Central Operating Lines, Ltd. is the oldest not-for-profit "O" Scale model railroad club on Long Island. We began operating in 1976, in Holtsville, New York. Members were keen on developing a railroad that they can share with visitors who come to the club.

Original construction in 1976, created a block system for multiple train running. It was the type of work of that period. Lionel trains were all the rage and the membership built an incredible layout. It was, for the most part, ahead of its time! Due to lease issues, the club has had to move several time throughout its existence. We have been in Holtsville, Holbrook, Babylon. For 18 years the club was located next to MacArthur Airport in Ronkonkoma.

We are now located in Bohemia, New York. We have been here since 2012. Sadly, much of the old layout was destroyed in the move to Bohemia. However, this allowed our club to take advantage of the current technology of model railroading. Our club uses the most current track and electronics. We can run our model trains in conventional mode, command control, Lionel Legacy and of course MTH DCS system!
