

Friday 22nd January

LI: blog

Today is Friday and my teacher has asked me to write a review of my week with all the teachers here at Enderby.

Nathan, has been his normal self 'Mr Motivator' and I am not going into more description just imagine!

Jo, has been her normal self, strange and energetic and as for her Maths lessons, lets just say I have been traumatised with her weird teaching.

Rachel, has been Racheal enough said there.

Where as Aida keeps getting weirder as the weeks go on. This week she has burnt toast every day of the week as she likes eating it that way and in my eyes that's not normal behaviour. She has also cried and as for her outfits, they got odd and odd as the day progresses.

Jennifer turns up out of nowhere and makes us have a school meeting via a window but the good thing was Chloe got fed with magnum ice creams and I made sure Aida did not get one as she would be on the roof with all that sugar.

Glen comes and cleans then leaves and I don't think he ever talks.

Zoom meetings are stressful with everyone on it because u don't get to work it out before someone shouts out the answer.

Finally, Aida said that there was a surprise this afternoon involving cake and tea but I am not allowed to use the kettle unless I wear kitchen gloves and I blame Hayley for that.

From cc