

Royal Oak Celebrates 40 Years of Family Tradition

After 40 years of serving delicious steaks, ribs, Greek specialties and pizza to their loyal Surrey customers, Royal Oak Restaurant on Fraser Highway has a lot to celebrate.

You've got to be something pretty special to have a restaurant with that kind of longevity, but as soon as you open the front doors to the restaurant, and the delicious aromas of slowly crafted sauces and roasted meat begin to entice you, it's easy to understand why the family owned restaurant has been so successful.

Bill and sister Andrea are the second generation managing Royal Oak Restaurant for their father George Giannakopoulos. From their early beginnings in Burnaby (hence the name "Royal Oak") to North Delta, and finally settling in Fleetwood in 1978, the restaurant has become a family institution. Often you will see three generations of loyal patrons often taking up a large table to feast and celebrate.

Their menu is filled with traditional and beloved items, such as their various steak and seafood items, the Royal Oak local favourite Greek style Roast Lamb, extensive pasta selections and their hearty and cheesy pizzas.

Every day, the restaurant offers nightly specials. Weekends are particularly popular for prime rib lovers. Full of flavor, juicy and rarely found on menus — and many size options — it's a great reason to make Royal Oak your date night destination.

Visit Royal Oak — whether it's your first time or you've been here hundreds of times — come and discover the delicious difference that tradition makes.
