Commanders Report

Greetings Compatriots;

I am happy to report that there is not a lot going on at the moment. But, with the dog days of summer coming to an end, it's time we start looking to fall and all the upcoming activities. I want to encourage everyone to attend the upcoming training session sponsored by the 3rd Brigade, even if you are not currently an officer it is a good opportunity to learn about what each position entails. One of the biggest obstacles we face in this organization is getting good men to step up and accept leadership positions at all levels. We also need to decide as a camp if we want to register for the Veterans Day Parade in Grapevine this year.

Stay cool and hydrated and I hope to see everyone at Bone Daddy's on the 20th

Don't forget to bring your dues to this meeting please.

Confederately yours,
Commander Craig (Hoss) Stone
Lt Commander Texas Division

2nd Lt Commanders Report

Dear Members and Friends:

I am back from Nat'l Convention and that is the reason I was unable to do my report last month. I had missed the Nat'l Convention last year and felt obligated to go this year to represent our camp. Jim Anderson and I caught a ride with Kirt Barnett and Calvin Allen to Mobile and it was nice road trip.

I saw a lot of friends and attended the meetings. We had a nice tour of Beavoir the home of Jefferson Davis. That was the first time I had ever been there.

Some of the things that were voted on at the Conventions was a $5 increase to help fund the SCV Museum. 1st Lt. Commander McCluney has developed some YOU TUBE videos about the SCV. There was discussion about whether or not to have the Debutante Ball be mandatory at the Nat'l Conventions and it was decided to let the host camp make that decision.

Other than conventions, there is not much going on in the SCV due to the heat of the summer. However, our camp officers who are also Division officers have worked night and day in trying to improve the situation of the Division.

I read this week that we lost a Real Son and there maybe just one more Real Son left. This era and generation will be gone forever, so that is why it is up to us to continue the fight, continue the struggle, and continue preserving their memory and heritage,

Respectfully,
Kyle Sims
1st Lt. Commander

Chaplains Corner - The Lords Prayer

“Then this is how you should pray....”. Thus, begins Matthew 6: 9-13, The Lord’s Prayer. This prayer is so majestic in the honoring our Heavenly Father and on the other hand it seems very simplistic and direct in composition. Our Lord warns us about repeating in prayer a “formula” prayer and each prayer doesn’t have to cover every type of prayer. God wants us to talk from our hearts and express ourselves to Him. As we grow in our love for Jesus Christ, we will naturally desire to talk to him more.

The following composition was found on the battlefield at Charleston, S.C., during the war. It was by a wounded comrade who did not live to get home.

The Lord’s Prayer

“Thou to the mercy seat our souls doth gather, to do our duty unto thee—OUR FATHER, to whom all praises, all honor should be given. For thou art the great God—WHO ART IN HEAVEN, thou, by thy wisdom, rules the world’s whole fame, forever, therefore—HALLOWED BE THY NAME. Let nevermore delay divide us from Thy glorious face, but let--THY KINGDOM COME, let thy commands opposed be by none. By thy good pleasures and--THY WILL BE DONE. And let our promptness to obey be given the very same---IN EARTH AS ‘TIS IN HEAVEN. Then for our souls, O Lord, we also pray.

Thou wouldest be pleased to---GIVE US THIS DAY the food of life, wherewith our souls are fed, sufficient raiment, and---OUR DAILY BREAD; with every needful thing do thou relieve us, And of thy mercy, pity---AND FORGIVE US all our misdeeds, for Him whom thou didst please to make an offering, for---OUR TRESPASES. And forasmuch, O Lord, as we believe that thou wilt pardon us---AS WE FORGIVE. Let that love teach, wherewith thou dost acquaint us, to pardon all---WHO TRESPASS AGAINST US.

And though, sometimes, thou findest we have forgot this love for thee, yet help---AND LEAD US NOT through soul or body’s want to desperation, nor let the earth’s gain drive us---INTO TEMPTATION. Let not the soul of any true believer fall in the time of trial---BUT DELIVER, yea save them from the malice of the devil. And both in life and death keep---US FROM EVIL.

