PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

September 2025

Hello PABCC family. Wow, what a three month break we had! Feels great to get back on the swing and resume our club meetings with renewed energy. Hope y'all added some great items to your collections. I sure did. At our next September 3rd meeting we will have our annual Show & Tell presentation. The Show and Tell is a favorite of mine. Love seeing all the great items we collected and the joy expressed in finding those goodies during the past three months. Or if you have something you always had but never brought to our Show and Tell bring it in. We all like learning about interesting collectibles. Hope to see you all next Wednesday evening.

June Program

Ed Dobbins brought in a portion of his collection of British Relief Moulded Jugs. He explained the process of how the moulds were formed and the jugs made and how to discern the original jugs from reproductions or other type of manufacture. Most jugs of this type were made from 1830-1880 when they were used to carry liquids in pubs and in the home; by the turn of the century bottles and cans had replaced jugs in common use. Early examples from the 1830s often showed hunting scenes, especially fox hunting with hounds. Other common themes include the story of Tam O'Shanter, from a poem by Robert Burns, or parables and stories of common knowledge.

Story of "The Miller, His Son, and a Donkey"

Tam O'Shanter scenes with portrait of Robert Burns.

Hunting motif with foxes and hounds, 1830s.

Come the 1850s the relief of the jugs was more shallow, themes were often bacchanalian or mythical, and beautiful hand painting adorned the jugs.

By the 1860s and 1870s the relief was lower still, but very bright color was painted on. Many jugs had an Oriental appearance.

"Merch" publicizing the tour of a family of musicians. The lavender background color was painted onto the mould, a faster process than painting the piece.

For a more detailed explanation of Relief Moulded Jugs see Ed's article in the April 2025 edition of our newsletter, The A-Z Collector.

Thank you, Ed, for sharing this beautiful collection.

June Show & Tell

Ron and his (hidden) assistant Liz found this framed photo print of a Wyoming rancher/artist named Julie Hagen, ca. 1981. This photo was featured in a 2008 issue of True West Magazine, where it is stated Julie has been dubbed the "Mona Lisa Of The Range".

Bob found this railroad lantern from the Copper Queen Line in Arizona. He also brought in a date stamper from Winslow. The last date on the device is May 24, 1938. We all noted Bob was sporting a beautiful bola tie, a birthday present to himself, made by Helen Long.

Lauren brought in two hats that belonged to her grandfather. He was born in Panama, the child of Jamaican parents (British citizens), attended Georgetown University in the 1920s and graduated medical school in 1930.

The officer's hat is from when he was stationed at Ft. Knox after WWII. Lauren also shared some wonderful stories and letters between her grandfather and grandmother.

Lesley found these items, the "Legend Set" of serving wares, among her father Bob's belongings. The pieces were manufactured by the Luffman family business.

George brought in a photo album with historic photos of many events in the aftermath of WWI, including unburied bodies, destroyed buildings, and GIs returning home on ships. Some had to wait a year or longer to be transported.

Jackie recently acquired this soda bottle from Clifton, AZ, a mining town in eastern Arizona. We learned a short history of Clifton and of the man who started this bottling company. The bottle dates to sometime between 1928 and 1949.
