STILL TRYING TO HIDE FROM GOD

By: Alan Adams

If the Theory of Evolution be true, it must conform to and explain reality. Man possesses qualities that are not common to the rest of the world; rather they are unique only to him. Such attributes as the intellectual, moral, emotional, aesthetic, psychological, spiritual, etc. Each of these qualities is a part of man, and yet all are separate from his physical person. One might dissect a human brain, but he will never locate the mind. He might observe a beating heart, but he will never surgically locate love and compassion. He might explore the entire human body, but he will never locate the conscience that cries out in pain when violated. How does evolution, a completely materialistic philosophy, account for these transcendent and immaterial qualities of man? It doesn't and it can't.

How can matter have a sense of "oughtness"? How can it feel the need, in many cases, to sacrifice itself for the benefit of others? What of "right," "wrong," "beauty," "justice," and "worship"? Not only does evolution have life coming from non-life, and the organic from inorganic, it also has "...the immaterial [coming] from the material, the spiritual from the non-spiritual. And, this doesn't make any sense."

Evolution is in no sense "science." It is a philosophy, a view of the world, which seeks, like all philosophies, to explain the world and man's place in it. It is a false philosophy just as surely as that of "the Epicurean and Stoic philosophers" (Acts 17:18) was false. It is false precisely because it contradicts reality. Upon closer examination, evolution, it turns out, is not "science's attempt to explain" things, rather it is an attempt, on the part of man, to get God and moral responsibility out of the picture. Trying to get away from God is a practice as old as man himself. Regarding the first couple, Scripture says, "the man and his wife hid themselves from the presence of Jehovah God amongst the trees of the garden" (Genesis 3:8). Some people today are trying to do the same thing "amongst the trees of evolution," which trees are of their own invention.
