Hello

Luxury isn't just about price tags. It's about how a space feels the moment you walk in. These are my tried-and-true secrets I use when designing million-dollar homes (including my own 5000 sq ft home), and you can apply them no matter your budget. Enjoy!

1. Go High with Window Treatments 🪟
Hang curtains closer to the ceiling and extend the rod past the window frame. This instantly makes ceilings look taller and windows look wider.

2. Upgrade Your Hardware 🛠️
Swap builder-grade knobs and pulls for polished brass, matte black, or acrylic. This simple switch gives kitchens, baths, and furniture a custom, expensive feel.

3. Layer Luxe Textures 🧵
Boucle, velvet, natural wood, glass, and metal when you mix textures, you add depth and richness. Even small swaps, like a new throw or accent pillow, make the space feel elevated.

4. Use Large-Scale Art 🎨
Tiny frames make a space feel small. Go for oversized art or create a statement gallery wall to add sophistication and drama.

5. Mirror the Light 🪞
Strategically place mirrors across from windows or light sources. They amplify natural light, make rooms look bigger, and bring instant glam.

6. Style in Threes 📚

When styling tables or shelves, use the "rule of three." Group items of varying heights and textures...think candle + greenery + book stack for that designer look.

7. Focus on Lighting Layers 💡

Luxury spaces always have more than one light source. Mix ceiling lights, sconces, floor lamps, and candles to create warm, inviting layers.

8. Add Architectural Details 🏛️

Think crown molding, wainscoting, or even a simple board-and-batten wall. These elements make any space feel custom and high-end.

9. Curate a Signature Scent 🕯️

Luxury is multi-sensory. Use candles, diffusers, or fresh flowers to create a "home scent" that greets guests the second they walk in.

10. Keep It Cohesive 🎯

Consistency is key. Use a tight color palette throughout your home so every room flows into the next this is the secret to a polished, magazine-worthy look.
