Commanders Report

I hope that the New Year is off to a great start for everyone. This past month has been a busy one for sure. I want to thank all those that flagged the Fort Worth Stock Show parade and then the stock show itself for the last three weekends. In a few weeks on March 3rd we will be celebrating Confederate Flag Day, Allen will have more on that at the meeting. Also, that weekend will be the Irish Festival in Dallas, it's always a big recruiting event for the SCV. So start making plans now to attend one or both events. I want to congratulate our own Frank Kraiwic on his new job, and know you'll be missed at the meetings till you can accrue time off. We have several things to discuss this month so please make note that we are now be meeting on the 3rd Tuesday each month at Bone Daddy's.

Confederately yours,
Craig (Hoss) Stone
Commander

2nd Lt Commanders Report

Dear Members and Friends:

I am still waiting on response for a speaker for our February meeting. However, I do have Mark Vogl coming in March and Don Bradford coming in May.

I want to thank everyone who participated in the flagging of the Ft. Worth Fat Stock Show. We must let the public know we are not going away.

I want to apologize for not attending last month's meeting as I had previously purchased tickets for a concert prior to us moving our camp meetings to the 3rd Tuesday. So I had spent the evening with a lady friend which happened to be her birthday. I heard some reports that Bone Daddy's is working out well for our meeting place. I am glad we agreed to start meeting there.

I am in process of getting us a recruiting booth at the Irish festival the first weekend in March. This is the best recruiting venue I have seen so far. If anyone is interested please go to www.ntif.org and look at their website.

Respectfully,

Kyle Sims

1st Lt. Commander

Chaplains Corner - The Flag My Grandpa Knew

I remember how each morning he'd rise before us all
And I'd hear his muffled footsteps as he padded down the hall.
The many years he'd labored, had left his body bent and gray
But Grandpa had a reason for getting up each day.
A well-worn box sat on a shelf, beside his rocking chair
I don't know where it came from, seems it always had been there.
Inside the box a tattered cloth of crimson, blue, and white
And he'd gaze at it each morning with tears that dimmed his sight.
On special days he raised it still on the pole outside our door.
And he'd tell us kids in reverent tones what the tattered cloth stood for.
The red reminds me of the Wheatfield, where Hood's men were slain.
Where seven thousand good men fell, amidst the bloodied grain.
The blue, I guess, brings back to mind, the loneliness and cold
Of a Shenandoah winter, a thousand miles from home.
And the pure white stars, well they're Generals, for Jackson, Stuart, and Bee
And the big one in the middle there, is for Robert Edward Lee.
Each bullet hole is for a battle won, each tear a comrade lost,
Each stain is for a wounded friend, who paid the final cost.
Ol' Grandpa must have loved that flag, he stayed near it every day
And so, Grandpa took it with him when he finally passed away.
And if there's a flagpole up in heaven, there's no tear in Grandpa's eye,
'Cause I know he's back in uniform, and his beloved flag flies high.

2018 Stephen D. Lee Institute Symposium - The Rational Confederate in an Irrational World
Defending our Southern heritage in an age devoid of logic and reason.

17 February 2018 - Shreveport, Louisiana

The attacks on our Southern heritage are beyond all reason: emotion and insanity rage while facts, rationality, and logic are being driven from public discourse.

It is the purpose of the Stephen D. Lee Institute to provide the antidote to these toxins by bringing together some of the best minds in the South to make the case for Dixie.

We are once again putting together a very distinguished line-up of speakers, including...
Marshall DeRosa - professor of American Constitutional Law and author of numerous books including
The Confederate Constitution of 1861: An Inquiry into American Constitutionalism.

Ron Kennedy - noted trouble-maker and, along with his brother Don Kennedy, perhaps the most prolific author in the modern Southern movement. Among his many books are The South was Right and Dixie Rising: Rules for Rebels and many others.

Paul C. Graham - editor of Shotwell Publishing and author of Confederaphobia!

Lee Bright - Two-term S.C. State Senator and renowned defender of Southern heritage.

Jeffery Addicott -- law professor and expert on terrorist tactics; author of Radical Islam Why?: Confronting Jihad at Home & Abroad among others.

Charles E. McMichael - Past SCV Commander-in-Chief and relentless defender of Southern heritage.

SCV National News - Another Monument Vandalized

This is the mentality of the people that want Americas history erased. This happened The night of February 5th near Nashville, TN in Mount Olivet Cemetery.. This memorial marks a mass grave of 1500 unknown Confederate soldiers. We must guard and protect all our memorials. They will stop at nothing and nothing is off limits to the evil.

VA Flaggers News

For the FIFTH time in FOUR days, the illegal tarps covering the magnificent Robert E Lee monument in LEE Park, and Stonewall Jackson monument in JACKSON park in Charlottesville were removed again today... this time in broad daylight!

