A lot can happen in 58 years. That's how long Canadian peacekeepers have served in Cyprus – one of our country's longest-running peacekeeping missions. During that time, they've had many different jobs to do. Patrolling the Green Line, a buffer zone splitting the island in two. Protecting the Nicosia airport from invading troops trying to capture it. Investigating ceasefire violations. Delivering humanitarian aid. Driving around in scout cars during one of the island's dusty summers. There were times they held strong during fierce fighting and other stretches of relative peace and stability. Through it all, our peacekeepers have been an ongoing presence in Cyprus. Learn more: <http://ow.ly/1Qqh50HytPv>

Little Johnny was with his mom as she was driving her old beat-up car on the Highway.

She tried to keep up with traffic but they were flying by her.

After getting caught in a large group of cars flying down the road she looked at her speedometer to see she is doing 15 miles over the speed limit.

Slowing down she moved over to the side to let the group of cars get ahead.

She looked up and saw the flashing lights of a police car.

Pulling over she waited for the officer to come up to her car.

As he did he said,

“Ma’am, do you know why I pulled you over?”

Little Johnny piped up from the back seat,

“I do! It’s because you couldn’t catch the other cars.”