Thus, pray we, Lord, for that of thee, from whom this may be had---FOR THINE IS THE KINGDOM, this world is of thy works, its wondrous story to thee belongs---THE POWER AND THE GLORY, and all thy wondrous works have ended never, but will remain forever, and FOREVER. Thus, we poor creatures would confess again, and thus, would say eternally---AMEN.”

A Update from the Virginia Flaggers - A New Roadside Flag

This morning, after extensive weather and construction delays, but in God's perfect timing, we quietly raised a 10'x 15' Confederate battle flag on a 50' pole in Petersburg, Virginia. Dedicated to the glory of God, and in memory and honor of all of our Confederate dead, this site was dedicated in particular to honor Gen A. P. Hill, who was mortally wounded nearby.

The landowner contacted us shortly after the city of Petersburg voted to change the name of nearby A P Hill Elementary School, furious at those who chose to dishonor our veterans and attempt to rewrite Petersburg's rich Confederate history and heritage.

The Petersburg Boydton Plank Rd. Gen AP Hill Memorial Battle Flag is the 29th flag raised by the Va Flaggers in the Commonwealth since the fall of 2013, and like those raised before her, will fly as a 24/7 reminder that there are still those of us who will not go quietly into the night in the face of vicious and hateful attacks on our history, our heritage, and the men who bravely fought to defend the Commonwealth from invasion.

A formal dedication ceremony is planned for later this fall.

To assist with our Interstate Battle Flags and ongoing Heritage Defense projects, please make checks payable to "The Virginia Flaggers" and mail to: P.O. Box 393 Sutherland VA 23885

Or contribute through PayPal, here: <http://www.vaflaggers.com/i95flagdonate.html>

All glory to God. All honor to the Confederate soldier.

Susan Lee

The Texas Division Mounted and Dismounted Color Guards Both Need You !

The Texas Division Dismounted Color Guard and the Texas Division Mounted Color Guard are both looking to enlist new recruits, They both present the colors at graveside memorials; conventions; Events & Festivals; and march in a parade or two in the greater DFW area.

Skills at drilling and marching are not required for the Dismounted Unit. Uniform is not required for the Mounted Unit. NCO or Enlisted uniforms are a necessity for the Dismounted Unit. A horse is a requirement for the Mounted Unit.

Both units have a fine core group but could use a few good Confederates to make sure they always have enough men to staff an event.

If you are interested in joining the Dismounted Unit contact Daniel Nation daniel\_nation@sbcglobal.net or (817) 246-4488.

If you are interested in joining the Mounted Unit contact Calvin Allen cal-allen@sbcglobal.net or (817) 304-0632

Jack Hinson The Lone Avenger by Jack Bowen

It is often interesting to find that when you research one story you somehow come across another story that is even more interesting. The story of Jack Hinson starts in 1862.

John W. “Jack” Hinson, better known as “Old Jack,” to his family owned a large prosperous plantation along the Kentucky-Tennessee border, known as Bubbling Springs in Stewart County. The War had been raging for two years, but somehow Hinson had managed to remain neutral, friendly to enlisted men and officers on both sides of the battle, even when one of his sons joined the Confederate Army and another joined a militia group.

After Ft Donelson fell to the Union, guerrilla attacks on Union soldiers and supporters increased and as a result it became policy to torture and execute any suspected bushwhackers without trial.

One late fall day two of Hinson’s sons-George, age 22; and John, age 17, went deer hunting about a mile from their home as they so often did. Unfortunately, they came across a Union patrol who suspected them of being bushwhackers. The two boys were tied to a tree then shot, after which their bodies were dragged back to town. There the corpses were paraded around the Dover courthouse as an example of the Union’s zero-tolerance policy toward resistance. The remains were then decapitated and left there, while the heads were brought to the Hinson plantation and placed on the gateposts of the front yard as a warning to other members of the family.

