Enclosed is information about recording mining claims in Idaho. While there is no general map of existing claims or areas open to mineral entry, we do have surface status maps that indicate BLM, Forest, State of Idaho, and privately-owned lands. A map index is included at the back of this booklet to help you identify the map and BLM District Office that covers your area of interest.

BLM records of land status in Idaho, called Master Title Plats (MTPs), are available for inspection at the Idaho State Office or the BLM District Offices for their management area. These plats show the ownership of lands, and whether or not lands are open to mineral entry. You need to know the legal land description (township, range, section) of the area in question in order to use these records. Paper copies of the MTPs may be purchased for $1.10 each. MTPs are also available for viewing at <http://www.glorerecords.blm.gov/> under the Land Status Records link.

The official files for mining claims in Idaho are maintained at the Idaho State Office. These files contain location notices, claim maps, and other recorded documents. Copies of documents in these files are available for a small fee.

Information about unpatented mining claims can be viewed on the Land and Mineral LR2000 web page at <https://www.blm.gov/lr2000/>. You can search by owner name, mining claim name, serial number assigned to each claim (IMC number), or legal land description (meridian, township, range, section). The legal land description is required when searching for claims in a specific area. A combination of these records and the applicable County's records should be reviewed to be certain about which lands are available for locating mining claims.

We have supplies of the current Maintenance Fee Waiver Certification (BLM Form 3830- 2) and suggested formats for the Mining Claim Location Notice, Affidavit of Assessment of Work, Notice of Intent to Hold, Maintenance Fee Payment, and Relinquishment.

The Public Room is open Monday through Friday, 9:00 am to 4:00 pm, except Federal holidays. We can also be reached by phone at 208-373-3889, or fax 208-373-3899.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

1. What are "locatable minerals"?

The Mining Law of 1872, as amended, is the major Federal law governing locatable minerals. This law allows U.S. citizens the opportunity to explore for, discover, and purchase certain valuable mineral deposits on Federal lands that are open for mining claim location (open to mineral entry). These mineral deposits include most metallic mineral deposits and certain nonmetallic and industrial minerals. The law sets general standards and guidelines for claiming the possessory right to a valuable mineral deposit discovered during exploration. The Mining Law allows for the enactment of state laws governing location and recording to mining claims and sites consistent with Federal law. Federal regulations implementing the Mining Law, including fee schedules, are found at Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations \(CFR\) in Groups 3700 and 3800.

Originally, all minerals except for coal were obtained under the General Mining Laws, however, Congress has removed certain minerals from the operation of the General Mining Law.

- Leasable Minerals. Since 1920, the Federal Government has leased fuels and certain other minerals. Leasable minerals today include oil and gas, oil shale, geothermal resources, potash, sodium, native asphalt, solid and semisolid bitumen, bituminous rock, phosphate, and coal. Sulfur is leasable on public lands in Louisiana and New Mexico.
- Mineral Materials. Since 1947, the Federal Government has sold common varieties of sand, gravel, stone, pumice, pumicite, cinders, and ordinary clay. Use of salable minerals requires either a sales contract or a free use permit. The Forest Service administers the disposal of salable minerals from National Forest System lands.

2. What is a mining claim?

A mining claim is a selected parcel of Federal land, valuable for a specific mineral deposit or deposits, for which you have asserted a right of possession under the Mining Law. Your right is restricted to the development and extraction of a mineral deposit. The rights granted by a mining claim protect against a challenge by the United States and other claimants only after the discovery of a valuable mineral deposit. The two types of mining claims are lode and placer. In addition, mill sites and tunnel sites may be located to provide support facilities for lode and placer mining claims (43 CFR Part 3832). Generally speaking, a mining claim is referred to as a "lode claim" if mineralization occurs as a vein of ore in place, or as a "placer claim" if minerals are dispersed among particles of sand or gravel. A millsite is used to process locatable minerals.

