

ART TANK.

Please Read, Discuss and Sign in Agreement the ART TANK Studio Disposition Agreement.

Below is a list of ART TANK'S adopted rules. Each of these rules were drawn-up, discussed and added to the Disposition Statement by the first artists of ART TANK. We at ART TANK are a growing family and since we are always receiving new artists, it was a collective decision in studio that we create a Studio Disposition Agreement. This agreement will be physically represented on our Studio on our door and all who enter the ART TANK space will be asked to honor, follow, and respect these terms.

#1 -Stay Safe

Our studio is not very big, there is no room for running or rough-housing in our space. No one is to go under the studio table, unless to grab something that has potentially rolled under it. No one is to leave the studio unless the artist has permission from facilitator. X-Acto knife use will require all artists participation in and passing of a use/safety test. All understand and assume there is always risk of injury present when using this and other art tools. Artists are not to wander into areas beyond the studio boundaries; not to wander into areas of the private home or into rooms where the door is closed.

#2 -NO SUGAR!!!

No artificial sources of sugar permitted (period). Studio provides fresh organic fruit (apples, clementines, bananas) for all her artists to enjoy. On extended workshop days, when artists bring a lunch, heavily sugared treats are to remain at home. Sugar has been scientifically proved to invite varying effects within the human brain. It has been observed that when some children consume sugar their behaviors can become altered by the substance. Being that everyone's safety is number one, sugar in any form other than naturally occurring (i.e. the sugars produced in fruits/veggies) is not invited into studio. We choose to avoid this potential ingredient for disaster, thusly SUGAR is never welcome at ART TANK.

#3 Mindfulness of Speech and Peer Engagement

We aim not to talk about others who are not present. We aim to honor individual boundaries and choose to respect all our ART TANK artists. We do not use harsh or demeaning language with one another. We do not say the word "HATE" as Detchen Foxx finds this word to be one of the most harmful of all words known. We do not gossip. We promote loving-kindness.

#4 Respect and P.A.U.S.E.

Our aim when together is to become the ART TANK; a group of bodies who look to gather, discover and express via the arts. Respecting each other, our space and our intention is critical if we are to arrive at Purposefully, Attentively, Uniting, Self and Expression (PAUSE). To be the ART TANK, we must honor our purpose. Collective Respect is a good starting point. Communication, Kindness, Acceptance and Forgiveness can all be better met and navigated when respect has first been agreed upon. I agree to honor the list of rules.

Both Parents and ART TANK artists are asked to sign this Studio Disposition Agreement and return it to Detchen Foxx. Thank you!
