

Player Policies

Crow Creek Volleyball Club

Club Mission

The goal of the program is to grow volleyball players, in skill and in character, as individuals and as teams. Competition drives excellence and provides opportunities to grow.

Playing time

As a competitive program, coaches are encouraged to organize their team and allocate playing time to compete at the highest level possible for the team. Playing time is under the sole direction of coaches, and no playing time is guaranteed for any player in matches or tournaments. Players are expected to be good teammates regardless of how much they play.

Conduct

The club expects coaches and players to treat everyone with respect, regardless of the situation or the behavior of others, including opposing teams and coaches, referees, teammates, and fans. The team should be an encouraging atmosphere where mistakes are tolerated and excellence is celebrated.

It is normal to be frustrated by an incorrect call by a referee, a decision by a coach, or a mistake by a teammate. Team captains may officially disagree with a referee and discuss calls, but anger directed at a referee, coach or another player is inappropriate.

We consider it unsportsmanlike behavior to attempt to gain an advantage over a team or a match through methods outside of volleyball. Examples are berating a referee or verbally intimidating members of an opposing team. The club and its members will not participate in these behaviors.

When in a match or a tournament, club teams will remain respectful, even if the opposition does not. Team cheers and celebrations should celebrate our success, not the opposition's failure. No rude communication or gestures targeted at the other team will be tolerated. Coaches are expected to remove disrespectful players from the match.
