

Deuteronomy's Curses. The Congregation now gives its Depositions And The interment

As a reminder, we are under the Feast of Trumpet, having its criterion of expectations. Therefore, read Deuteronomy chapter twenty-eight and make notes on verses that you and your family regard as associative experiences.

In a previous post, an outlined procedure explained how to read the chapter and take notes on the inflicted Curses that would be condensed and incorporated in the July 1st Convocation.

As said before, the Convocation requires an abstract depositional format of the inflicted Curses.

Personalized notetaking of Chapter 28 is valuable for offsetting most expressed views on the airwaves from all quarters about the pros and cons of cultural diversity and black inclusion into mainstream society. The list goes on and on. For the tens of millions pushing cultural diversity, or the trappings thereof, they have misunderstood the timing expiration of Jacob-tithing blessings to the Gentiles and the lifting of the Mosaic Curses strategically.

Hence, one of the primary reasons for doing a congregational deposition is to certify one's family afflictions to avoid the black-ish trap meant to advance job opportunities for others within the old system of today.

For Judah and the Ten Tribes, depositions certify the pathway to bring about interment effectively toward replanting.

The outline of this presentation:

Starting at the unit level of society, the family, with connections to work employment, church, education, group politics, and learning to vote self-interest in national elections. Such are the steppingstones, post-Civil War, leading to Judah's goals.

The Judahite's thoughtful notes

1. The Judahite comes from a family whose father lived one hundred years and still actively working until the day of his death. He was a man who never sat still. Overall, he supported a family of twelve children.
2. An inherited trait noncomplaining about life. The Judahite never heard a curse word from his father's mouth.
3. As young children, Mother had a home prayer service every Wednesday evening.
4. Attention is on the fundamentals: one would have a better chance in life if blessed by good parents. Truly, it is generally acknowledged a good family produces good community leaders and teachers.

The Home State of Judah

Tuskegee Institute emerged as the beacon of light to millions of poorly educated and illiterate Judeans. Having strong family values and faith in God, the people of Tuskegee organized Tuskegee Institute. Because one is unreadable in the classical sense of Europe's education system doesn't mean one is stupid. After all, teaching Judeans to read and write were capital offenses.

About twenty years ago, compared to other black communities around the country, Tuskegee, Alabama, had the highest percentage of Judean citizens holding master's degrees.

Many melanated nations from different parts of the world sought assistance to reproduce the Tuskegee model—self-help, self-determination, and aid from God. Just think, Booker T. Washington pawned his watch for capital, enough to prove his experiment for commercialized bricks to win the contract. Had his final test failed, Tuskegee would have died. He won the contract, and the rest is history.

The Role of The Judahite

The Judahite doesn't regard himself as a prophet because we are all living near the end of the latter days; therefore, there are little percentages of revelation to prophesize. Our era is driven mainly by implementation guidelines, Soundwave25 and Headphone25.

However, in the prophetic sense, a ruler. Still, such a position should not necessarily mean holding the highest rank within the state, like governor or president. For now, a policy ruler is equivalent to heading the Executive Body of Israel.

Comparatively, the western-style government will fade away along with the science of political economy that rests on economic exploitation and financial interest rates. In contrast, the Commonwealth of Israel rests on different economic laws for distributing financial wealth from society's operational pool that accumulates the total labor value found in society. In sum, the Executive Body of Israel's functionality is around the theocratic milestone of Yeshua's Stone Kingdom.

God calls his servants at a young age.

At an early age, God called: Moses, Joseph, Daniel and his three associates, Jeremiah, Yeshua, etc. The Judahite was called at an early age.

Civil Rights' Origin, a Review.

Black Reconstruction ended roughly around 1877, marking an end to the legislative agenda of Judah and Israel in the making of constitutional democracy. The twelve years life of Black Reconstruction presented a model glimpse a functioning constitutional democracy.

The Civil War and the national reconstruction effort enabled Judah to see his role in a system of government that would allow overall social development for everyone. Finally, after two thousand years, Judah could envision his future of hope and prosperity.

