July Message From CEO

Hello and welcome to our second edition. A lot has happened over the course of the last month. Several states have opened their non-essential businesses and more people are out and about. Companies and businesses are gearing up for the "new normal" configurations of businesses, hotels, waterparks, community centers, movie theatres, and yes, even business offices. They are making sure to follow the CDC guidelines so as not to spur another outbreak of COVID-19 sickness in their firms so there will be more measures taken such as distancing and sanitizing common areas and touch points and such, so much so, that it is making some people really nervous and scared for returning to work inside their office space. I know this because of all the phone, text, and email messages to me. Many people are asking for what it takes to get a real online job that allows them to work at home, permanently.

They are not alone. According to an article in Biz Women, 64% of business office workers polled said they are not comfortable with returning to their office space. That means that more and more people are asking for an alternative to returning to the office.

This is why our webinars are so important and highly valued. We do our best each week to present the three phases of getting online work at home job and during the webinar, we teach tips, tricks, and techniques that ensure success. We also teach about how it is possible to make money even while being a job seeker. In addition, we point out some areas on the web where you could fall prey to scam artists and help you minimize your risk of being scammed.

It is our great pleasure working as a team to make all this information available to you. Our heart beats with the passion to see to it that everyone that can get an online job be

First, thank you for providing this training for me/us. It was great, definitely worth our time.

(It was especially so much fun to be in a small group with my co-workers and even more fun that we got to briefly reminisce about when we all worked together. AnnaMaria is just so great!!!)

One thing that made a big difference:

Towards the beginning of the training, AnnaMaria reminded us that she was going to send us each a document containing the info we were learning.

With having to take notes out of my space - I got to just follow along and actually do on my computer what she was doing on hers. I got to experience a first-hand feel for going through the different searches. I also got to see what popped up when I put my cursor on potential links and identify for myself hacked links vs. legitimate links. And all our questions were thoroughly answered.

Thanks for asking and having me reflect back over my experience of this training.

successful at getting hired. We have plans to expand this information into a series that teaches how to keep and advance in an online job too (more on that in later editions).

The times and days in which we live are challenging and are testing our resolve for sure. So, if you are one of the office workers who relate to the sentiments of the 64% worried and afraid to go back to your office space, sign up and register for our webinar. You can see for yourself that there is a viable alternative to going back to your desk and that you can stay working at home working for another company who wants remote workers with your skill and expertise.

How long have you been with Prosperity Pathways?

I have been with Prosperity Pathways for 6 months.

How did you get involved with this company?

I have known the CEO (AnnaMaria Bliven) for one year now. 6 months ago, I asked her if I could help - she enthusiastically said yes.

What makes this company different?

We recognize the potential of people to grow and adapt in their career, meeting the challenges of the present day, working together for a better tomorrow for everyone.

Where do you see this company in 5 years?

I would hope our strength is that we have more human resources than any other group - we see more potential in every living thing. If others see our strengths, they will respond positively and constructively.
