transformed the American system of governance.

Granted, the vanguard of the black reconstructionist looked far beyond electoral politics of voting, due to built-in defects and corruption, to historical materialism wherein the leadership relinked to Judah's core demand of labor rights, the enduring cornerstone reconstruction, the period after the Civil War.

The 1963 March on Washington echoed the core demand of Judah: labor rights and employment.

Knowing that Judah and the Ten Tribes would catch hell even with voting rights, the LORD's words hold; I am giving you the means to cope with oppression and bondage until the 400-year prophecy expires.

- Isaiah 19:19 (GW) When that day comes, an altar for the LORD will be in the middle of Egypt, [USA] and a stone marker for the LORD will be near its border.

One hundred years after the Civil War, America was on its way to becoming a democracy guided by the Congregation. The U.S. Capitol Building was built by Judah and for the Congregation.

Indeed, though the popular impression favors the Gentiles. The U.S. Capital Building serves to restrain the Gentiles; otherwise, they would have short-changed themselves in prosperity by killing the goose that laid the golden egg. Today, look at the issue that is driving the makings of another Civil War—voting; that is, claims of stealing elections.

On the 12th, the Army of Heaven demonstrated The Judahite's administrative authority.

Ironically, self-governance means massive destruction throughout the city, Alabama, and the nation. Authority must first be established before destruction. Like Jeremiah, he directed the Temple's destruction.

Selma is in a state of emergency. Symbolically, Selma finished its mission. Its history has no operational value going into the future because the Commonwealth of Israel and the Stone Kingdom are our future.

Around 3 am, Raphael visited The Judahite regarding Psalm 91. The Judahite discussed Psalms 91 in a previous presentation. However, for now, additional details will be addressed in a different expression.

Still, The Judahite later received the definitive affirmation of Selma's symbolism supernaturally. The historical missions of Selma and the U.S. Capitol have ended.

Yeshua and the Army of Heaven Move Methodically

Selma's birth and development come as another chapter of closing the doors of yesteryears systematically. Judah and Israel's future and glory are to replant the Congregation in the Lands of Promise.

God doesn't shoot dice.
He opens processes and closes them.

Fear

In a few days or so, once people grasp the significance of Selma's tornado destruction, fear will fall upon governmental officials because the outcomes from Selma drove the evolutionary social and political character of America's democracy. As Selma goes in the end times, so goes to America.

Late Night Notice

Closing out the day, The Judahite received two illustrative notices of boiling water. One, boiling water on the stove is just getting started in judgment, like the lake of fire. Two, the hot water inside the teapot will continue to burn, preventing outside forces from touching the teapot with the intent of drinking the tea. Scalding hot water will kill all those without rights attempting to drink the tea.