However, with the rise of the Black Code Laws, the Judeans were forced to delay participatory democracy for another one hundred years, until 1965.

Today, many overlook the significance of the Black Code Laws in shaping the ideologies of capitalism. Cognitively stated, everything under the capitalistic system has a monetized value. The doctrines of monopolistic capitalism: pro-social oppression, pro-economic exploitation, pro-class divisions, pro-sexism (gender oppression), pro-racism (economic exploitation of all skin colors), and pro-class hierarchical structure.

Essential facts to remember. Whereas Judah is associated with the ills of capitalism due to chattel slavery, the ideology of capitalism has little to no respect for skin color and gender. This reality is seen daily due to knowledge deficiency of political economy as a science.

Consider that Judah held the predominant skilled craftsmanship in the South and about half of the advanced workers in manufacturing during and shortly after the Civil War.

Two conclusions to draw: one, most whites were unskilled. Two, the white ruling class of the South sought to re-establish a financially secure way of life. But now? Not to forget, the Civil War came as a direct result of the aristocracy class not having advanced mathematical skills in international trade.

Just as planned, the international bankers bankrupted both the North and South, leaving them with hand-in-mouth begging for finance capital. The magnitude of southern devastation left no doubt that the South pre-war culture will never be reconstructed.

War has always been hell for the living. Even today, nothing has changed. There are those today who are making senseless effort to redefine the definition of war. War is war and will always be war. Nat Turner gave a preview of the Civil War.

The question for all, where would capital come from to reconstruct society?

The southern aristocratic class had cultural pride. Eventually, they saw the economic reality and succumbed with the hope of ratifying the constitutional amendments that would permit Union reentry. Even so, industries of the North moved into the South and became the basis from which the South would eventually have a mixed economy industry and agriculture. The old ruling class of the South would forever be marginalized until they faded away through the 1964 Civil Right act.

Back at hand, the Planter class was forced to form legislative alliances, a first, to hold on to the image of big money and political power.

In desperate need of capital for national reconstruction, President Lincoln sought to create the nation's own currency, printing the Greenback. A constructive step to free the country from the international bankers, but he was killed. The international bankers aligned with the Jesuits who killed him. Likewise, JFK who sought to create a new currency through the U.S. Treasury Department. Yes, on one level, so sad. But the managerial class of world's affairs had a futuristic plan for world's governments. The Second Beast System had to progress according to biblical prophecy; therefore, there is nothing to feel sorry for, either people are with the planned direction or not.

The South took much longer to recover from the Civil War than the North because two different approaches ran parallel in reconstruction. One being the old ruling class, a shadow of itself, was compelled to invent new social classes of allies, including poor whites, a device mechanism for social oppression of ex-slaves. Two, the ex-slaves struggled to form their own educational systems of training and learning. On all accounts, they had to start from zero and live through the many adversities to live an independent life in safety.

Some members of Judah being more industrial than others and took their forty acres and a mule as promised by the Union upon joining the army. With guns in hands, the soldiers defended their rights.

The Black Code Laws

It became painfully evidence to the once southern aristocracy that they would never reconstruct the South without imposing wage slavery, institutionalizing contract fraud, and creating a complex sharecropping system aimed at re-instituting slavery without the apparent appearance of chattel slavery. Using the visual trick of self-exploitation while pretending black labor has no force constraints.

In the mix, the new social order sanctioned taking anything of economic and financial value from the ex-enslaved people.

Thus, overall, the solid core of the black political economy.

The leap forward

After the southern oligarchy allied with poor whites to become their agents of economic terrorism, they were back on top and controlled distribution of social wealth. Like the blacks, the general white population had to fend for itself.

Research has shown that in ninety percent of terroristic cases, someone in the white mob had an ulterior motive for the lynching, burning, forcing people to relocate out of personal safety, and making false charges.

There are two factors to consider for white terrorism's activism.