Jack Hinson was understandably shocked and outraged. After all, hadn’t the Union General himself, Ulysses S. Grant, once visited Hinson’s plantation as a guest? Whatever kindness Hinson may have felt toward the North instantly and completely evaporated—he swore revenge. But Hinson, being an older man, did not hastily run off to join the Confederate Army. Instead, he conceived a more calculated plan; one that would ultimately result in the deaths of many Union soldiers and sailors and had hundreds of federal troops eventually hunting him. Of Scottish-Irish descent, Jack could not let the murders of his sons go unpunished. He buried his children’s remains, then sent the rest of his family and slaves to West Tennessee to stay with relatives.

Hinson then commissioned a special rifle, built by a local blacksmith. A .50 caliber rifle, percussion-cap muzzle loader. Besides its lack of decorative brass ornamentation and weight of 18 pounds were intentional. The long, heavy octagonal barrel with a length of 41”, would make the gun an excellent long-range sniper rifle, and the plainness of the rifle would aid in its camouflage.

Jack Hinson-The Lone Avenger, continued

As to the octagonal shape, it was based on the Whitworth Rifle. With its hexagonal barrel, it could shoot farther (2,000 yards) and more accurately than the Pattern 1853 Enfield (1,400 yards) with its traditional round rifled barrel.

The first victim of Jack Hinson's new rifle was the lieutenant of the patrol that had killed Hinson's two sons. Hinson shot him from ambush while the lieutenant was riding horseback at the head of a column. Several months later, Hinson's second victim was the soldier who had placed Hinson's sons' heads on the plantation gateposts.

Moving into a cave above the Tennessee River, Jack became a bushwhacker at the age of 57.

The Tennessee and Cumberland rivers were major transport hubs, so Hinson frequented both. From his higher vantage points, he targeted Union boats, picking off captains and officers, as well as disrupting the flow of river traffic. Resting his heavy rifle on a rock or tree limb he would shoot men 500 or more yards away. An excellent marksman, he used only open sights and tallied more than 100 kills (31 circles were cut in the barrel of his rifle to mark the number of Union officers he killed).

Hinson's shooting was so accurate that one boat even stopped in mid-stream, dropped anchor, and surrendered to Hinson by running a white tablecloth up the signal mast. It was the first and only time in military history that an entire boat surrendered to a single man. When Hinson saw the white flag, he ceased fire, but had no idea what to do next. Neither did the boat captain. The boat remained motionless in the river for a time, but when no Confederate soldiers swarmed from the woods to take command, the captain eventually ordered the anchor raised and the ship to move on. The incident was one of the strangest of the War Between the States.

Though he remained apolitical, he began helping the Confederate Army. In November 1864, for example he guided Lieutenant General Nathan Bedford Forrest to Johnsonville to attack its Union supply center.

Jack Hinson's famous custom-made muzzle loading sniper rifle still exists. After passing through some half-dozen hands through the years, it is today owned by Judge Ben Hall McFarlin of Murfreesboro, Tennessee.

"Captain" Jack Hinson died on 28 April 1874 and lies buried in the family plot in Cane Creek Cemetery. Today, the region where Bubbling Springs plantation once stood is part of Land Between the Lakes National Recreation Area.

If you want to read the complete story of Jack Hinson, I suggest that you get a copy of the book Jack Hinson's One-Man War, written by Lt. Col. Tom C. McKenney (USMC retired), available through Pelican Publishing Co. Also, thanks to W. H. "Chip" Gross for information contained in this article.

The “Grape Shot” Revolver by Jack Bowen

Of all the revolvers identified with the Confederacy none attained the fame of the Le Mat, or “Grape Shot” revolver. While it lacked the simple mechanism and wearing qualities of the Colt, the criterion by which all the war revolvers were judged, the Le Mat was an ingenious and effective weapon and won instant popularity in the South.

The inventor of the Le Mat was Dr. Jean Alexander Francois Le Mat, a physician of New Orleans, who was an inventive genius. He was granted a patent by the United States on October 21, 1856 for his revolver but apparently none were made until the outbreak of the war. He was given a contract by the Confederate government for 5,000 of his revolvers.

Being unable to get the necessary machinery in the South, Le Mat took passage on the Trent, the same vessel which carried Mason and Slidell. Going to Paris, he began the manufacture of his 10-shot revolvers. Toward the latter part of the war, he entered into partnership with C. Girard, and evidence shows a branch factory was opened in England.

