On July 5, 1916, No. 2 Construction Battalion was formed in Pictou, Nova Scotia. It was the largest Black military unit in Canadian history. Approximately 800 personnel served with the battalion at some point during the #FirstWorldWar. The segregated unit performed non-combat support roles in Canada, the United Kingdom and eastern France. After the end of the First World War in November 1918, its men sailed to Halifax to return to civilian life. The unit was officially disbanded in 1920.

🔗 This month, we invite you to discover the stories of Black Canadians in uniform:

-Why shouldn't you marry a calendar? Its days are numbered.

-What do you call people who sleep in their socks? Tiny.

-Why was the broom late for school? It over-swept.

-How much do you pay deer for a day's work? A hundred bucks.

-Why don't trees watch scary movies? They get petrified.

-What does a house wear? Address.

Poster and Literary Contest winners from John Paul 11 and High Park Schools.

A student decided to donate her award monies back to the Poppy Fund, when she found out that the Fund operates largely on donations. The student was one of the winners from High Park School.

There is still Memorial Composite to do, which is scheduled for February 26th. Thanks to all who entered great job done by all.
