

4 Reasons Why Dogs Need Daycare

1. Dog Daycare is a creative outlet for dogs that become destructive at home. Instead of chewing on furniture, they run, play and wrestle with friends.

2. Dogs who get exposed to many different dogs on a regular basis, develop greater emotional intelligence (EQ). The dogs become socially skilled and well-rounded in dog daycare.

3. Many dogs come from high-energy breeds. These dogs need an outlet to express their high-energy nature, like dog daycare.

4. Dogs need interaction with humans and dogs to alleviate boredom and loneliness. Dog daycare is a great option for people who need a little help in their lives.
