Chapter One

As she sits in the office chair admiring her fresh manicure, the phone rings. "Ramirez Law Firm, this is Erica speaking," she says. "Hello Erica, my name is Cassie White, I am calling because I have an appointment with Attorney Ramirez at 2 o' clock today, I am going to be about five minutes late, will you please let him know," says the client. "Of course Cassie, I do see you scheduled at 2 o' clock, I will definitely give him the message, thank you for calling," says Erica; she hangs up the phone. She pushes herself backwards on the chair and walks to Attorney Jean Ramirez's office. "Hello, sir Ramirez, Cassie White just called and she is on her way, she is running behind about five to ten minutes," Erica says as she informs the attorney.

"Yes, thank you Erica, will you please bring me her file," Mr. Ramirez says. "Yes Sir, right away," says Erica. She goes over to the file cabinet and looks for Mrs. White's file, she finds it and brings it over to the attorney, he thanks her and she then goes back to her desk in the front of the office. She sits down on her chair and waits patiently for clients to call.
