

Wednesday 20th January 2021

Blog

I woke up early this morning feeling okish. I woke up late so I had 5 minutes to get changed before my taxi arrived. I got in my taxi, wore my mask and arrived at Enderby where the weird teachers were waiting for me at the door with what looked like a weird smiles on their faces – they are weiiiiird lunatics.

Aida was wearing her crazy pink outfit and yes the crown was on too, Rachel in her black clothes and jo was dressed in her teacher's clothes.

I took two covid test because Rachel said "two test makes 100%.. blablabla.." and then she gave me my morning treat (croissant). Then Aida started her annoying "its lesson time, look at the timetable..." I mean Jesus, who has turned her into military sergeant???

The day was ok but the best thing about the day was when Jennifer arrived, I went to hide because I thought she would come in but she came to the window and saw me and it was funny.

She came for the school meeting which Aida said was cancelled, so we had a meeting with ice creams and had to deal with Aida and Nathan being very emotional because Jennifer came to see her – Jesus!!!

Ah yes, we also watched a movie (well then end of one) – and I am coping well looking after the teachers's mental health.

By cc