- A. The emerging white business class among the general population had the primary motive for advancing terrorism. For a growing adolescent, capital and market share were necessary to reach critical mass in defining the white business class's fundamental characteristics. Indeed, the white small business class came into its own through social manipulations, defrauding, killing, and using the image of white womanhood as a social instrument to conceal the true motives for ill-gotten gains from the ex-enslaved people. Thus, consider the above behavioral traits as the solid core of the white business class in its political economy.
- B. In ninety percent of the cases, the white business class was able to conceal its motives from the rest of the white population. The white woman was considered racial pride after the Black Code Laws became legislative enactment. Never during the whole bondage period of slavery did the white woman thought to be unique. As a historical note, many white women came to North America as indentured servants and criminals. Instead of having to feed them, national governments shipped them to the Americas. The notion of white womanhood became a rallying cry to organize and strengthen the white business class. Naturally, the general population embraced the political slogan, although nothing of any material value was in it for them. Therefore, consider sexualism as the solid core of the political economy of sexism.

The white business class remain legalized bandits. They had access to all channels of commercial intelligence to know the rich and well-off Israelites and Judeans. So, when they moved, they knew what assets were on the target list.

The Oklahoma Black Wall Street massacre was well-planned using white women's political economy. Regardless of scale, the white woman's role is defined as a sexualized political instrument.

With the rise of the Women's Movement, white women have become conscious of their gender mode in the political economy. They have cashed in on sexual harassment for themselves, raking in tens of billions of dollars in lawsuits. For the most part, corporate white women are the biggest winners.

Proving sexual harassment claims calls for careful planning to get an award. Not knowing how the game is played, many file sexual harassment claims only to be throw out of court.

Learning to live being eaten within the political economy of racism, while working to develop plans of liberation.

The Civil Rights movement started with no intentions of racial integration. Often overlooked as a detail in American history, Judah never had a mental construct of racial integration and social equality. Judah was born to work. Work was his creation, generation after generation.

After the Civil War, Judah wanted the right to enjoy his free time through constructive engagement according to the Scriptures. Judah built most black churches in the early years after the War without bank financing. To Judah, he found happiness in having a family, an unfulfilled desire for hundreds of years. His source of joy is fellowship with those of the same spirit.

White Terrorism reached a point of no return.

The prophet Isaiah foretold the method for Judah and the Ten Tribes to use for seeking relief from the Mosaic Curses.

- In that day there will be an altar [Ten Tribes] to the LORD in the midst of the land of Egypt [Oklahoma is the capital state for the Ten Tribes of Israel], and a pillar to the LORD at its border [the U.S. Capital in Washington D.C constructed by Judah under the authorization of Dan, the Jesuits.].
- And it will be for a sign and for a witness to the LORD of hosts in the land of Egypt; for they will cry to the LORD because of the oppressors, and He will send them a Savior and a Mighty One, and He will deliver them. Isaiah 19:19

Isaiah spoke about the right to vote. The Judahite, as a young lad, received a vision while on the Edmund Pettus Bridge long before the Voters Right Movement in Selma.

The Voters Right Movement

Years later, the Voters Right Movement's defining moment occurred on Bloody Sunday on the Edmund Pettus Bridge, which led to the successful passage of the Voters Right Act of 1965. At last, America became a constitutional democracy.

The right to vote became a potent political tool in the hands of the Israelites, although it took time to educate the masses on how to use the vote effectively. Still, the Negroes voted progressives into office as a rule, but in some cases, when studying the issues, not the right choice. In all national elections, the "black vote" is weighted in determining the outcomes.

The right to vote served the purpose of restraining social repression under the constitutional democracy.

Black Code Laws allotted one hundred years for the new social class structure to arrange itself. While the right to vote slowed down racial oppression, the vote showed no significant impact on preventing political economy from the perpetual practice of defrauding the Ten Tribes and Judah.

On balance, as the social forms of consciousness become more mature as seen today, the rules of political economy are neutral in the application and color blind. Anyone who is proactive and knows the rules of political economy can become a financial winner—hitting the jackpot. For many not knowing the rules, they would never win.

The Mosaic Curses.
Consider a few substantiative applications.

