-What do you call a joke that isn't funny? A sentence.

- What do you call a can opener that doesn't work? A can't opener.

- All I ask is a chance to prove that money can't make me happy.

- You know what they say about a clean desk: It's a sure sign of a cluttered desk drawer.

Legion

This past week, our student guides laid wreaths at the Gueudecourt Newfoundland Memorial in France and the Courtrai Newfoundland Memorial in Belgium.

These sites honour the bravery of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment during the First World War and serve as powerful reminders of their sacrifices. For many Newfoundlanders and Labradorians, these memorials represent places of deep historical and personal meaning. Lest we forget.

The Early Years (1600s-1800s)

The Canadian Army draws on a heritage of colonial militias dating back to the earliest European settlements in North America. For several generations prior to Confederation in 1867, Canada was garrisoned by British and French military units. European powers proved reluctant to fund a large standing army in Canada so, as settlers moved across Lower Canada, Upper Canada and the Prairies, small community-based Militia companies were established for local protection. These were comprised of local men as well as veterans of previous wars who were granted land in Canada.

The 2025 Poppy Campaign

Every year, from the last Friday of October to November 11, tens of millions of Canadians wear a Poppy as a visual pledge to honour Canada's Veterans and remember those who sacrificed for the freedoms we enjoy today.

The Poppy is distributed freely to all who wish to wear one, and the Legion gratefully accepts donations to the Poppy Fund.
