

"Thank you, Dr. Fogg, for your dedication to undergraduate research—and congratulations on this well-deserved recognition."

Undergraduate Research Mentor Award
At California Lutheran University, at the College of Arts and Sciences' October Student Research Symposium, the university community celebrated Dr. Julia Fogg's exceptional contributions with the 2024 Undergraduate Research Mentor Award.

Dr. Fogg has transformed undergraduate research opportunities in the humanities, expertly tackling the unique challenges of engaging students in this field. Under her guidance, the Religion Department has become a model for summer undergraduate research engagement. Her innovative approach has created meaningful student research experiences while championing a wider representation of humanities scholarship in undergraduate research.

Dr. Fogg's impact extends beyond individual student success to strengthen our entire Cal Lutheran research community.