The Southern Avenger got away clean, but an innocent bystander was chased down by the police and accosted for taking a picture.

City officials say they are stepping up patrols and will continue to waste taxpayer money and city resources to replace the hideous and illegal tarps.

The judge may not have made his decision yet about the tarps, but the citizens of the Commonwealth are speaking loud and clear!

LEAVE THE TARPS DOWN!

Add your voice! Send an email to council@charlottesville.org and tell them to leave the tarps down! This email will automatically be sent to every City Council member.

Confederate Armament—Double Barreled Field Piece

In 1862 Georgia dentist, builder, and mechanic John Gilleland raised money from a coterie of Confederate citizens in Athens, Georgia, to build the ultimate chain-shot gun for a cost of $350. Cast in one piece, the gun featured side-by-side bores, each a little over 3 inches in diameter and splayed slightly outward so the shots would diverge and stretch the chain taut. The two barrels have a divergence of 3 degrees, and the cannon was designed to shoot simultaneously two cannonballs connected with a chain to "mow down the enemy somewhat as a scythe cuts wheat". During tests the Gilleland cannon effectively mowed down trees, tore up a cornfield, knocked down a chimney and killed an unfortunate cow. None of the above were anywhere near the gun's intended target.

A treatise that describes Antonio Petrini's cannon survives in the Royal Armories of the Tower of London, while Gilleland's gun sits on the lawn of the Athens, Ga., city hall.

Gilleland's invention was a failure. When it was first tested, on April 22, 1862, and aimed at a target of two upright poles, uneven combustion of the powder and casting imperfections in the barrels gave the connected balls a spinning movement in an off-center direction, with witnesses reporting that on its first firing it "plowed up about an acre of ground, tore up a cornfield, mowed down saplings, and then the chain broke, the two balls going in different directions."

On its second firing, the chain shot across the horizon and into a thicket of pine. "[The] thicket of young pines at which it was aimed looked as if a narrow cyclone or a giant mowing machine had passed through," reported another witness.

On its third firing, the chain snapped immediately and one ball tore into a nearby cabin, knocking down its chimney; the other spun off erratically and struck a nearby cow, killing it instantly. Gilleland considered the test-firings a success.

Gilleland tried to promote his invention to the Confederate States Army's arsenal in Augusta, Georgia, where it was found unfit for its purpose. He continued to try to promote his invention to other military leaders around Augusta, but failed to interest anyone. Finally his contraption was used as a signal gun in Athens to warn against advancing Yankees.

On 27 July 1864, the cannon was fired after a report was heard of several thousand Union soldiers approaching Monroe, Georgia. However, this report turned out to be false. The cannon disappeared in 1891 and was found again ten years later.

Currently, the cannon is on display on the front lawn of the City Hall of Athens, Georgia, where is a contributing property of the Downtown Athens Historic District. A local landmark and public curiosity, the cannon is one of the most popular and well-known attractions in the city. It is still pointing northward in a symbolic gesture of defiance against the North it was built to fight.

Sons of Confederate Veterans
 "DEFENDING THEIR HONOR SINCE 1896"
 www.scv.org ★ 1-800-MySouth

What is the Sons of Confederate Veterans?

The citizen-soldiers who fought for the Confederacy personified the best qualities of America. The preservation of liberty and freedom was the motivating factor in the South's decision to fight the Second American Revolution. The tenacity with which Confederate soldiers fought underscored their belief in the rights guaranteed by the Constitution. These attributes are the underpinning of our democratic society and represent the foundation on which this nation was built.

Today, the Sons of Confederate Veterans is preserving the history and legacy of these heroes, so future generations can understand the motives that animated the Southern Cause.

The SCV is the direct heir of the United Confederate Veterans, and the oldest hereditary organization for male descendants of Confederate soldiers. Organized at Richmond, Virginia in 1896, the SCV continues to serve as a historical, patriotic, and non-political organization dedicated to ensuring that a true history of the 1861-1865 period is preserved.

CHARGE TO THE SONS OF CONFEDERATE VETERANS

“To you, Sons of Confederate Veterans, we will commit the vindication of the cause for which we fought. To your strength will be given the defense of the Confederate soldier's good name, the guardianship of his history, the emulation of his virtues, the perpetuation of those principles which he loved and which you love also, and those ideals which made him glorious and which you also cherish.”

Lt. General Stephen Dill Lee Commander-General United Confederate Veterans New Orleans, Louisiana 1906

Remember, it is our duty to see that the true history of the South is preserved and presented to future generations.

Until we meet again, let us remember our obligations to our forefathers, who gave us the undeniable birthright of our Southern Heritage and the vision, desire and courage to see it perpetuated.