Deuteronomy 28:

30-32. Devolving the economics of family life. For example, taking and stealing inventions. There are many stories involving commercial theft, and the claimers could prove it. The high cost of legal fees and crooked attorneys persuade people to write off the theory of what should be and could be and move on with life.

As a young lad, it was common knowledge that Coca-Cola's recipe came from a Negro lady. On balance, in most cases, the robbery was not concealed. Just about all commercial whiskey brands have their origin in the lab of ex-Israelite enslaved people. For example, Jack Daniel Whiskey, one of the world's top three brands, owes its creation to an ex-slave. Look, the best rum and brandy come from the recipes of enslaved people in the Americas, South, and Central.

The cotton gin is another example. The list can go on and on. The upshot: nothing will be realized with no access to investment capital.

On the other hand, attracting investment partners run the high risk of partnering with those holding an ace up their sleeves; many stories about Judeans snake bites due to inadequate deal arrangements foreclosed on this option.

Moses has proven correct because he was permitted to look into the future, accounting for his time travel three thousand years into the future. Also, he moved forward in time to the Mt. of Transfiguration. He came back in a ghost-like appearance, frightening everyone. A head covering was made for him to wear while outside the Tabernacle.

Do not make light of the saying: “if it were not for bad luck, I would have any luck at all.”

JUNETEENTH

June 20, 2022

Today is the national celebration of Juneteenth. Juneteenth commemorates the two years delay of the Emancipation Proclamation to the enslaved people in Texas that ended slavery. June 19 is the legal holiday.

Seeing the Holy Spirit in Motion

As in some cases, the Holy Spirit moves people to act, although they do so without understanding the underpinnings. Such is the case with Juneteenth. What is coming soon makes it imperative to understand the role of Texas in relation to Judah.

A brief historical review.

The Asherites are biblical administrators of social systems in association with Daniel’s Man Image statue model. Tribal Asher neither adds nor subtracts from Scriptures. His role is to make sure that all the key players know their roles in each social system as history progresses, according to the book of Daniel and other prophets.

Archangel Raphael tutored Nat Turner, the Asherite, on the outline of American history. As a continuation, Nat Turner co-existed with President Andrew Jackson, the father of imperialism. To best understand Nat and Jackson requires knowing the established paradigm between Israel and Judah’s co-governance with the Gentiles at the executive level.

Texas is the brainchild of President Jackson. President Jackson acted strategically and complimentary to Nat Turner in the spirit of America's destiny. He put his plan in motion to take Texas from Mexico.

Historical highlights and events lead to two different outcomes.

Alabama is now a state, but during Andrew Jackson's military days considered the territory of Mississippi. Jackson's military victories in Alabama defined his prophetic mission. He composed his legal treatise on Indian removal from their lands of origin. He acted with a sense of urgency.

- He legalized the Trail of Tears from Alabama to Oklahoma that disposed of tribal Manasseh, the predominant tribe, from the territory of Georgia and Alabama.
- The area of Alabama where he signed the treaty taking about half of the territory, later became the shared area of Alabama state capital and Judah having Tuskegee as its capital city.
- Jackson was a man of action. When Jackson became President, he signed the Indian removal act and forced all the tribes to move to Oklahoma. He had over three hundred enslaved people and understood the value of real estate holdings.
- As planned, when Jackson became President, he supported the Texas Revolutionary efforts, and later Texas became a Republic. As planned, Texas was admitted into the Union after Jackson left office to avoid personal connection to him.
- Drew Scott appeared in Texas during the Revolution just as he did at Fort Snelling. Texas came into the Union as a slave state.
- Essentials: President Jackson was the seventh President of the Thirteen original states, the United States of America. Texas' territory covered a little bit more than the Thirteen States.
- As a slave state, Texas became Judah's prophetic home where he would evolve with imperialism.
- President Jackson prophetically arranged Oklahoma in association with the Northern Kingdom of Israel. Oklahoma is north of Texas. And Southern Kingdom of Judah, Texas, south of Oklahoma.

