SOME GLYCERIN FACTS

– Fundamental Glycerin Chemistry –

1. Glycerin retains the biological integrity of herbal constituents: meaning it does not denature, render inert, or drive oxidation of beneficial compounds like alcohol does.
2. Glycerin captures more of an herb's natural properties: "Glycerin combines the extractive qualities of water and alcohol: and many substances dissolve even more easily in it than in either of the two liquids." (Reference: GLYCERIN, Its Industrial and Commercial Applications. By Leffingwell, PhD; Lesser BS, 1945 Chemical Publishing Co., Inc., Brooklyn, N.Y.)
3. Glycerin protective solvent cages and preserves an herb's constituents, and contributes to astounding shelf life integrity.
4. Glycerin protects the aroma & flavor profile of the natural herb. Alcohol distorts these characteristics. Proper taste response is an essential part of healthy digestion and the body's systems receiving an herb's benefits.

Our multi-dynamic processes and synergies-driven multiplex formulary expertise are what differentiates
Liquid Herbs International™ from

OUR UNIQUE FORMULARY APPROACH

Anyone can mix a bunch of herbs together.
But making effective liquid formula blends?
That's another story!

Some of the factors we use when creating a multiplex formula:

Phyto Therapeutics— clinical & traditional herbalism.

Phyto Pharmacognosy— constituent basis of differing herbs.

Chemical Interactions— chemistry of herbs in a blended state.

Herbal Energetics— synergies of differing herbs in a blend.

Organoleptics— appearance, aroma & taste quality of raw herbs.

Mineral Profiling— minerals have affinities for body systems.

Micronutrient Factors— the nutritional aspects of herbs.

Taste— key to biochemical triggering & consumer acceptance.