3. Who may locate mining claims? (43 CFR 3830.3)

- United States citizens who have reached the age of discretion, which in Idaho is 18
- Legal immigrants who have filed an application for citizenship
- Business entities organized under the law of any state
- Duly constituted and appointed agents acting on behalf of locators listed above

4. Can I file a mining claim on any Federal land?

Not all Federal lands are open for mining claims. Mining locations may be made in the States of Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Louisiana, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming. In these States, the BLM manages the public lands and the Forest Service manages the National Forest System lands. The BLM is responsible for the locatable minerals on both public lands and National Forest System lands.

You may prospect and locate claims and sites on lands open to mineral entry. "Open to mineral entry" means that the land is open to the location of mining claims or sites under the General Mining Law. Claims may not be staked in areas closed to mineral entry by a special act of Congress, regulation, or public land order – areas that are withdrawn from the operation of the mining laws. Areas withdrawn from location of mining claims include National Parks, National Monuments, Indian reservations, most reclamation projects, military reservations, scientific testing areas, most wildlife protection areas (such as Federal wildlife refuges), and lands withdrawn from mineral entry for other reasons. Lands withdrawn from power development may be subject to mining location and entry only under certain conditions. Mining claims may not be located on lands that have been:

- designated by Congress as part of the National Wilderness Preservation System
- designated as a wild portion of a Wild and Scenic River, or
- withdrawn by Congress for study as a Wild and Scenic River. There is usually a 1/4-mile buffer zone withdrawn from location of mining claims on either side of a river while the river is being studied for inclusion in the Wild and Scenic Rivers System

Locatable (hard-rock) minerals on most lands acquired by the United States and on Indian reservations are leasable. The Bureau of Indian Affairs is responsible for leasing minerals on Tribal lands and lands held in trust for the benefit of individual American Indians.

5. How do I locate mining claims or sites? (43 CFR 3832.11)

- (a) You must follow both state and Federal law.
- (b) Your lode or placer claim is not valid until you make a discovery within the boundaries of the claim.
- (c) To locate a claim or site, you must—
 - (1) Make certain that the land on which you are locating the claim or site is Federal land that is open to mineral entry
 - (2) Stake and monument the corners of a mining claim or site which meets applicable state monumenting requirements and the size limitations described in §3832.22 for lode and placer claims, §3832.32 for mill sites, and §3832.42 for tunnel sites;
 - (3) Post the notice of location in a conspicuous place on the claim or site. The notice must include:
 - (i) The name or names of the locators;
 - (ii) The date of the location; and
 - (iii) A description of the claim or site;
 - (iv) The name or number of the claim or site, or both, if the claim or site has both;
 - (4) Record the notice or certificate of location in the local recording office and the BLM State Office with jurisdiction according to the procedures in part 3833;
 - (5) Follow all other relevant state law requirements; and
 - (6) Comply with the specific requirements for lode claims, placer claims, mill sites, or tunnel sites in this part.

6. Can I start mining after I file my mining claim?

BLM Lands - Exploration, mining, and mineral processing activities involving locatable minerals on BLM-administered land are controlled by the regulations at 43 CFR Subparts 3715 and 3809 and in Wilderness Study Areas, 43 CFR Subpart 3802. Operators are required by these regulations to prevent unnecessary and undue degradation or avoid impairment of wilderness characteristics. Casual use activities are those that would cause negligible disturbance; such as collection of rock and mineral specimens with hand tools, hand panning and not involving mechanized equipment or explosives. Advanced contact with the BLM Field Office may be required for those intending to conduct casual use in areas where the cumulative effects of casual use may cause more than negligible disturbance. For activities other than casual use, operators are required to either submit a notice or a plan of operations. Notices are submitted for exploration activities covering five acres or less and the removal of bulk samples of less than 1,000 tons of presumed ore for testing. Exploration on tunnel sites would typically require the filing of a notice. Notices are filed with the appropriate BLM Field Office. A plan of operations is required for any exploration that would disturb more than five acres, involve bulk sampling of 1,000 tons of more of presumed ore for testing, and for operations greater than casual use in special status areas as listed at 3809.11(c). A plan of operations is typically required for operations on mill sites. Plans are filed with the appropriate Field Office.

Use and occupancy of the public lands in association with the development of locatable mineral deposits must be approved by the appropriate BLM Field Office; see 43 CFR Subpart 3715. The location of a mining claim, mill site or tunnel site does not give the claimant an exclusive right to surface resources of the claim or site.