The essential understanding of Juneteenth

First, the importance of correcting historical facts. The Emancipation Proclamation is a document that had no weight in the decisive outcome of the Civil War. The Proclamation was a political last-ditch effort to break up the European alliance for the South. It worked! No more arms to the Confederate.

Two historical facts that ended the Civil War

- I. Judah's general labor strike was decisive, causing the Confederate to fall.
- II. The French, acting like a snake, did not support the European Alliance in discontinuing support for the Confederate. The French decided to come through the backdoor, using Mexico as the backdoor, in support of the Confederate. A good plan, but, Joe of Alabama influenced the war effort and defeated France in Mexico.

Joe, the black slave from Alabama, and/or his descendants influenced the Mexican's war effort to defeat the French army in Mexico. History comes full circle. The French bankers triggered the Civil War.

Joe served in the Battle at the Alamos alongside his master Travis, a lawyer who died at the Alamos. It was never a question who would win: General Antonio Lopez De Santa Anna. But he underestimated at what cost. Joe was captured and roughed up. He was taken prisoner and held at the Travis estate.

Joe escaped and disappeared from the pages of history. The following is The Judahite's account about happened to Joe. General Santa Anna arranged for his escape. On the day of his escape two unidentified Mexicans appeared allowing Joe to fully load two horses. Joe loaded law books and legal materials, clothing and other things of his inheritance that had value. For three months, posters went out all over Texas to find Joe. He disappeared from history.

Using lessons from the Alamos, Joe, the Judean, influenced the war effort against the French. Joe used his knowledge to enrich his new country and adopted a different name. Though it is not known, Cinco de Mayo supports Joe's efforts in defeating the French.

Joe moved forward in time as an Alabamian/Texan to earmark Judah's parallel development with imperialism.

As an insight into the relationship between Judah and France, the Scriptures use the differences between Alexander the Great and Napoleon the Great. Emperor Napoleon is credited with the wars of Europe, the fall of the first Little Horn and the rise of the second Little Horn or the Second Beast system. Still, many Bible readers are not completely clear about the two Generals.

While sleeping in the Egyptian pyramid, Archangel Raphael visited Napoleon with a message stating, in essence, that he would never defeat the tribe of Judah but would win the battle with the Little Horn.

The enlightenment is consistent with Alexander the Great. Judean priests read to Alexander from the Book of Daniel, showing him how his kingdom would end and how he would die. Likewise, Napoleon received the same courtesy outlining his life.

Using the lessons from the epic Battle at the Alamos and the spirits of Haiti, the French army never ventured into the Americas again.

The two years delay means.

Now with the correct historical facts, the two years late arrival of the Emancipation Proclamation has little value because it has no historical relation to anything. Yes, anything as currently seen and celebrated. The enslaved people never received compensation for the two years' labor, plus they continued doing labor work as before but with slave wages.

The Secret

The two years delay represent prophetic divisional separations.

- A separation between capitalism and imperialism. Or capitalism would evolve out of imperialism and from the state of Texas. Hence the symbolism of two years delay.
- Nat's administration policy put the Ten Tribes in a position to become the nation's oil capital. Truly, the American energy industry continued to grow and expand from Oklahoma. On the other hand, Texas is outward-looking sees the international market.
- The manner of Nat's death illustrated the model of imperialism. Texas is the Jacksonian model of imperialism wherein Judah would develop in parallel and overtake the Red Dragon.
- Texas oil industry became instrumental in dollarizing the international oil industry; hence, the Petro-Dollar.

JUNETEENTH and Biden & Kamala

We are now in the Feast of Trumpet actualization, not like another rehearsal year like the previous thousands of years.

Given to The Judahite as a sign, the moon stood still for three hours on election night. A rare occurrence, indeed, so was the non-announcement of a declared President-elect. Officially, declared three days later. God doesn't make mistakes.

Kamala

Kamala has the blood of tribal Simeon and Levite. Biden signed the Juneteenth act into law on 18 June 2021, though he fully understood the political reasoning for doing so. But not, the prophetic underpinning. Likewise, Kamala.

As a perspective, God moves methodologically toward his known stated objectives. He is sovereign and has no need to deal in conspiracy.