The Le Mat revolver contained a cylinder with chambers for nine ball cartridges of 42-caliber, the cylinder revolving on a center barrel shooting a 66-caliber grapeshot cartridge, all fired by percussion caps. After the war, the manufacture of Le Mat revolvers using metallic cartridges was carried on, but there is no evidence to show that they were made until after the close of the war.

The first of the Le Mat revolvers received in the Confederacy were presented to officers of high rank. In the Confederate Museum at Richmond are Le Mat revolvers used by Gen. J.E.B. Stuart, Gen. P.G.T. Beauregard, Gen. Patton Anderson, and others. How many of the weapons were made is uncertain, but a checkup of the specimens in public museums and private collections failed to show any with a serial number above 4,000, which would indicate the total number made did not exceed that.

Details of the Le Mat mechanism were changed frequently, and of half a dozen Le Mat weapons picked at random hardly more than two will be found alike. The marking also was changed. First, they were stamped on the barrel: “Le Mat’s Patent,” then “Col. Le Mat, Paris;” next, “Syst. Le Mat, Paris,” and finally “Le Mat & Girard Patent.” The last mentioned made in London.

Col. Payne’s record book shows four cases of Le Mat revolvers received June 16, five boxes received May 16, and four cases received July 27, 1864. Delivery of the revolvers must have begun early in the war; however, for the Richmond Whig of December 4, 1862, contains this advertisement:

The Whitworth Rifle by Jack Bowen

The Whitworth rifle was made in England and was imported by the Ordnance Bureau of the Confederate States at a cost of about $1,000, in the equivalent of gold, for each rifle and one thousand rounds of ammunition. A telescope, about ten inches long, fitted with lenses of great power and exquisite finish, could be instantly hinged upon the breech end of the barrel, the eye piece adjusted to be at the proper distance from the left eye of the rifleman.

The front, or object glass end of the telescope, was furnished with an arc sliding easily, but close, in a guide-piece fastened upon the barrel of the rifle. The axis of the telescope and that of the rifle barrel were exactly parallel in vertical line whatever the elevation of the muzzle; the aim was always made by sighting through the glass.

The cartridge was made with great care; the bullets of compressed lead, one and a half inches long, and of precisely uniform weight; the grains somewhat coarse, of uniform size finely glazed; the cartridge wrapped in parchment and coated with paraffine.

The men drilled in camp, and on the march, and even on the field of battle, in judging distances. They would be halted, for instance, and required to guess at the distance of a certain point ahead and then measure by steps on their way. When firing, these men were never in haste; the distance of a line of men, of a horse, an artillery ammunition chest, was carefully decided upon, the telescope adjusted along its arc to give the proper elevation; the rifle rested against a tree, across a log, or in the fork of the rest-stick carried for the purpose. The terrible effect of such weapons in the hands of men who had been selected, one only from each infantry brigade, because of his special merit as a soldier and skill as a marksman, can be imagined. They sent these bullets fatally 1200 yards and were unpleasant a mile off.

The first organization of Whitworth Sharpshooters was that of Cleburne's division at Wartrace, in 1863; afterward a corps comprising all the Whitworth Rifles in Bragg's army was organized near Chattanooga and did service until the end of the War. The third organization was made at Meridian, in the army of Gen. Johnston, afterward known as the Army of Mississippi, and after the death of Gen. Polk, as Stewart's Corps of the Army of Tennessee.

Trade Pounds for Dollars!

Is your Camp ready to accept our "weight loss challenge"? The Alamo City Guards Camp 1325 challenges all Camps in the Texas Division to a weight loss contest. The Camp that sheds the most pounds over the 3 month contest period will be given 3 free tickets to the Confederate Heroes Day Dinner in San Antonio on Jan 11, 2020. In addition, the winning Camp will also be given 2 free tickets to the Private Tour of the Alamo on the night before. We will meet at the historic Menger Hotel Main Bar (where Teddy Roosevelt recruited Rough Riders) and walk over to the Alamo where the original 1859 Alamo City Guards Flag is stored. During your stay feel free to visit the local Confederate Cemetery, the largest west of the Mississippi. Come walk where Bowie, Travis, Crockett, DeZavala, Muguara, Ford, Lee, Maverick, Longstreet, Hood, Thompson, Fisher, Roosevelt and many others walked. As Rip Ford once said, "come to San Antonio if you have the nerve".