National Forest System lands - Exploration and mining activities on lands administered by the Forest Service are subject to the regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture in 36 CFR 228(A). A notice of intent to operate is required from any person proposing to conduct operations which might cause significant disturbance of surface resources. Such notice of intent to operate shall be submitted to the district ranger having jurisdiction over the area in which the operations will be conducted. Each notice of intent to operate shall provide information sufficient to identify the area involved, the nature of the proposed operations, the route of access to the area of operations, and the method of transport. Miners wishing to prospect or locate claims or sites in National Forests should contact the local Forest Service District Ranger concerning questions about operating plans.

7. How do I transfer a mining claim or site?
(43 CFR 3833.32)

- (a) State law governs transferring mining claims or sites. A transfer is effective in the manner and on the date provided by state law, not the date you file it with BLM.
- (b) You must file in the BLM State Office a notice of the transfer that includes:
 - (1) The name and, if available, the serial number BLM assigned to the claim or site when the notice or certificate of location was originally recorded (the person who transferred you ownership or legal interest should have this number);
 - (2) Your name and current mailing address; and
 - (3) A copy of the legal instrument or document that you used to transfer the interest in the claim or site under state law.
- (c) For each mining claim or site transferred, each transferee must pay the full processing fee specified in the table of service charges and fees in §3830.21 of this chapter.
- (d) BLM will notify the claimant of record with BLM of any action it takes regarding a mining claim or site. If BLM is required by law to give a claimant notice of any new legal requirements, BLM has properly given notice by sending the notice to the claimant of record with BLM.

8. How may I transfer, sell, or otherwise convey an association placer mining claim?
(43 CFR 3833.33)

You may transfer, sell, or otherwise convey an association placer mining claim at any time to an equal or greater number of mining claimants. If you want to transfer an association placer claim to an individual or an association that is smaller in number than the association that located the claim, you—

- (a) Must have discovered a valuable mineral deposit before the transfer; or
- (b) Upon notice from BLM, you must reduce the acreage of the claim, if necessary, so that you meet the 20-acre per locator limit.

MINING CLAIM OR SITE FILING REQUIREMENTS

An Assessment Year runs from September 1st to September 1st

EXAMPLE: 2018 Assessment Year is Sept. 1, 2017 to Sept. 1, 2018

You must pay an annual maintenance fee, or file a Maintenance Fee Waiver Certification (BLM Form 3830-2) on or before September 1st of each year. To qualify for a waiver, all owners and related parties must own 10 or fewer mining claims/sites nationwide.

AND

If you file a waiver, you are required to perform $100 worth of labor on mining claims during the assessment year for which you requested a waiver from the maintenance fee (i.e. between Sept 1–Sept 1).

AND

Once you complete the labor, you are required to file an Affidavit of Assessment Work by the December 30 immediately following the ending of the assessment year for which you requested a waiver.

If you switch from paying the maintenance fee to filing a waiver, you must file a Notice of Intent to Hold by December 30 immediately following your waiver filing.

If you located and recorded a claim in the current assessment year, the maintenance fee was paid for the current assessment year and you are not required to perform labor. You are only required to perform labor during the assessment year for which you filed for a waiver from the maintenance fee.

If you located a claim in one assessment year and recorded it with the BLM the following assessment year, you are required to pay the initial maintenance fee for the assessment year in which the claim was located AND pay the maintenance fee for the current assessment year (in which you recorded the claim with the BLM); or file a qualifying waiver simultaneously when you pay the initial maintenance fee for the assessment year in which the claim was located.

EXAMPLE: Location date is July 15 and filed with the BLM on Sept. 15

If you have a Mill Site or a Tunnel Site and you request a waiver from the maintenance fees, you are not required to perform labor. However, each year you are required to file a Notice of Intent to Hold by December 30 following the filing of a waiver.

NOTE:

- The terms “Proof of Labor” and “Affidavit of Assessment Work” are interchangeable. The terms “Waiver” and “Maintenance Fee Waiver Certification” are interchangeable.
