

The picture above is the original Crossing Zion @ the Narrows.

This picture and the next one was taken inside the Quest 2 Headset. Using the 180/30 setting to view a stereogram puts you in the picture.

From this picture, you can also get a feeling for the movement possible. It is not a broad, huge gesture, but clearly enough to move around the image.

Not all images work this way. The picture must have natural depth, and it is helpful if the picture reveals more and more information the deeper you go.