Here are the rules: Participating Camps will send a $5 entry fee donation to our Camp Commander at address below payable to the Alamo City Guards. These entry fees will all go to support the Heroes Dinner. Participating Camps will select 3 members (no spouses or friends) to represent their Camp. Once selected they can not be changed. The names of the participating members are not necessary, just the weights. Each Camp will provide their starting weights (eg, Camp 1325: #1-220, #2-250, #3-300 = total 770) on Aug 1, Sept 1, Oct 1 and again finally on Nov 1. The Camp with the greatest total loss of pounds will be declared the winner. Our Camp will publish the monthly progress results to the Division for distribution and will place them on our website and Facebook pages. Send your entry data to our Newsletter editor, Christian Lee (c.lee.scv.acg.210@gmail.com).

We look forward to the competition. This will be our 4th Heroes Day Dinner. The 1st three were very well received and attended. This year our Speaker will be SCV CIC Paul Gramling. So, lets go Texans, saddle up and lets get this challenge started. Dinner and Alamo tour registration forms are published on our Camp website or can be obtained from Yancey Swearingen at sanantoniocandy@satx.rr.com. Good luck.

The Future Historian

In the future some historian shall come forth both strong and wise
With love of the republic and the truth before his eyes.
He will show the subtle causes of the War Between the States,
He will go back in his studies far beyond our modern dates,
He will trace out hostile ideas as the miner does his lodes,
He will show the different habits born of different social codes,
He will show the Union riven, and the picture will deplore,
He will see it reunited and made stronger than before.
Slow and patient, fair and truthful must the coming teacher be
To show how the knife was sharpened that was ground to prune the tree,
He will hold the scale of justice, he will measure praise and blame,
And the South will stand the verdict and will stand it without shame.

(written about 1880)

Why He Would Be a Confederate

Echoes of the South contain the following story of a little Southerner with his mother in a Brooklyn theater, when the play was Held by the Enemy.

During the intermission he asked: "What did the yankees fight for Mother?"

"For the Union, darling," was the answer.

Just then the curtain fell, and the orchestra struck up Marching Through Georgia. An expression filled with painful memories, brought up by the air, swept over the sad face of the mother.

After a brief pause, the little fellow asked: "What did the Confederates fight for, mother?"

The second question was hardly asked before the music changed, and the ever-thrilling strains of Home Sweet Home flooded the house with its depth of untold melody and pathos.

"Do you hear what they are playing?" she whispered. That is what the Confederates fought for, darling."

Then he asked quite eagerly: "Did they fight for their homes?"

"Yes dear; they fought for their homes.

Was it the touch of sorrow in the mother's voice? Was it the pathos of the soft, sweet notes of Home Sweet Home? Or was it the intuition of right? No matter. The little boy looked up at his mother with adoring eyes, burst into a flood of tears, and, clasping his arms around her protectingly, sobbed out: "O mother, I will be a Confederate!"

The mother's tears mingled with those of her true-hearted boy as she pressed him to her heart and repeated softly:

"Yes, they stood for home and honor;

Yes, they fought for freedom's name."

CHARGE TO THE SONS OF CONFEDERATE VETERANS

"To you, Sons of Confederate Veterans, we will commit the vindication of the cause for which we fought. To your strength will be given the defense of the Confederate soldier's good name, the guardianship of his history, the emulation of his virtues, the perpetuation of those principles which he loved and which you love also, and those ideals which made him glorious and which you also cherish."

Lt. General Stephen Dill Lee Commander-General United Confederate Veterans New Orleans, Louisiana 1906

Remember, it is our duty to see that the true history of the South is preserved and presented to future generations.

Until we meet again, let us remember our obligations to our forefathers, who gave us the undeniable birthright of our Southern Heritage and the vision, desire and courage to see it perpetuated.
