

Eley Enforcement Entertainment Breaks Barriers, Merges Spirituality and Hip Hop For Revolutionary and Empowering Message

ELEY ENFORCEMENT ENTERTAINMENT, LLC·WEDNESDAY, MAY 6, 2020·

Fayetteville, NC – Eley Enforcement Entertainment, LLC is a ministry-based indie entertainment company connecting music and spirituality, and led by Myreah and Marcus Eley, a rapper, singer, songwriter, author, blogger, and bible study duo. After experiencing personal hardships and struggles, including the loss of Marcus' father in recent weeks, Myreah and Marcus have not changed their plans or stopped working. Focusing on their creativity and artistic talents, the duo has announced the release of a short home-filmed music video.

Recorded from a smartphone, Myreah and Marcus made this low-budget video despite the restrictions of the COVID-19 pandemic and profound personal tragedy. Utilizing Myreah's sister as a necessary extra, the duo released the music video on social media and YouTube, stirring laughter and positive reactions from early viewers around the world. Leaving audiences inspired, empowered, and stronger, listeners have been left ready to conquer whatever is thrown their way.

“I want to bridge the gap between spirituality and Hip Hop culture,” remarked Marcus Eley. “I want to be a vessel to show that there are no limits on how to express your love for Christ. Being a Christian doesn't mean you have to conform to “traditional” methods of worship.”

In the coming months, Eley Enforcement Entertainment, LLC, is undertaking a variety of creative and artistic projects to connect the worlds of spirituality and hip hop. These include plans to release a four-song EP, Fire And Brimstone, on April 30, 2020, a first official album, Pandemic, on May 31, 2020, and to continue developing an exciting YouTube series, Behind The Bars, which breaks down the meaning of the most powerful lyrics in the music industry.

Additionally, Eley Enforcement Entertainment, LLC will continue to support The 16 Project, a movement created to give artists an outlet and opportunity to utilize art to speak up and speak out. Organized for dancers, painters, singers, rappers, actors, and other artists, each is encouraged to harness the power of video and imagery to express feelings about realities in the world around us in support of rights, causes, or charities.

Furthermore, as a supporter of ministry and music, Eley Enforcement Entertainment, LLC offers an online Weekly Bible Study that provides an informative experience with an open floor discussion amongst leaders and attendees. The studio spearheads a Suicide Awareness Movement for at-risk groups, especially during self-isolation, and a prayer request service for those needing extra support during such challenging and unprecedented times.

“Being a perfectionist has its pros and cons, but I wouldn’t change a thing,” Myreah Eley stated. “If that means staying up all night to get the track right, hello dark circles!”

Family-owned and operated, Eley Enforcement Entertainment shares common beliefs and views on spirituality and music and is excited to share those empowering messages with audiences around the world. Teaching the values of hard work, professionalism, and the importance of fulfilling God’s Plan, this indie entertainment company based in Fayetteville, North Carolina, is staying true to its mission each day.

“We just want His Will to be done in our lives and in this world, and we want to glorify Him with the gifts He has given us.”
